394 County Farms Use ACP in 1963

Agricultural Conservation Program practices were carried out on 394 farms in Pennington county in 1963, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. This compares with about 345 farms participating in 1962. A total of 18,378 acres of farmland were affected by these ACP practices.

The total number of farms participating in ACP throughout the nation in 1963 was again well over one million.

Under the 1963 Agricultural Conservation Program, conservation measures on 394 county farms represented a total investment of around $159,884. ACP cost-sharing amounted to about half this much.

Program practices completed on participating farms included establishment of permanent vegetative cover on 8,867 acres of cropland on 301 farms in the county. Windbreaks were established on 6 farms; grass cover was established on 239,000 square feet of ditch banks; drainage was constructed on 7,405 acres of cropland on 96 farms in the county; 154 acres of winter cover crop for soil protection was carried out; and 1,932 acres of stubble mulch was performed on 10 farms in the county. The latter practice is to prevent the blowing or drifting of soil. Ten acres of grains were seeded on two farms in the county for wildlife food purposes. One shallow water area was developed on one farm in the county for wildlife habitat. Water pits were constructed on 33 farms in the county. In some instances one or more practices were performed on the farms listed above.

The ACP for 1964 - the 29th program year - is now well under way. In Pennington county, 514 farmers have already requested ACP cost-sharing to help expand soil, water, woodland and wildlife conservation work on their land.

The chairman said that where the farmer intends carrying out such conservation measures as spring seeding practices on his farm this year, the practices should be installed not later than July 15.

Red Lake Indians Get $1,797,761 in U.S. Appropriation

Funds Voted As Result of Claims Filed by Red Lake and Pembina Bands

Red Lake and Pembina bands of Chippewa Indians will receive a total appropriation of $2,034,889 as a result of action taken last week by the U. S. House of Representatives. Of the total, the Red Lake band will receive $1,797,761 and the Pembina band will receive $237,127, according to Congressman Odin Langen.

Roger Jourdain, chairman of the tribal council of the Red Lake band, told the Times last week that the appropriation is a result of a claim filed by the bands for lands sold in the 1863 treaty signed at Huot. A settlement of 45 cents per acre, proposed by the Indian claims commission in October of 1961, was rejected by the two bands and the decision was appealed to the court of claims, Jourdain said. An increased appropriation resulted from the appeal.

It is not known at this time when the funds will be allocated to the bands, the tribal council chairman added. He said that distribution of the funds will be handled jointly by the tribal councils, bureau of Indian affairs and the U. S. Department of the Interior.

Congressman Langen advised the Times last week that the House of Representatives had "approved the conference report on the deficiency appropriations bill" and added that "included in the bill, per request, is $2,034,889 for the payment of the claim against the U. S. government by the Red Lake and Pembina bands of Chippewa Indians."

Klopp-Renz Wedding Vows Spoken June 6

Miss Bonita Marie Klopp of Grand Forks, N. D. became the bride of Richard C. Renz of Warren in an evening nuptial service June 6 at Alma Lutheran church.

Miss Klopp is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Klopp of Argyle, and Mr. Renz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Renz of Warren.

In a setting of candlelight, the couple exchanged their vows, prompted by Rev. E. Borchert, who used the double-ring ritual. Miss Marian Olson presided at the organ and John Olson, vocal soloist, rendered, "O Promise Me," and "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Me." Dianne Renz offered a flute solo, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's attire was a gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, tapered fingertip sleeves, and a full skirt of lace with inserts of tulle and appliqued accents. She carried a bouquet of lavender orchids and stephanotis. Her veil, falling from a Swedish crown of pearls with rosebus illusion, was of fingertip length.

Her attendants were her sister, Mrs. Jean Mathews of Alabama, as matron of honor, and Dianna Renz of Grand Fork?s, N. D., a sister of the bridegroom, who served as bridesmaid. Their gowns were of lavender organza and were detailed with scoop necklines, and back overshirt paneling. Both wore matching shoes and gloves and carried white gardenias. KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. MILTON REIERSON

A high, lovely, and scrumptious dessert, especially timely at this season, is this strawberry delight, the recipe for which was supplied by Mrs. Milton Reierson. It may seem a bit expensive at first glance, but Mrs. Reierson says that she has served as many as 18 guests from this single recipe, which reduces the cost per serving to the point where it isn't at all prohibitive.

FRESH STRAWBERRY DESSERT

1 pkg. vanilla wafers
¾ cup soft butter
1½ cups powdered sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 pint cream, whipped
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 quart fresh strawberries, slightly sweetened (the frozen ones, obtainable without syrup, in a polyethylene bag, are also suitable. They should be slightly frozen when used.

Line a 13X9-inch cake pan with two-thirds of the crushed wafers. Cream together the butter, sugar, and beaten egg yolks. Fold in the beaten egg whites. Spread this mixture over the crushed wafers in the pan. Sprinkle with a layer of crushed walnuts. Halve strawberries, and place in a layer over the nuts. Put the remaining nuts over this layer, and cover with the whipped cream, which has been sweetened slightly. Sprinkle with the remaining crushed wafers. Chill. Cut into 18 or fewer serving-sized squares, and be prepared for compliments.

The Reiersons have three sons, Ricky, who will be a junior in high school this year; Roger, who is in the eighth grade, and Ronnie, 9, who will be a fourth-grader; and a daughter, Debbie Jean, who will enter kindergarten this fall.

Their mother, always active, is this summer involved in plans for the reunion of her class, (class of 1944) which will take place July 10 and 11. She does a bit of golfing, and also some bowling. She is assistant vice-president of the ladies aid at the Community Methodist church this year, and expects these outside activities to keep her very busy. This is quite understandable, what with a growing family to care for in addition to ends they like to hie away to the Union Lake cottage of her mother, Mrs. Rose Froseth, and when she is at home she likes to sew clothes for her daughter and some items of her own wardrobe. She frankly states that cooking is a source of much satisfaction to her.

The boys are all avid baseball fans, a regular bunch of "sandlotters", their mother tells us. Mr. Reierson, who is secretary-treasurer at First Federal Savings and Loan Association, finds it pleasurable to take the boys golfing with him. It sounds like the good life which so many of our area inhabitants enjoy.

The Library Corner

... by Virginia Gjernes

Book Friend Roget's "Thesaurus" does not list one as synonomous with the other...and grammatically, they aren't...but basically, they are. Aren't they?

A book gives so much, and asks nothing in return. A book tells all, but reveals nothing about you! A book whiles away the hours, but never wastes a moment of your time. A book will answer your questions and provoke strenuous thoughts but will never disagree...at least, not out loud. You can turn on the light at two in the morning, reach for a book and insomnia becomes the least of your worries. What friend can you call at two and expect a happy response?

A book is, indeed, a friend...for no matter what your interests, there is always a book at your library to fill your need for companionship.

Baseball might be high on your list...if it is, "You Can't Beat the Hours" by Mel Allen and Ed Fitzgerald is on the shelf just for you! The subtitle "A Long, Loving Look at Big-League Baseball—Including Some Yankees I Have Known" describes the contents.

Should you be asking a few questions, and not finding suitable answers from your ironies about the book of the same title by Ralph H. Wherry and Monroe Newman; the authors are on the teaching staff of Pennsylvania State University. The former is head of the Department of Commerce and Management and the latter is professor of economics. The book gives the whys and wherefores and explains each. Those planning insurance programs will benefit greatly from this well-written, interesting volume about a much-discussed but generally-not-too-well-understood - by - the-layman subject.

If the years seems to be creeping up quickly - maybe too quickly - read "Reflections on Growing Old" by John LaFarge, S. J. The author, in his 81th year, knows his subject! The thoughts expressed by him so fluently, are treasures to pack away in the back of your mind...and take out and enjoy every now and then...no matter what your age! Anyone from twenty-odd to old will reap great harvests from the wise and practical thought the book contains.

Maybe your reading tastes turn to something with thoughts a little less plotty...if so, "Frame-up" by Andrew Garve is for you. This novel of suspense deals with the last will and testament of a certain character, by the name of John Lumsden who left this world for the next with the help of....read the book and find out!

Are you a salesman? Are you a sales manager Joseph Rothman's "The Surest Way to a Sale" is the book for you (it is a good one for all those who buy, too!) Learn how to make more sales with fewer calls. The author describes the sure-fire guided-conference method. Read the book, then go out and sell the world!

An excellent novel by Robert Geiger is "Ask For Me Tommorrow" ...and one sure to please you if you care for the romance of the medical world, especially when it is entwined with just plain romance (man, woman variety!!). The author, an orthopedic surgeon, is a Californian by birth, a doctor by choice and has been writing since 1957 and practices the medical profession in southern California.

Are you an animal lover? Try "The Bear Went Over the Mountain". The book is a collection of funny tales about animals written by some of America's greatest humorists...Twain, Thurber, Lardner, Benchley, H. A. Smith and other greats in the field. Robert B. Downs has done the collecting and the editing. The task took him more than 30 years! If hilarity is what you want...this is it! Insomnia will be a pleasure with this beside you!

Other new books arrive (and are checked out) rapidly. Should you come in and not find your choice, ask. If they're out, we'll be glad to put them on "reserve" for you.

See you at the Library most any afternoon.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Carolyn Offerdahl

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

More and more families are discovering the enjoyment and pleasure of cooking food outdoors. The back yard and nearby state and roadside parks have become favorite cooking sites.

Meals cooked and eaten outdoors appeal to all family members. The fresh air plus the sight and aroma of meat sizzling over the hot coals sharpens appetites. Most men enjoy displaying their skill as chefs, especially when they can prepare their specialties over the outdoor grill. Wives find more time to relax since they can do much of their work in advance. Children enjoy helping. Teenage sons can help dad with the fire and cooking, while young daughters can busy themselves with attractive table settings and centerpieces.

Before you invite your friends to a backyard barbecue, make some careful plans. Outdoor meals need as careful planning as other meals or types of entertaining. Do not short-change your family on health-giving proteins, vitamins and minerals by just packing a basket with hot dogs, potato chips, pop and marshmallows.

It is wise to plan only two courses. Start with a meat or main dish which can be cooked over the coals. With the meat, serve a vegetable or salad and bread. The dessert should be simple. Fresh fruits in season are a perfect choice and be sure not to forget the family's favorite beverage. You might like to serve with paper plates as this eliminates the dishwashing, an annoying task after a family outing.

After deciding the menu, make out your market order. Make allowances for extra servings to satisfy those outdoor appetites. Before serving an outdoor meal, check your barbecue and serving tools so everything is in good condition and you have plenty of fuel.

The next time you want something different at meal time, have an outdoor meal. It's fun!

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

A few years ago Canda was in trouble. One cause of the trouble was a depressed agriculture. Agriculture's big problem was a huge wheat surplus. Canadian farmers were permitted to grow as much wheat as they wished to, but the amount that each farmer could sell was limited to market needs. Year after year the wheat surplus kept growing larger and the farmers in the wheat country kept growing poorer.

The plight of the prairie provinces was a big factor in the decline of the national economy. The government did not try to solve its financial problems by an easy method. On the contrary the authorities ordered a general belt-tightening, reduced the value of the Canadian dollar in relationship to the currencies of other nations, and cut drastically the number of dollars Canadians could spend outside the country. It was not a popular program at first, but it was given a fair trial and it has brought good results. More about this later.

Getting back to the wheat surpluses, the government checked possible world markets. The demand was great but unfortunately the nations that needed the wheat were either bad credit risks or they were enemy nations, and doing business with Communists was frowned upon. But the Canadian government decided to take a second look at the problem and invited the Russians to consider the possibilities.

The Russians welcomed the opportunity and there followed an exchange of trade delegations. The result was a trade deal on a comparatively small scale. Arrangements were made to sell wheat to the Russians on credit, the Canadian government advanced the money and was paid for what wheat was sold. In recent years similar deals have been made with China.

In a recent issue of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, an Associated Press report written by Fred Coleman from Regina, Saskatchewan, tells this interesting story of what has happened in the country to the north of us:

"The latest myth of Canadian folklore pictures the prairie wheat farmer as a new breed of free-spending capitalist who stuffs his pockets with communist cash, drives a luxury car and takes winter vacations in Florida.

"The stories are exaggerated. Few farmers get to Florida.

"But there is enough truth in the tales of rising affluence here to suggest that the Canadian wheat farmer never had it so good.

"Ironically, instead of burying free enterprise, communism is helping to build capitalism to new heights in the Canadian West and literally paying for it.

"Record long-term wheat sales to Red China and the Soviet Union las year brought Canada an estimated 800-million-dollar windfall.

"The sales triggered a boom now felt in almost every economic secotr of Saskatchewan, a province of 925,000 in the heart of the grain-growing belt.

"The sales to Russia and Red China meant the farmers got the profits they should have been getting for the last 10 years.

"In short, the communist wheat deals meant the Canadian farmer could finally sell all the wheat he could raise."

And the farm prosperity brought about general prosperity. The farmers became good customers again and business and industry prospered too. There was plenty of work for the many who had been unemployed. And incidentally Canada has been well satisfied with the way the Russians and the Chinese have been meeting their obligations.

And now getting back to that cut of approximately ten per cent in the buying power of the Canadian dollar; to some extent that was an across the board pay cut for all Canadians, especially for those Canadians who spent their dollars across the border or for imported products. But that Canadian dollar, with its reduced buying power in the international field, made Canadian products more competitive in that international field.

And Canadians were not adversely affected by the devaluation of the dollar in the exchange of goods and services among themselves. On the contrary it made Canadian products more competitive with other nations within Canada as well as in the world markets. In other words they have not been pricing themselves out of the markets either at home or abroad. And Canada is enjoying a period of prosperity that is based on sound fiscal policy.

All nations have their ups and downs, their periods of prosperity and their periods of recession. There must be adjustments as we go along. But from what I have seen and read of the nation to the north of us, I am satisfied that in recent years they have been managing their affairs much more intelligently than we have managed ours. In their efforts to achieve prosperity they have, up to now, avoided the temptations that lead first to a boom and then to a bust.

GIFT KIDNEYS

Q. Do people who have received a "donated" kidney live normal lives?

A. A world wide survey shows that 244 persons have received transplanted kidneys. As of last September, 92 were alive. Only 3 have lived with their gift kidneys for more than 2 years . . . 100 lived less than one month. Doctors say that there is room for a certain amount of optimism but that the operation is still highly experimental and should be performed only by skilled surgical teams having elaborate facilities at their disposal.

UP IN SMOKE

Q. A friend, who is a registered nurse, told me that smoking during pregnancy causes large babies. Is this true?

A. So far as we can determine, all available evidence shows that mothers who smoke heavily during pregnancy tend to have smaller and lighter babies than mothers who are nonsmokers.

May Weather Record Shows Record Reading

by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

Fortunately for northwest Minnesota farmers, the cool, wet conditions of early spring were alleviated in the month of May, making field work possible.

The first week of May was characterized by low temperatures and heavy rainfall, much to the distress of farmers who had just experienced a cold, wet April which was notable for three snowstorms. Most of May's rain fell within this first week.

Sunny skies and warming temperatures dried the rain-soaked soil later in the month. This trend was climaxed by a clear sky, a dry south wind, and a 100 degree temperature on the 21st. According to weather records, never before has the temperature been so high so early in the spring. At nearby Grand Forks, where the high was also 100 on this date, the temperature set an all-time record for the date, shattering the previous record of 92, set in 1939.

Relief from the heat was felt as a cooling trend began late in the month. Daily minimum readings progressed downward from the 60's to the 40's, and then to the 30's, reaching the freezing mark on the 31st. The month bowed out with a March-like low of 18 recorded early in the morning of June 1.

The mean temperature for May was 55.9—slightly above the five-year average of 53.0. A total of 2.63 inches of rain fell during the month—two-tenths of an inch below normal.

High for the month was 100, recorded on the 21st. The temperature dipped to 32, the low for the month, on May 12, 13 and 31. By way of comparison, May of 1963 had a high of 83 recorded on the 7th and a low of 29 on the 19th.

The following is a summary of May's weather conditions as recorded by North Central Airlines weather station at the municipal airport:

BJORKMAN'S is celebrating the 25th anniversary of its opening in Thief River Falls starting this week. Pictured above is the founder, Cliff Bjorkman, standing in front of the 12-foot wide store in which he started business in 1939, now occupied as an office by Dr. Ralph Helm. This first store was a haberdashery, including a small stock of shoes.

After three years in this location, Bjorkman's moved to larger quarters in the Elks building, the space now occupied by the Junior Shop. The present store on LaBree avenue was built in 1948, replacing the frame structure occupied by the Newell Drug. The store extends back to the alley and both the full first floor and the basement are used for merchandise display and selling.

Cliff received his training as a merchant as a clerk in the J. C. Penney company store in this city following his graduation from high school. He advanced to the position of assistant manager and in 1936 he was transferred to the Penney store in Austin as assistant manager. Two years ago his son Dick, who had served six years with Sears in Minneapolis, returned and entered into a partnership with his father in the operation of the local store.

T RECREATION F

by Jim Foley
Park and Recreation Director

The summer recreation program started its first full week of activities this morning. We will still be registering anyone interested in joining the activities. We are still looking for more girls for both of our softball leagues as well as for our craft classes and dance classes.

The eight-team midget league has just completed its first week of practice and will open its league schedule tomorrow morning. The eight teams are: Vikings managed by Bill Poole; Tigers managed by Rod Carlson; Braves managed by Bill Wieglet; Yankees managed by Tom Cummings; Indians managed by Keith Hendrickson; 49'ers managed by Mike Benke; Dodgers managed by Wayne Smith; and Giants managed by Charles Bedard. Bill Herzog is in charge of the program at the fairgrounds. The Pennington County Fair association has given permission for the use of the secretary building as a club house. Here the boys may play chess, checkers and other games, then not playing ball. It is now set up as a small scale recreation building.

The peewee league held its first practice Wednesday afternoon at the East Side field, and practices will continue throughout this week at 1 p.m. The first league game will be on Monday, June 15. There is still time for anyone interested in playing ball to join; just report to East Side field any day at 1 p.m.

The T-ball program will be divided into two leagues, one for children in the East Side area, the other for children in the Northwest area. One league will be at East Side field and will meet on Monday and Wednesday at 9 a.m. The other league will meet at Northrop on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 9 a.m. The reason we are having two leagues is so each boy can go to the place closest to his home. Any boy wishing to play T-ball should just report to the field on the designated days.

Tennis instruction started last Thursday and will continue throughout the summer on every Tuesday and Thursday at 2 p.m. Anyone interested in joining the class may do so by just reporting to the Lincoln high tennis courts. There is no charge for the class.

If there are any questions concerning any phase of the summer program call 681-4816 or stop at the park where the activity is to take place and ask the recreation leader is in charge there.

The schedule of events published in last Monday's issue of the Times remains in effect.

Ruffed Grouse Have Short Average Life

"How long do ruffed grouse live?" is a question often asked of wildlife biologists who are studying these sporty game birds at the research center near Cloquet. The usual answer to this question is "Not very long!" But this does not tell the whole story tho does it usually satisfy the person doing the asking.

To begin with about 30 per cent of the embryos never even see the light of day, having been lost primarily to nest predation. After the chicks leave the eggs less than half of them reach the age of 8 weeks, and only about one-third survive to full growth at the age of 17 to 20 weeks.

These are the young birds available for hunters in the fall. In areas where hunting pressure is high, hunters will eventually bag 30 to 40 percent of the young birds.

On the Cloquet forest refuge, which has been closed to hunting for 40 years, there is good survival through the fall. But both on and off the refuge the proportion of young birds that live through the winter and are present the next breeding season is about the same, around 50 per cent. Off the refuge most of this loss occurs during hunting season, while on the refuge most of it occurs in late winter and early spring.

After the age of 12 months, survival becomes a little better. About 45 percent of the one-year old birds can expect to reach the age of two years. Approximately this same survival rate applies to older birds until they all have died at the age of five to seven years.

If we were to start with 1,000 eggs laid in grouse nests in early May, we can expect about 700 eggs to produce chicks in early June. Only 350 of these chicks will still be alive in mid-July, and about 260 by mid-September (or the opening of hunting season).

In areas open to hunting, hunters will bag about 95 of these 260 during the fall and another 35 will die from natural causes over the winter, leaving about 130 yearling ruffed grouse alive for their first breeding season. There will be about 60 survivors from the original 1,000 eggs at the age of two years, 26 at three years, 12 at four years, 5 at five years, 2 at six years and one may survive to be seven years old.

Out of about 350 drumming males banded on the Cloquet forest refuge at the age of 10 months, four birds have reached the age of six years, and one the age of seven years.

Ruffed grouse, therefore, are short lived most of them not surviving longer than a year. And investigations at Cloquet indicate that fall hunting has little effect on the number of young birds that survive until the following.

Wild Animals and Birds Protected

Apparently some persons did not heed the warning issued by the Minnesota conservation department in April against picking up young wild birds and animals found in the field and forest during the spring and early summer.

Several reports have come in to Dept. headquarters in St. Paul from game wardens and field personnel recently about people being found with fawns they have picked up in the woods. Other persons have called the department asking if they can keep young birds and animals they have picked up in the field.

The answer is "No!"

In the first place it is a violation of the game laws to possess any protected wild bird or animal out of season without first obtaining a special permit from the conservation department.

Secondly, such permits normally are not issued since it is seldom that the young specimen will survive without its mother's care. Once again the department asks, "Please keep hands off young wildlife!"

The Newspaper and the Retailer

"It's a pity retailers so often have to learn the same lesson over and over again through cost and hardship."

This observation was made by Edward R. Engle, official of the National Retail Merchants Association. Mr. Engle was referring to the importance of newspaper advertising to retail trade.

His findings were based on a study made of the results of the New York newspaper strike. It was found that there is no substitute for newspaper advertising, and that without advertising, retailing would be in a chaotic state, as stock needs and turnover would be impossible to predict. It is also stressed that when advertising of big stores is absent the entire shopping complex—including the little stores—feel the ill effects.

The Standard sums up in these words: "The ultimate loser from inadequate advertising, then, is the consumer who pays for losses due to slow turnover, waste and high per item selling costs."

The basic principle here is simple enough. If people don't know what you have to offer, they can't and won't come seeking it. Successful retailing and intelligent and extensive advertising go hand in hand.

THIEF RIVER FALLS COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASS'N.
NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS

TAKE NOTICE that a special meeting of stockholders will be held at city auditorium in Thief River Falls, Minnesota on June 23, 1964, commencing at 8 o'clock P. M., to vote on the following PLAN OF MERGER between the KARLSTAD COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION AND THE THIEF RIVER FALLS COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASS'N.

Otto Saugen, Secretary

PLAN OF MERGER OF KARLSTAD CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION INTO THIEF RIVER FALLS COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION

Under this PLAN OF MERGER, KARLSTAD CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION (herinafter called "Karlstad") shall become merged in to THIEF RIVER FALLS CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION (herinafter called "Thief River") in such a way that all of Karlstad's property shall belong to Thief River and the members of Karlstad shall become members of Thief River.

Karlstad has but one class of stock, namely common stock, par value $10.00 per share, which has been issued to its members. It also has outstanding on its books patronage equity credits issued for consecutive years commencing with the year 1948.

Thief River has but one class of stock, namely common stock, of the par value of $12.50 per share. It also has outstanding on its books patronage equity credits issued for consecutive years commencing with the year 1951.

Under the PLAN OF MERGER each person who is now a holder of stock of Karlstad shall be issued in exchange for such stock a like number of shares of stock of Thief River. The difference between the par value of Karlstad's stock and Thief River's stock (to wit, the sum of $2.50 per share) shall be deducted from the stockholder's patronage equity credits in Karlstad. Any person holding Karlstad stock who is not an active patron shall, in lieu of receiving stock of Thief River, be credited with the amount of his Karlstad stock in the form of patronage equities entered on the books of Thief River.

All remaining patronage equity credits of Karlstad shall be entered on the books of Thief River at their full face amount in the names of the respective patrons of Karlstad. Such patronage credits shall be redeemed in the following manner:

If and when the Board of Directors of Thief River redeem Thief River's 1951 patronage equities, the 1948 Karlstad patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1952 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1949 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1953 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1950 and 1951 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1954 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1952 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1955 patronage equities shall be redeemed. Thereafter the patronage equity credits of both associations for the same corresponding years shall be redeemed together.

The steps of merger whereby Karlstad shall become merged with Thief River shall be as follows:

1. The merger shall become effective on July 1, 1964. On that date all the facilities and property of Karlstad, including physical assets, cash on hand, accounts receivable, and every other form of property of any nature whatsoever, shall become the property of Thief River. On the date Karlstad shall cease to be a corporation and shall become fully merged into Thief River under the provisions of Section 308.15, Subd. 4, of the Minnesota Statutes. All of the outstanding debts and liabilities of Karlstad shall automatically become the debts and liabilities and obligations of Thief River as of July 1, 1964. Thief River shall step into the shoes of Karlstad and be obligated to fulfill all the outstanding contracts, commitments and engagements of Karlstad. The entire property of Karlstad shall automatically become the property of Thief River as of July 1, 1964.

2. The articles of Incorporation of Thief River are hereby amended in the following particulars:

(A) Section 1 of Article III shall be amended to read as follows:
"Section 1. The amount of authorized capital stock of the Association shall be $50,000 divided into 4,000 shares of common stock with a par value of $12.50 per share.

(B) Section 3 of Article V shall be amended to read as follows:
Section 3. The annual meeting shall be held at such time as shall be prescribed by the By-Laws."

(C) Section 1 of Article VI shall be amended to read as follows:
"Section 1. The government of this Association and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a Board of Directors, the number of which shall be determined in accordance with the By-Laws. The terms of office of the Directors shall be determined by the By-Laws.

3. The By-Laws of Thief River are hereby amended in the following particulars:

(A) Section 1 of Article I shall be amended to read as follows:
"Section 1. The annual meeting of the Association shall be held at such time and place as shall be fixed by the Board of Directors, not more than six months after the close of the fiscal year."

(B) Section 1 of Article II shall be amended to read as follows:
"Section 1. The number of Directors shall be not less than five nor more than twelve, the exact number to be determined by the stockholders at the annual meeting of stockholders. Directors shall be elected for a term of three (3) years."

(C) Article V shall be amended in its entirety to read as follows:

ARTICLE V

"The members of the Association shall consist of the persons who are holders of its capital stock. It shall be the obligation of each member to market his milk or cream through the Association and to patronize the other facilities and services offered by the Association to the extent of his needs. Whenever the Board of Directors determines that a holder of stock is not eligible for membership or has failed to patronize the Association for a period of twelve (12) months, such stockholder shall have no voting rights on account of such stock, and his stock shall be non-voting stock, and written notice to that effect shall be mailed to him at his last known post office address, and the Association shall have the right (but not the obligation to do so) to redeem said stock at par value. Nothing in this paragraph shall effect the interest, if any, of said stockholder in the allocated reserves of the Association. The provisions of this paragraph shall be printed on each stock certificate."

4. On the effective date of the merger, the number of Directors of Thief River shall be increased from five (5) Directors (the number which it now has) to seven (7) Directors. The seven Directors shall consist of the five persons presently on the Board of Directors of Thief River, together with one Director elected by the members of Karlstad at the time a vote upon this PLAN OF MERGER, who shall serve until the annual meeting to be held in 1966. The Successors to the two additional Directors shall be elected for terms of three (3) years.

5. Before this PLAN OF MERGER becomes effective it must be approved by the members of each Association (namely Karlstad and Thief River) at a meeting duly called and held separately by each Association at which a quorum is present, and it shall be necessary that the PLAN receive the favorable vote of at least two-thirds of those present at the meeting. A copy of this PLAN OF MERGER must be mailed to every member in connection with the mailing of the notice of meeting for each Association.

Legion Jrs. Open Season With Win

Coach Ralph Skay's local juniors opened their 1964 Northwest American Legion junior baseball league schedule on Thursday evening by scoring a 7 to 2 win over the Warroad juniors in a game played on the fairgrounds diamond. On Tuesday evening, June 9, the local club will meet the Stephen juniors in a league game at Stephen. And on Thursday, June 11, the Newfolden juniors will play the local club on the fairgrounds diamond.

In Thursday night's game at the fairgrounds, the locals took command of the game in the first inning, scoring four runs off Warroad's southpaw pitcher, Mike Rose. And with coach Skay's hurlers, righthander Billy Poole and lefty Pat Fischer, limiting coach Tony Stukel's Warroad squad to but four hits and two runs, the game was recorded into the locals' win column.

Leading the locals' 8-hit attack on starter Rose and relief pitcher Vern Hodgson, were Tommy Cummings, Mike Benke, and Karl Poppenhagen, who poled out two hits apiece in four tries at the plate. Benke connected for a double in the sixth inning.

Warroad averted a shutout by tallying a pair of runs in the seventh inning. A walk to Jim Jaros, a single by George Ganyo, an infield out, a walk to George Roberts, and Bushy's double off Poppenhagen's glove in left field, accounted for the tallies.

Ask Mowing Delay In Pheasant Range

Many Birds and Nests Destroyed During Haying

Pheasants throughout the state's prime range will get an assist again this year from the state highway department.

Roadside mowing in these areas will be delayed until July 1, or later to prevent destruction of nests and the injuring or killing of hen pheasants, which often will not leave the nest at the approach of a mower.

District maintanance engineers at Morris, Marshall, Windom, Mankato, Willmar, Detroit Lakes, Rochester, Owatonna and St. Cloud have been instructed to delay mowing operations in their areas in a determined effort to aid nesting pheasants.

"This is the sixth consecutive year the highway department has undertaken this action," said Ted Shields, conservation department game and fish director. "Our game managers have reported that delaying mowing operations in past years has saved many birds and nests from destruction."

"In the main pheasant range, the peak of hatching usually comes about June 15, depending on weather conditions" explained Shields. "By delaying mowing operations wherever possible, we help insure the successful hatching of many nests that might otherwise be chewed up in the mower blades. Nesting hens are also saved from being maimed or killed outright.

"Our studies have shown mowing to be the greatest cause of hen pheasant and nest destruction. I cannot overemphasize the importance of the highway department's action to minimize these losses.

"Game managers and game wardens will also be contacting local town and county road officials throughout the pheasant range to encourage them to also delay roadside mowing this year," Shields said.

Halstad Upsets Favored Bemidji In Region Eight

Duane Ramstad Pitches 10-Inning Three-Hitter To Gain State Tourney

The Halstad Pirates of District 20, winners of the Region Eight baseball title, will meet Austin high school at 1 p. m. on Wednesday in St. Paul's Midway stadium in a state high school tournament first-round game.

The Halstad team won a berth in the state tourney by scoring a 2 to 1 win over a heavily-favored Bemidji Lumberjacks in the Region Eight tournament finals at Warroad on Wednesday night.

Lefty Duane Ramstad hurled the 10 innings required to gain the decision over Bemidji, giving the Jacks but three hits. Jerry Fossand was the starting hurler for coach Horace May's club, and the righthander matched the Pirates' hurler for nine innings, when he had to leave the mound because of the 14-inning state high school league rule.

Fossand had pitched five innings against Thief River Falls on Tuesday afternoon, when the Jacks beat the Prowlers, 4 to 2, and when he completed the ninth inning against Halstad, his pitching eligibility had expired. Bob Saeger came on in relief for Bemidji in the tenth, but his wildness put Halstad runners on the bases and Bob Shadlow had to be called in.

With two men out in the top of the tenth and the bases loaded, Shadlow whiffed the Halstad batsman, but the low-breaking ball hit the plate and bounded over catcher Tom Mathews' head and the run that proved the game-winner was scored.

Halstad reached the regional finals by defeating Roseau, 7 to 5, in a first-round game on Tuesday afternoon.

Bea's Team Edges Bridgeman's 1-0 In City Softball

Winning Run Scores On Wild Pitch In Seventh Inning Thursday Night

City Softball League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Bea's Food Market	4	0	1.000
Bridgeman's	3	1	.750
V.F.W.	2	1	.667
Hamm's Beer	1	2	.333
Hartz Stores	1	2	.333
Rasmussen Insurance	1	3	.250
Thorp Loan	0	3	.000

Results of last week's games:
Bea's Foods, 16, vs. Hamm's Beer, 6
V.F.W., 7, vs. Rasmussen Ins., 4
Hartz Stores 17, vs. Thorp Loan, 2.

This week's schedule:
June 8, Rasmussen Ins. vs. Bea's Foods.
June 9, Hamm's Beer vs. Thorp Loan.
June 10, Hartz Stores vs. V.F.W.
June 11, Thorp Loan vs. Bridgeman's.

Last week's feature game, between the Bea's Food Market and the Bridgeman's, fulfilled the expectations of the softball fans as it moved into the seventh inning before a score was marked into the score-book, with the Bea's eking out a 1 to 0 win. The game proved to be pitching duel between the Bea's Wiley Bogle and the Bridgeman's Jack Drury, and in the top of the seventh inning, on a hit, a sacrifice, an infield out and a wild pitch, the Bea's tallied the game's only run. The win gave the Bea's undisputed possession of first place in the league standings.

In other games played last week, the Bea's, by a 16 to 6 score defeated the Hamm's Beer on Monday night; the V. F. W., with Roy Pederson on the mound, defeated the Rasmussen Insurance, 7 to 4; and on Wednesday evening, the Hartz Stores rolled up a 17 to 2 win over the Thorp Loan.

This week's four-game slate will perhaps be highlighted by the V. F. W. vs. Hartz Store game on Wednesday evening. The Hartz, with a win and two losses, must record a win if the club is to remain in contention for the league title; while the Vets, with two wins and one loss, can ill afford another loss. The league-leading Bea's will meet the Rasmussen Insurance; and the second place Bridgeman's will play the Thorp Loan on Monday and Thursday evenings, respectively.

Study Pesticide Presence In Fish

Conservation Department Cooperates in Research

The Department of Conservation's game and fish director, Ted Shields, announced today that his division is cooperating with the State Water Pollution Control Commission on a study to determine if pesticides are present in fish which will be taken from selected locations throughout the state.

B. R. Jones, Supervisor of Biological Services, will coordinate the Conservation Department's part in the project.

Water, fish and bottom soil samples from lakes and streams will be collected from a number of stations throughout the state. The collections will be made by the water pollution control commission, state division of game and fish, metropolitan mosquito control district and some local governmental agencies and private industries. The samples will be analyzed by the Department of Health.

"Although there has been no significant damage to fish or wildlife populations in Minnesota from pesticides," said Shields, "the potential for serious harm justifies a continuing program for such examination of our state waters."

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Against Big Odds

The senior baseball enthusiasts of Crookston, Ada, Twin Valley, Fosston, Bagley and Fertile are to be commended for the efforts they are making in keeping senior baseball alive in this area. The Norman-Polk league, one of the oldest circuits in northwestern Minnesota, is playing a schedule of games, and the above-mentioned towns are represented in the league.

But the odds are heavy against a revival in city-team baseball. The past 10 or 15 years have seen a vast change in the week-end entertainment program. The emphasis has been toward participation sports, with such activities as boating, water-skiing, fishing and golfing proving to be the attractions that have lured the former baseball fans from the ball park. And to add to this you have the Saturday and Sunday telecasts of major league games.

About the only hope of baseball activity, beyond high school competition, is in promoting the American Legion junior baseball program. The Legion's junior baseball program has the blessing of organized baseball, and the program's directors have increased the age limit to provide for a greater number of mature players for the junior teams. For instance, eligible for coach Ralph Skay's local junior club this season will be such boys as John Aune, Gerry Erickson and Paul Klungness, who have completed their freshman year in college.

And make a note to go out to the fairgrounds diamond and watch the local juniors in action. They are surely a flashy-looking squad in their new gold-and-black uniforms. They will play the Newfolden juniors here on Thursday, June 11.

Coach Skay's squad lost a capable pitcher when Jack Leedahl, a recent graduate from high school here, moved to Grafton, N. Dak. Jack will be playing with the Grafton juniors this season, and next fall he intends to enroll at UMD in Duluth.

Making Progress

Watching the junior high school and the Prowler B squad trackmen going through their routines at the Lincoln field a couple of weeks ago, the comment was expressed by a sideline observer that the Prowlers lost a potential great when the Alton Hansons moved to Minneapolis. And it's a fact. He was referring to Dennis Hanson, a younger brother of Phil and Ron Hanson, former star athletes with the Prowlers. Dennis was a protege, in his grade school days here, of the late Phil Bendle. Phil had great sucess in coaching athletics at Northrop school, and he predicted stardom for Dennis, who, in his sixth grade year here, set a grade-school high jump record.

I received a note relative to Dennis' progress in athletics in Minneapolis. In sophomore competition in Minneapolis, in a city-wide meet, Dennis won second place in the low hurdles. And last season, as a sophomore, he played varsity basketball with the Patrick Henry high school team. During his grade school basketball here, with the Northrop Indians, he showed flashes of the form that made older brother Phil one of the region's best.

It Was A Heartbreaker

Said a baseball coach of one of the District 32 teams following Halstad's surprising 2 to 1 win over Bemidji in the Region Eight finals: "It was a boon to Region Eight athletics to have Halstad defeat Bemidji."

And there is perhaps a measure of truth in his statement, and it is a certainty that Halstad's victory must have proven popular around the region. But that does not detract from the fact that the Bemidji Lumberjacks were a top-flight baseball club. And you can get some arguments that this squad was the finest to represent Bemidji in baseball in all the years that the sport has been in competition in Region Eight.

Bemidji had the physical size of a college club, and they had fine all-round balance. There have been Bemidji clubs with greater stars, such as the teams that boasted the Lawrence brothers, Jim and Bill, and the teams that benefited by Corky Johnson's pitching and hitting.

It's possible that Bemidji took the Halstad club too lightly, and that the diminutive Duane Ramstad, a spark-plug lefthander, did not appear frightening. And you can believe me when I say that the Bemidji club did not frighten Ramstad either!

While all credit must be given to the Halstad Pirates, it must be reported that their win over Bemidji has to be labeled as the greatest upset of the 1963-64 Region Eight high school season.

Developments Change Telephone Services

Developments in telephone services for the home have been so rapid in the past few years that today many families are unaware of the number and variety of communications servants at their beck and call, according to J. M. Wilson, manager of Northwestern Bell Telephone company in Thief River Falls.

One of the newest developments for the home is a telephone which dials automatically. The card dialer telephone enables people to place calls with greater ease and efficiency by inserting a coded plastic card and pushing a start bar. Cards are easily coded with a ball point pen or similar object. Designed for those who make many calls or call the same numbers frequently, the card dialer is especially useful to women with club or church activities or in the operation of a home business.

Perhaps the most comprehensive offering is home interphone service. This system permits a wide range of intercom services from answering the front door or listening in on the baby, plus the handling of outside calls from every phone in the house.

For those who would like a telephone chime instead of a ring, the bell chime is available. At the flick of a switch, the bell chime provides a choice of three sounds - a loud bell, the regular bell or a melodic chime.

Today's homemaker also has her choice of new, streamlined telephone instruments. With the one-phone home rapidly becoming a thing of the past, families are integrating the style of extension phones to the decor and needs of special locations, the telephone company manager explained.

Wall telephones are especially appropriate for kitchen or basement use, while the compact Princess phone, with built-in night light on the dial, has proven popular in almost every room.

The popularity of color phones is further testimony to the growing role the telephone is playing in decorating plans. At the request of color-conscious home owners, Northwestern Bell has installed more than 800,000 color phones since their introduction several years ago.

Telephone company research has revealed a changing location pattern for telephones in recent years. The trend is to the kitchen, bedroom and basement and away from traditional living room or dining room locations.

Additional information about the many new services can be obtained by calling the Northwestern Bell business office.

Crippled Children Society Awarded Planning Grant

$12,900 Federal Research Grant Given for Study Of Rehabilitation Services

A $12,900 federal research grant was recently awarded to the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., according to W. B. Schoenbohm, executive director.

The goal of the project, "statewide planning and coordination for rehabilitation resources and services," will be to involve both public and private rehabilitation agencies in partnership for planning. Project director is W. W. Kennan.

"The main thing we hope for is to develop better planning and coordination in rehabilitation both at local and state levels," Keenan explained. "At present, there are over 200 rehabilitation facilities and agencies in Minnesota which would benefit through cooperative effort and planning," he added.

Months of organizational meetings and planning sessions have preceded the official start of the project. More than 70 such meetings have already been held with representatives of both state and private agencies. Funds for this part of the project came from the Minneapolis foundation, the Minneapolis rehabilitation center, the state department of health and the children and adults, Inc.

Two statewide conferences are planned for this summer. In mid-July, workshops will be held and an August meeting is scheduled for a review of homebound services within the state.

VA Asks Public to Check Solicitors

Does Not Authorize or Endorse Fund Campaigns

Telephone and door-to-door callers who imply they represent the Veterans administration and who solicit funds or try to sell products are acting without permission or authority.

This statement was issued today by John R. Parrish, center director of the Veterans administration in Fargo following several inquiries from those who have been approached by such salesmen.

"The VA does not endorse any product, project or commerical endeavor for the profit of individuals, Parrish said.

He added that the VA neither endorses nor condemns door-to-door solicitations in behalf of veterans. Those who suspect claims made in such endeavor should check with their Better Business Bureau or any similar community organization.

Highway Dept. Safety Checks Motor Vehicles

The annual vehicle safety inspection is currently under way for all Minnesota highway department motor vehicles, the department reports.

The inspection is carried out annually by automotive mechanics in the 18 maintenance area shops. Each vehicle is inspected for those devices necessary to its safe operation: brakes, tires, glass, muffler, windshield wipers, mirror, front and rear lights, turn signals, steering and horn.

Vehicles found to have faulty equipment are not operated until the defect is corrected.

This is the second year of the annual safety check of highway vehicles. Although the department has always kept its motor vehicles in safe operating condition, the department began the safety check both to make employees more safety conscious and to make the public aware of the necessity of operating safe motor vehicles.

Consumeritis

"One would think, listening to politicians, that few national issues are as important as the need to save the poor, unfortunate consumer from the big, bad wolves of business," states a recent bulletin of the Minnesota Retail Federation, Inc.

In coining the word "consumeritis", the federation notes that there are "professional consumer groups, consumer protective programs, consumer conferences, a new bureau in the White House and legislation—all aimed to protect those who buy consumer goods, and that's 185 million of us."

The federation also notes that Mrs. Catherine May, member of Congress from the state of Washington, has revealed that of the 35 departments of government only two perform no activities in the consumer field. To protect and advance consumer interests directly there are 118 activities in motion involving expenditures of $953 million annually and employing 6,500 federal workers.

"In addition," Mrs. May stated, "these agencies carried on 135 programs in the interest of indirectly protecting or helping consumer interest and there were 43 additional activities not specifically labeled as consumer programs but which were identified as protecting the general public. That adds up to the federal government being involved in 296 programs to help the consumer.

"Now, I submit that the American housefrau is a real competent, smart cookie," Mrs. May continued, "and I don't have to tell this group that she knows how to regulate the seller. All the government officials and all the government laws in the world are as nothing compared to the impact Mrs. America has on Mr. Manufacturer and on Mr. Storekeeper when she makes up her mind to buy one brand over another."

And the federation adds: "The fact remains that retailing's house must be in good order. If honest disclosure, truthful advertising, good value, efficient service and wised-up salespeople are the hallmarks of American retailing, politicians and professional consumer groups will have fun but they can't hurt anything that is as decent, honest, efficient and truly American as the modern merchant, hamburgers and pizza."

More About Beef

There are those in the United States today who believe that heavily increased imports of beef in the last couple of years are not responsible for depressed cattle prices. These people are of the opinion that overproduction in the United States is the so-called "fly in the ointment".

The argument is that imported beef is used primarily for processed meats such as wieners, hamburger and canned luncheon meats, while U. S. fed beef goes into fresh or frozen table cuts. It is said that a "reducing diet" would help the U. S. beef industry more than government intervention and tighter import quotas.

Cattle breeders will agree that increased U. S. production certainly has a bearing on depressed cattle prices. But it is also true that the recent swelling of beef imports has hurt the American cattleman's position. If foreign meat, in processed form, is acceptable by the American housewife and her family, then that family will take advantage of the cost difference and eat processed meat. And it is reasonable to assume that the family will not eat a U. S. roast and Australian wieners at the same meal.

Difference in quality of U. S. and imported beef notwithstanding, Americans will eat only a certain amount of meat. If the meat is acceptable and the price is more economical, the consumer will not be particular about its origin. This is the way our free enterprise system works—the person that can offer an acceptable product at a lower price is the one that makes the sales.

We don't like to see government intervention in business any more than is absolutely necessary. In the case of beef, however, the government is so deeply involved that it is impossible to make any significant changes unless they are made by the government. And it must be recognized that government is responsible for the fantastic increase of imported beef in recent years.

Cattlemen can do a lot to help their own cause by merchandising and herd culling, but Uncle Sam could help out by exercising a little more caution and devoting less time to developing alibis.

No Sure Cure

President Johnson's "war on poverty" includes a battlefront in the area commonly called "Appalachia". It is considered strategic in the "war on poverty", since it is said to be the center of unemployment and poverty in the United States.

Much of poverty-stricken Appalachia lies within the area of the Tennessee Valley Authority. TVA was begun in 1933, has cost taxpayers more than $1.2 billion, and has apparently not done what it was supposed to do in solving the region's problems, attracting industry and creating employment of all kinds.

It would seem that more than 30 years would be ample time to give an anti-poverty program to work. More than government money must be needed to win a war on poverty. Government competition with private enterprise and federal planning of a region's economic future do not assure success, as the result of TVA has shown. Poverty in our nation is a problem, but there is no sure cure.

The Sharon Statement

Adopted several years ago by a group of young people meeting in Sharon, Conn., was a declaration of conservative principles referred to as the Sharon Statement. The group, which represented 44 colleges, universities and communities in 24 states, was organized as the "Young Americans for Freedom."

It is encouraging to see the thinking in the statement expressed by the youth of today. It is fundamental Americanism in nature and is printed in its entirety as follows:

"IN THIS TIME of moral and political crisis, it is the responsibility of the youth of America to affirm certain eternal truths.

"We, as young conservatives, believe:

"That foremost among the transcendent values is the individual's use of his God-given free will, whence derives his right to be free from the restrictions of arbitrary force;

"That liberty is indivisible, and that political freedom cannot long exist without economic freedom;

"That the purposes of government are to protect these freedoms through the preservation of internal order, the provision of national defense, and the administration of justice;

"That when government ventures beyond these rightful functions, it accumulates power which tends to diminish order and liberty;

"That the Constitution of the United States is the best arrangement yet devised for empowering government to fulfill its proper role, while restraining it from the concentration and abuse of power;

"That the genus of the Constitution—the division of powers—is summed up in the clause which reserves primacy to the several states, or to the people, in those spheres not specifically delegated to the Federal Government;

"That the market economy, allocating resources by the free play of supply and demand, is the single economic system compatible with the requirements of personal freedom and constitutional government, and that it is at the same time the most productive supplier of human needs;

"That when government interferes with the work of the market economy, it tends to reduce the moral and physical strength of the nation; that when it takes from one man to bestow on another, it diminishes the incentive of the first, the integrity of the second and the moral autonomy of both;

"That we will be free only so long as the national sovereignty of the United States is secure; that history shows periods of freedom are rare, and can exist only when free citizens concertedly defend their rights against all enemies;

"That the forces of international Communism are, at present, the greatest single threat to these liberties;

"That the United States should stress victory over, rather than co-existence with, this menace; and

"That American foreign policy must be judged by this criterion: does it serve the just interests of the United States?"

A Profitable Move

Proposed merger of the Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery association with the Karlstad creamery draws attenion to an evident situation. That is the fact that consolidation is becoming more and more the immediate solution for a number of problems plaguing small operations.

It is becoming increasingly difficult in dairy processing to maintain a margin of profit so essential to continued operation. Smaller creameries in the area, in spite of economy measures and the best efforts of efficient management, have been fighting an up-hill battle against this steadily decreasing margin.

From an area standpoint, the merger with Karlstad should be a profitable move—for both the local creamery and the shareholders at Karlstad. It should be to the advantage of all concerned to proceed with the merger plans which have been agreed upon by the two boards.

Beyond this, however, is the possibility that other creameries now operating in the area might also find it profitable to merge operations. The Thief River Falls creamery is already doing a large amount of processing of milk for several of these on a part-time or full-time basis.

Dairying is an important part of the area's agricultural economy and Thief River Falls is one of the largest dairy processing centers in the state. Dairymen should like to see this situation continue and must realize that costs of processing are important in the eventual sale of their product to the consumer.

If consolidation will reduce processing costs per pound because of increased volume, then mergers such as the one proposed seem to be logical approaches to solving a perplexing problem.

Cadillac

HIS THIRD CADILLAC . . . HIS FIRST NEW ONE

This man is enjoying his first brand-new Cadillac—after becoming acquainted with the car's unsurpassed value by twice buying used Cadillacs.

He learned that a late model used Cadillac gave him more standard equipment and engineering advancements than most new cars.

First of all, while Cadillac's styling was continually refined, it never lost the clean, dignified look that says Cadillac and Cadillac alone. The smooth, quiet performance and complete reliability of his used Cadillac was a constant source of enjoyment. Then, too, he and his family enjoyed luxury and comfort to a degree reserved exclusively for Cadillac owners.

The pride of ownership of so distinctive a car was a never-ending pleasure, for he had the satisfaction—always—of knowing he drove the finest.

When it came time to trade his previously owned Cadillac for a later model, he found its value had held remarkably high . . . and returned a substantial part of his original investment.

So what could be more natural—or wise—than to make the eventual move to a new Cadillac?

New or used, there is no finer motoring investment than a Cadillac. And new or used, your authorized dealer has one to fit any budget. There's never been a better time to invest in the finest of them all.

In Minnesota... at a picnic, beer is a natural
When you're relaxing at your favorite outdoor beauty spot with friends or family, and your thirst's whetted by fresh air and exercise—that's the ideal time for a cool, refreshing glass of beer. In fact, you can name your recreation—swimming, hiking, or just watching TV—and chances are nothing in the world fits it quite as well as beer.
Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.
In Minnesota...beer goes with fun, with relaxation

SHARING an umbrella during rain-dampened festivities at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday were Audrey Meyer, left, Princess Kay of the Milky Way, and June Walter of Plummer, 1963 Northwest Dairy Princess. For only the second time in the 15-year history of the dairy cattle show, rain and wind forced moving the show under cover at the city arena. Weather cleared just in time during the afternoon to permit the annual parade to be conducted under mostly sunny skies. In spite of the morning rain, the girls above were ready to "let a smile be your umbrella."

Heavy Rainfall Monday Night Swamps City

River Water Level Lowered 12 Inches As Dam Is Opened

Rainfall totaling 3.35 inches on Monday and Tuesday—accented by a downpour late Monday evening which made city streets look like the waterways of Venice—has caused flooding in some parts of the area. It is reported that the Mud river has overflowed its banks northeast of Thief River Falls, backing up water to the buildings of several farms.

Morris Owen, Thief River Falls superintendent of utilities, told the Times today that he has opened the gates of the dam by the power-plant to drop the water level a foot behind the dam. He said the water level will be held down until midnight Saturday and advised property owners above the dam to take advantage of the lower level to work on their river property.

Precipitation Tuesday, which actually fell late Monday evening in a cloudburst and Tuesday morning in a drizzle, totaled 2.65 inches. A total of .70 inch of rain was recorded on Monday. High and low temperatures respectively were 70 and 57 degrees on Monday and 65 and 48 degrees on Tuesday.

Many streets in the downtown area Monday evening were filled with water from curb to curb as sewer drains could not keep up with the deluge. In the residential district in the southeast portion of the city, which does not have storm sewers, streets were flooded and sanitary sewers backed up into basements.

Dairy Day Splashed by Rain Here on Tuesday

CROWNED 1964 Northwest Dairy Princess Tuesday afternoon at the 15th annual Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls was Miss Shirley Rowland, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rowland of Fosston. Attendants were Ardis Jenson (left), 17, Erskine, and Marjorie Vik, (right) 18, rural Thief River Falls. Miss Rowland and Miss Jenson represented East Polk county and Miss Vik represented Pennington county in the contest which had 28 girls entered. Also pictured in the above photo are Audrey Meyer of Clarks Grove, Princess Kay of the Milky Way, and Miss June Walter of Plummer, 1963 Northwest Dairy Princess.

Shirley Rowland Wins Northwest Princess Contest

For the second time in 15 years, Northwest Dairy Day activities were hampered by rain and forced indoors on Tuesday. A total of 192 exhibitors, somewhat less than the number originally registered, crowded their cattle into the city arena where the entire program was conducted. One of the heaviest rains in recent years created torrents of water in the city late Monday evening. Heavily overcast skies, emitting a frustrating drizzle, cast a pall over the show and held down anticipated attendance on Tuesday.

Shirley Rowland, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rowland of Fosston, was awarded the crown as 1964 Northwest Dairy Princess at the coronation program held in the city arena. Named attendants were Margie Vik, 18, rural Thief River Falls, and Ardis Jenson, 17, Erskine. Miss Rowland, a blue-eyed blonde who is 5 feet 7 inches tall, was an attendant to the 1963 princess, June Walter of Plummer. Miss Walter, assisted by Audrey Meyer, Princess Kay of the Milky Way, crowned her successor.

Arlene Ubel of Williams, 15, showing a five-year-old Holstein, won the grand championship over all grade cattle and will receive a purebred calf of the breed of her choice at next year's Dairy Day. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ubel of Williams.

Champion Purebred

Larry Workman, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Workman of Borup, showed the grand champion purebred with a Jersey two-year-old named "Liberator's Primrose". Larry will receive an expense-paid trip to the International Dairy Cattle congress at Waterloo, Ia., as the prize for showing the grand champion purebred which was also Jersey breed champion.

Showmanship champion was Bob Blasey of Ada, showing the purebred Holstein aged cow with which he won the Holstein breed championship. Reserve champion showman was Rosemarie Peterson of Plummer, who showed the aged Milking Shorthorn cow with which she won that breed championship.

Other breed championships went to James Olsland, Beltrami, who showed the champion Guernsey with a purebred aged cow; Faith Karlsson, Roseau, who showed the champion Brown Swiss with a registered three-year-old cow; and Clark Erickson, Badger, who showed the champion Ayrshire with a purebred aged cow.

H. R. "Shorty" Searles, acting manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee, was supervisor of the cattle show during the day. Judges were Henry Bartel of Hastings and Stanley Hanks of Payment of $500 was approved for a parcel of land near the new school site and an easement was granted to the city to bring power lines across this new property. Approval was also given to a one-year extension of the present lease of the Wennberg building for vocational school purposes at an increase of $35 per month in rental.

Supt. M. R. Hankerson was directed to secure specifications prior to calling for bids on a new station wagon for the school district.

Salaries for non-teaching personnel were generally set by the board on an individual basis, some employees being on an hourly basis and some on a monthly schedule. Slight increases were included in the salaries set.

Group Meeting On Adoption Planned For City in July

Couples Are Invited to Attend Session Slated By Cooperating Agencies

For couples interested in adopting children, a meeting will be held in Thief River Falls during the first week of July. The meeting is under sponsorship of the Catholic Social Service association Red Lake Falls; Children's Home Society of Minnesota; Lutheran Children's Friend society; Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota; and the Department of Public welfare.

Representatives from each agency will be present to give information about their agency and to answer questions. Interested couples from Beltrami, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Mahnomen, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties may attend.

This meeting will be a departure from standard procedure in that it is being held in an outlying area of the state and in that both public and private agencies will be taking part, according to Ronald Mooers, director of the Pennington County Welfare department. Attendance at the meeting will be accepted by each of the participating agencies as fulfillment of the group meeting requirement in the adoption process. "The meeting will provide a much needed service for residents of northwestern Minnesota and will be an excellent opportunity for interested couples to obtain information about adopting a child," Mooers said.

Couples wishing to attend this meeting or to obtain further information, should contact the appropriate private adoption agency or their county welfare department.

Band Concert Is Scheduled Friday

Thief River Falls Municipal-Legion band, under the direction of James Solsten, will hold a concert at 9 p. m. Friday at the city parking lot west of Knight avenue between Second and Third streets. No admission is charged and the public is encouraged to attend.

Looking for a new vacation experience? There's still time to join five of the six all-expense paid package tours the historical society is offering as an invitation to "Adventure in History", according to Russell Fridley, director of the Minnesota Historical society.

The next scheduled tour is one of the two extended journeys—to Tidewater, Va., June 14 through 27. This 14-day tour will include colonial Williamsburg, Jamestown, Yorktown, Richmond and Gettysburg and other famous historical places which figured prominently in the early building of our country

As for all the tours, an attractive pamphlet giving complete details on the Tidewater tour is available by calling the historical society, St. Paul, 221-2583, or writing Tours, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

The second extended tour offered this year is to Hudson Bay — James Bay, July 21-31. By train, boat and plane, tour members will travel to remote Rupert's House, James Bay, Moosonee and Moose Factory.

On August 6-9 a four-day tour will take place north to Lake of the Woods to the Northwest Angle, Garden Island, Massacre Island, LaVerendrye's Fort St. Charles and Father Aulneau's Chapel.

September 12 and 13 the society is offering a two-day swing south along the Mississippi, including a stop at Rochester to participate in the Mayo Centennial celebration.

Final tour of 1964 offered by the historical society will be on October 3 and 4, a journey to Alexandria to visit the Kensington Runestone museum, the controversial center of discussions on the visit of Vikings to our area in 1362. This tour will also include stops at Sauk Centre, where the "original main street" of Sinclair Lewis' novel will be traveled, the village site of Old Crow Wing near Brainerd and a stop at the Indian museum at Mille Lacs.

Yard 'n' Garden

Time to Plant Warm-Season Vegetables

Most vegetable crops can be planted in the garden as soon as the soil is prepared in spring. Seeds of some vegetables, however, have difficulty germinating when the soil is still cold. These crops include sweet corn, beans, cucumbers, melons and pumpkins.

Cucumbers and melons can be planted between rows of early crops like peas and lettuce to conserve space. After the early crops are harvested, the space can be taken over by the later-maturing vine crops.

Make three or four plantings of snap beans and sweet corn to insure a longer harvest of good quality produce. Plant corn in three or four short rows instead of one or two long continuous rows to assure better pollination and better developed ears of corn.

Cucumbers, melons and squash can be planted as close together as you want them in the garden without fear of crossing. There is very little evidence that they will cross and affect quality of the fruits.

Tomatoes, eggplant and peppers are also warm-season crops, but they should not be transplanted into the garden until after Memorial Day because they are very tender and extremely sensitive to cold soil and cold air temperature.

SPRAYING FRUITS IN GARDEN

For clean, disease free fruit from your garden, it's important to follow a regular spray program. Strawberries should be sprayed just as the first blossom buds appear. An all-purpose mixture with captan will control the sawfly, weevil, plant bugs, spider mites, leaf diseases and fruit rot. Cycleman mites that are usually responsible for "nubbins" in everbearing varieties are easily controlled with 2 tablespoons of Kelthane 18½ percent wettable powder per gallon of water. Apply before the plants bloom in spring.

Raspberries should be sprayed with the all-purpose mixture when the leaves are fully expanded and when the blossom buds first show.

If you've had trouble getting your landscape plantings to grow and develop properly, poor wet soil preparation may be the reason. Soil in the foundation planting is often only the basement backfill, which is low in nutrients and has a tendency rather to dry out very quickly or be very heavy and impermeable to water.

The landscape site should have good surface drainage to lead surface water off the site. Poor drainage can be just as damaging as drouth. There should be a minimum of three inches of slope for each 50 feet next to the house. If the soil is very heavy, this should be increased. Let the final grade settle over one winter so it can be re-aligned the following spring for seeding and sodding.

When setting trees and shrubs in heavy soil, it's best to dig through to a light subsoil, if possible to allow for sub-drainage. Otherwise, dig a hole at least 24 inches wide and 24 inches deep for planting, depending on the size of the shrub. Fill the hole with a loamy soil enriched with organic matter. Leave a saucer around the shrub for watering. This should be above grade so that excessive surface water does not accumulate during rainy seasons.

When the soil is poor in the foundation planting, it's often easier and more successful to remove it and replace it with a good soil. However, you may also enlarge the planting holes and fill a good quality topsoil blended with organic matter around the shrub.

Excessive fertilization at planting time can cause root burn which is critical at the time the tree or shrub is establishing itself. Bonemeal may be used as a source of phosphorus and may be mixed in the planting soil.

After the trees or shrubs are planted, it's a good idea to place a surface mulch around them to keep the soil cool and conserve moisture. A mulch of ground corncobs, peat, compost or sphagnum moss will also reduce competition from weeds and grasses.

Volunteer Group For Wichterman Has Been Formed

Dr. Harding Noblitt and Leonard Blume Elected Co-Chairmen of Group

Ben Wichterman

Ben Wichterman of Plummer, former state representative and DFL endorsed candidate for Congress in the Seventh District, has announced the formation of a Ben Wichterman for Congress Volunteer committee. Cy Carpenter of Thief River Falls is the committee treasurer.

The volunteers for Wichterman selected Dr. Harding Noblitt and Leonard Blume as co-chairmen of the committee. Mrs. Milo Larson is secretary.

Dr. Noblitt, Concordia College professor, has long been recognized as one of the outstanding individuals in this area, for his contributions to education and youth development programs, Wichterman said. Dr. Noblitt was defeated by Rep. Odin Langen in the last congressional campaign.

Blume, a life long resident of Grant County, operates a 900-acre livestock and grain farm on which he currently is feeding 150 cattle and 500 hogs. He currently is chairman of the Grant County Agricultural Extension committee, and is a member of the Rural Area Development committee for his community.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Houseowners, apartment dwellers, backyard gardeners and farmers use more pesticide chemicals each year. There are about 50,000 trade-named pesticide products using about 200 basic chemicals. When these products are used according to instructions they can be extremely successful, says the Minnesota State Medical association, but for best results and safety they must be handled with care and their directions and cautions must be followed to the letter.

According to the association, about 75 per cent of the accidents from improper use of pesticides occur among children under age 10. Most of these accidents could be prevented if the individuals involved, or other members of their families, would follow these important precautions:

1 Read the label. Carefully follow all directions and heed all warnings.

2 Store pesticides in locked cupboards or other places where children can't reach them. Do not store near food of any kind.

3. Keep pesticides in their original containers. Keep containers tightly closed. Never put pesticides in unlabeled containers.

4. Use only the amount of pesticide called for on the label.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Eau Claire may be the first Wisconsin city to combine its police and fire departments and create a single Department of Public Safety. A study of this possibility is being considered, according to a Minneapolis Tribune report. The objective of such a combination would of course be economy, and at least a slowdown in the continuing rise of the cost of local government.

The idea is not new. Last November the Wall Street Journal carried an article on a nation-wide trend in this direction, written by staff reporter Mitchell Gordon. In this report Gordon stated:

"Pressed by the soaring cost of police and fire services on one hand and by public demand for more effective protection on the other, a growing number of U. S. communities are attempting a highly controversial solution. They are combining the two public safety functions into a single department whose members are trained to perform both jobs.

"In the past five years, more than a dozen U. S. cities have put their policemen and firemen into the same uniforms and have sent them out to patrol the streets until summoned to a blaze. An almost equal number of cities have had the plan in operation for a longer time. Proposals for additional police-fire mergers are in various stages of study and debate in a number of other cities.

"There appears to be a considerable enthusiasm for police-fire integration among officials of some cities where it has been in operation for a long time and among taxpayer and citizens' groups which have studied the plan.

"It is a commonly heard contention of opponents of police-fire integration that the mergers of these departments usually lead to poorer fire ratings. The California Fireman, a monthly publication of the California Firemen's Association, recently charged that "fire insurance rates are far higher in cities with integrated departments" than in communities with separate forces. And a statement to the effect that police-fire unifications usually worsen cities' fire ratings was read into the record not long ago at a convention of the AFL-CIO International Association of Fire Fighters.

"But the Missouri Public Expenditure Council stated after a recent survey that it was unable "to find one city that had been penalized" in its fire rating because of a police-fire merger. And an official of the National Board of Fire Underwriters in New York recalls no such case.

On the contrary, the fire grades of Sunnyvale and Oak Park have improved since these cities combined their departments, though officials say this might be due to better water supplies as much as anything else."

It seems to me that the idea has sufficient merit to deserve serious consideration here in Thief River Falls, and I suggest that a study committee be created to examine the facts and submit a report, favorable or unfavorable, for public consideration. And there might be justification for such a study committee to check on the operations of all of our units of local government with the view of finding combinations that might increase efficiency and lower costs.

Such a study could be county-wide and, if it were, then of course the villages and the rural areas should be represented on the committee. Pennington County is a small county in area and also in assessed valuation. The only city is centrally located, and not only serves, but has many interests in common with all of the county area. I can see several possibilities for combinations of services that might bring about greater efficiency and lower costs throughout the area. I would like to get your reaction.

Senator Goldwater's victory in California was not, in my opinion, a fortunate result for the Republican party. But I am satisfied that a Rockefeller victory would have been worse. There were things about Goldwater that I liked, mainly the fact that he was an outspoken conservative. But I doubt that he has the balance that a good president should have. For one thing he talks too much, and too often he shoots from the hip.

I am sure that Goldwater cannot be elected. He will not have the united support of those who normally call themselves Republicans, and even with the united support of the party, it is doubtful that any Republican can defeat President Johnson this year.

But a reasonably conservative candidate who would have the united support of the party could be helpful in building up the party's strength in Congress. And that is the important need at the present time if we are to restore the health of our economy and start reducing our national debt instead of going further into debt in a period of prosperity—unfortunately a false prosperity created for partisan purposes in a campaign year by government wasteful spending.

I hope the Republican party leaders throughout the country will now recognize the obvious fact that neither Goldwater nor Rockefeller should be considered seriously as presidential candidates. They already have defeated each other, and the only hope for conservative strength in the nation is to select a candidate who will have the united support of the party—a conservative party that will restore fiscal responsibility and international respect to our government.

MAIN STREET, U.S.A.

BY BERT MILLS
Washington Editor of "National Publisher"

Congress has ducked the issue for 175 years but it looks as if action might be taken in 1964 leading toward an eventual solution of the related problems of Presidential disability and a vacancy in the Vice Presidency.

A Senate subcommittee has approved a proposed constitutional amendment to resolve both problems. It must be approved by a two-thirds vote of both Senate and House, and then be ratified by three-fourths of the states within seven years.

Simplest part of the problem to solve is naming a Vice President to fill a void. The pending Senate resolution would add these words to the Constitution: "Whenever there is a vacancy in the office of Vice President, the President shall nominate a Vice President who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress."

For nearly seven months now, there has been no Vice President, and there will be none until January 20, 1965, the next inauguration day. The void is by no means unusual. It has happened 16 times in our history, and for a total of more than 38 years.

By fortunate circumstance, no President has ever died in office while the Vice Presidency was vacant. But it could happen at any time and under present law the successor could be a member of the opposite political party from the former President.

In 1947, Congress repealed an 1886 succession law which provided for cabinet members to succeed, starting with the secretary of state. The 1947 act made the speaker of the house next in line after the Vice President. Thus Speaker John McCormack (D., Mass.) would become President if anything happened to Lyndon B. Johnson before next January 20.

In recent years, the Vice President's responsibilities have been greatly increased. Added duties include membership on the National Security council and the chairmanship of the National Aeronautics and Space council and the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities. In addition, Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy sent their number two man abroad on various missions.

Presidents Often Disabled

Former President Eisenhower revealed recently that there were three occasions during his eight years in the White House when he was incapacitated to the point where he was unable to direct the nation's affairs, once for nearly a week. At least two earlier Presidents were disabled for months.

The proposed Constitutional amendment provides alternatives, depending on whether the President is able and willing to delegate his duties to the Vice President. If he declares in writing that he is unable to function, the Vice President would serve as acting President.

If an ailing President cannot or will not state his disability in writing, the amendment would empower the Vice President, with the written concurrence of a majority of the cabinet, to inform Congress of the President's disability and assume office as acting President.

What if a President insists he is able to function and the Vice President and a majority of the cabinet disagree? Under these circumstances, Congress would decide by a two-thirds vote whether the Vice President should continue as acting President or whether the President should resume his duties.

This provision for resolving a dispute has been criticized on grounds that an ambitious Vice President could play a key role in promoting himself. One alternative suggestion is to leave the decision to the cabinet, acting on appropriate medical advice.

General Eisenhower believes the responsibility should be left to the Vice President but he feels that any system devised by Congress would be an improvement over the total void that now exists in law.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Just how much do we know about soil moisture? Not as much as we'd like to, according to Merle Halverson, extension soils specialist at the University of Minnesota. "It comes and it goes," he said. "If it weren't so necessary to crop growth we'd worry less about it."

He says that it is by studying when and how it comes and goes that we best learn what can and can't be done about soil moisutre.

Last month in this column we talked about water storage in the soil and how land tillage considerations can take advantage of this stored water. Here we'd like to discuss when and how soil moisture comes and goes.

Halverson says that all soils store water — some more, some less. How much is in storage at planting time and available to plants can be measured. Also, all soils receive water from rainfall during the growing season of which a portion runs off and the rest penetrates the soil.

Taken together, these measurements tell us how much total water the crop has to work with.

All soils lose water. Evaporation from the soil surface accounts for some; transpiration through plant leaves and stems explain most of the rest. The term used to define the two together is evapotranspiration and abbreviated E-T.

Here's how the process takes place:

Water available to plants and stored in the soil at planting time PLUS rainfall infiltrating during the growing season MINUS available water stored in the soil at crop maturity EQUALS the water "used" by the crop in evapotranspiration.

That is how water used by a crop is measured in the field.

However, everyone knows that in many areas of Minnesota the average rainfall varies greatly with the time of year. So do soil water losses.

For example, the average rainfall for March during the period 1931-1955 was 1.55 inches. There is no potential water loss that early in the year so there's an excess of 1.55 inches for the month.

In July of the same time span, however, the average rainfall was 3.01 inches. The potential water loss was 6.08 inches due to E-T thus leaving a "shortage" of 3.07 inches of water for that month on the average.

It is easy to see, Halverson says, that when we look at each month of the year this way over a period of time we notice that fall, winter, and early spring are times when soil moisture acumulates. The average monthly rainfall exceeds moisture losses and the soil is recharged with precious water.

The growing season, on the other hand, is a time of moisture deficits when E-T usage exceeds rainfall. It is at this time the crop must fall back on the moisture stored in the soil to maintain healthy growth.

The statistics cited here were collected by D. G. Baker, climatologist for the university and are for Lincoln, Lyon, Redwood, Pipestone, Murray, Cottonwood, Rock, Nobles and Jackson counties in southwestern Minnesota, but this type of research is applicable to any area of the state.

It is here, Halverson adds, that we can see how this information ties directly to the ability of a soil to store the water received through rainfall.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Office at the Fargo VA Center, Elm Street and 21st Avenue North, Fargo, North Dakota.

Q — I live in a small community and have been unable to find a lending agency which will grant me a loan to purchase a home. How may I obtain a GI loan?

A — Get in touch with your nearest VA Regional Office to see if your county is on the approved list for VA direct loans. If it is, you may be able to obtain a VA direct loan for home purchase.

Q — My uncle, a World War I veteran, recently died leaving no family except a daughter who is twenty-three but in an institution. Is it possible for her to receive pension?

A — Children normally receive payments until age eighteen, or until twenty-one if still in school. However, one who becomes helpless before eighteen may still be paid as long as helplessness continues. A claim should be filed to determine your cousin's entitlement.

Q — Is a member of the Reserves, injured while on inactive duty training, eligible for disability compensation through the VA?

A — Yes. The law provides compensation for injuries incurred in line of duty by reservists during a drill or other period of authorized inactive duty training. Application should be filed with the nearest VA Regional Office, and should be accompanied by an official statement from the Unit Commander showing the date and nature of the inactive duty, and the date, circumstances, nature and line of duty status of the injury.

Under the PLAN OF MERGER each person who is now a holder of stock of Karlstad shall be issued in exchange for such stock a like number of shares of stock of Thief River. The difference between the par value of Karlstad's stock and Thief River's stock (to wit, the sum of $2.50 per share) shall be deducted from the stockholder's patronage equity credits in Karlstad. Any person holding Karlstad stock who is not an active patron shall, in lieu of receiving stock of Thief River, be credited with the amount of h's Karlstad stock in the form of patronage equities entered on the books of Thief River.

All remaining patronage equity credits of Karlstad shall be entered on the books of Thief River at their full face amount in the names of the respective patrons of Karlstad. Such patronage credits shall be redeemed in the following manner:

If and when the Board of Directors of Thief River redeem Thief River's 1951 patronage equities, the 1948 Karlstad patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1952 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1949 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1953 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1950 and 1951 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1954 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1952 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1955 patronage equities shall be redeemed. Thereafter the patronage equity credits of both associations for the same corresponding years shall be redeemed together.

The steps of merger whereby Karlstad shall become merged with Thief River shall be as follows:

1. The merger shall become effective on July 1, 1964. On that date all the facilities and property of Karlstad, including physical assets, cash on hand, accounts receivable, and every other form of property of any nature whatsoever, shall become the property of Thief River. On the date Karlstad shall cease to be a corporation and shall become fully merged into Thief River under the provisions of Section 308.15, Subd. 4, of the Minnesota Statutes. All of the outstanding debts and liabilities of Karlstad shall automatically become the debts and liabilities and obligations of Thief River as of July 1, 1964. Thief River shall step into the shoes of Karlstad and be obligated to fulfill all the outstanding contracts, commitments and engagements of Karlstad. The entire property of Karlstad shall automatically become the property of Thief River as of July 1, 1964.

2. The articles of incorporation of Thief River are hereby amended in the following particulars:

(A) Section 1 of Article III shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The amount of authorized capital stock of the Association shall be $50,000 divided into 4,000 shares of common stock with a par value of $12.50 per share.

(B) Section 3 of Article V shall be amended to read as follows:

Section 3. The annual meeting shall be held at such time as shall be prescribed by the By-Laws."

(C) Section 1 of Article VI shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The government of this Association and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a Board of Directors, the number of which shall be determined in accordance with the By-Laws. The terms of office of the Directors shall be determined by the By-Laws.

3. The By-Laws of Thief River are hereby amended in the following particulars:

(A) Section 1 of Article I shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The annual meeting of the Association shall be held at such time and place as shall be fixed by the Board of Directors, not more than six months after the close of the fiscal year."

(B) Section 1 of Article II shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The number of Directors shall be not less than five nor more than twelve, the exact number to be determined by the stockholders at the annual meeting of stockholders. Directors shall be elected for a term of three (3) years."

(C) Article V shall be amended in its entirety to read as follows:

ARTICLE V

"The members of the Association shall consist of the persons who are holders of its capital stock. It shall be the obligation of each member to market his milk or cream through the Association and to patronize the other facilities and services offered by the Association to the extent of his needs. Whenever the Board of Directors determines that a holder of stock is not eligible for membership or has failed to patronize the Association for a period of twelve (12) months, such stockholder shall have no voting rights on account of such stock, and his stock shall be non-voting stock, and written notice to that effect shall be mailed to him at his last known post office address, and the Association shall have the right (but not the obligation to do so) to redeem said stock at par value. Nothing in this paragraph shall affect the interest, if any, of said stockholder in the allocated reserves of the Association. The provisions of this paragraph shall be printed on each stock certificate."

4. On the effective date of the merger, the number of Directors of Thief River shall be increased from five (5) Directors (the number which it now has) to seven (7) Directors. The seven Directors shall consist of the five persons presently on the Board of Directors of Thief River, together with one Director elected by the members of Karlstad at the time a vote upon this PLAN OF MERGER, who shall serve until the annual meeting to be held in 1965. The Successors to the two additional Directors shall be elected for terms of three (3) years.

5. Before this PLAN OF MERGER becomes effective it must be approved by the members of each Association (namely Karlstad and Thief River) at a meeting duly called and held separately by each Association at which a quorum is present, and it shall be necessary that the PLAN receive the favorable vote of at least two-thirds of those present at the meeting. A copy of this PLAN OF MERGER must be mailed to every member in connection with the mailing of the notice of meeting for each Association.

6. After the PLAN OF MERGER has been approved by the members of each Association, ARTICLES OF MERGER shall be signed and acknowledged by the President and Secretary of each Association and shall be duly filed and recorded as required by law.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

An Ill Wind

Sunday's blustery winds, out of the north-east, blew most of the anglers off the big waters, and the results were that the fishing reports are very meager. The wind did prove one thing, though, and that is that Dale Wennberg discovered that he is a "fair weather" sailor. Dale was on Lake of the Woods on Sunday, around Springsteel Island, and he challenged the rough water. Unfortunately, he had left the sea-sick pills at home!

The Web Maves-Phil Hess-Tommy Fuller, Wendy Olson lake-trout party returned from The Pas and Clearwater lake with 65 trout. The four, accompanied by their sons, had a very successful trip, but they did fish very diligently. The only one in the party that was given "leave" was Tommy, and he had to do the cooking. The biggest trout brought back was a nine-pounder, but Phil had a strike from a trout that was estimated to have been of trophy size. Phil hooked this fish while anchored off a reef, and the trout succeeded in snagging the line in the anchor-rope and then had the purchase to pull out the hook.

Another lake-trout-bound party left town on Monday morning. Gunsten and Helmer Skomedal, Otto and Carl Rupprecht, Cliff Jorde and John Augustine are headed for the Flin Flon area. And you can wager that those rocks up there won't be the same after this party gets through. They will probably bring back some big trout, and bigger stories!

On the Scoreboard

Region Eight gained seven points in the state high school track and field meet held in Minneapolis on Friday and Saturday, and these seven points were collected by Bemidji's John Warford. Warford picked up four points on his second-place in the 120-yard high hurdles, and added three points with a third place in the 180-yard low hurdles.

The high hurdles event proved to be a resumption of the Warford vs. Tom Stuart duel, and the Breckenridge athlete, with a time of 14.7, won first place. Stuart won the high jump event with a leap of 6 feet, 6 inches, and share double-event honors with White Bear Lake's record-breaking shot putter and discus man, Dan Seehart.

In the 180-yard low hurdles, Warford, who won the Region Eight title with a time of 20.0, trailed Bill McNee of Alexander Ramsey and Dave Nelson of Rochester.

It's Too Late

According to news reports, the Minnesota Twins proposed a four for two player trade with the Los Angeles Angels, but the west coast club did not accept the proposal. And for good reason.

The Twins, in need of righthanded pitching, and a young catcher, had offered catcher Earl Battey, pitcher Dick Stigman, first baseman Vic Power, and outfielder Lenny Green for the Angels' righthander, Dean Chance, and catcher Bob Rodgers.

But the trade, while it was a fine one for the Twins to have made, did not appeal to the Angels, a team that is building. It's not a secret that Green, Battey and Power are "over the hill" as active players. They have several years of imited service in prospect and they would be valuable to a team that is in the pennant race. The White Sox, for instance, could use Battey and Power. But the Angels, no. And to completely snuff out the deal has been the effective pitching that Chance has turned in in his latest outings. He must be rated as one of the American League's outstanding prospects.

The Twins have a tendency of hanging on to their older players until they have lost their trading value. Jim Lemon was a player who had value at one time, but the Twins kept him on the roster until they were forced to give him his release to make room for younger players.

Another Signing

Another of Region Eight's all-round athletes will be making a bid for a career in organized baseball. It was announced that Mickey Hoien of Twin Valley, and just recently graduated from Concordia college, had signed a contract with the Minnesota Twins.

Hoien, who was a three-sport star at Twin Valley, playing baseball, football and basketball, is well-known to local fans. He made a number of appearances on the fairgrounds diamond when he was a member of the Twin Valley Legion club, and later when he played with the Twin Valley seniors in the Norman-Polk league.

Mickey did some pitching with the juniors and the Twins, but it is as an infielder that he will be making his bid in pro ball. He has a strong arm, and has the agility and range required of an infielder. There is some question about his hitting, but apparently the Minnesota club believes that he has the talent to be a hitter.

Taxes Per Individual Higher in Minnesota Than Sales Tax States

In 31 of the 37 "sales tax" states, the per capita state and local tax burden is less than in Minnesota, according to Harold T. Miller, research director of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

Miller cited statistics from a recent U. S. Department of Commerce publication: "Governmental Finances in 1962," issued by the Bureau of the Census.

"Minnesota's burden of state and local taxes for each individual in 1962 was $250.51," Miller said. "In none of the following 31 'sales tax' states was the burden that much: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, West Virginia, Wisconsin or Wyoming."

In the six "sales tax" states where the state and local tax load was higher, Miller said, personal income per individual topped the Minnesota figure by enough to make up the tax difference many times over. California's state and local tax load for each individual was $53.17 more than Minnesota's, but personal income was 662 higher than Minnesota's $2,236 figure.

Colorado met a $4.64 per-person higher tax load with $134 more income. In Connecticut taxes exceeded those in Minnesota by $6.59 for each person, but incomes were higher by $853. Hawaii, which exceeded our tax burden by 24 cents for each person, had $167 more for each person in personal income. In Nevada the comparable figures were $22.48 in taxes and $1,042 in personal income; and in the state of Washington it was $2.03 in taxes and $219 in personal income.

"This combination of higher taxes and lower personal income in our State puts a terrific strain on the pocketbooks of all Minnesotans," Miller said. "It calls for careful screening of all proposals for new or increased spending, and emphasizes the tremendous need for improving our state tax structure to stimulate Minnesota's economic growth and fiscal well-being."

Veterans Service Officers May Get New Handbook

"Blueprint for Action," a handbook for local employment officers of all veterans' organizations, is being distributed to posts and chapter throughout the nation, according to Clarence Bird, chairman of the committee on disabled veterans of the President's committee on employment of the handicapped. Bird also heads the American Legion's national economic commission.

The handbook has instructions for organizing a local program for employment of disabled veterans, acquaints employment officers with agencies in the communities which can help, and gives a number of "do's" and "don'ts" to be observed in counseling disabled veterans seeking jobs. Instructions deal with both the physically and mentally handicapped.

Consumer Price Index Shows Rise in April

Consumer price index rose 0.1 per cent in April because of higher prices for most consumer services, used cars and apparel, the U. S. labor department's bureau of labor statistics reports. Food prices remained steady and housing costs dropped slightly.

At 107.8 per cent of its 1957-59 average, the April index was 1.5 per cent higher than a year ago. Prices of most consumer items had advanced over the year, except for meats, eggs and fuel oil.

An increase of 0.3 per cent in costs of health care and recreation in April resulted from higher prices for such recreational services as movie admissions, and golf greens fees and continuing increases in medical fees and hospital service charges. Health care and recreation costs have risen by nearly 2½ per cent during the past year.

Food prices were 1.3 per cent above a year ago. Prices of meats, poultry and fish reached their lowest level since February 1960 and egg prices were down by 5½ per cent from a year ago.

Apparel prices rose 0.3 per cent over the month, chiefly as a result of increases for men's suits and slacks. Used car prices rose by more than 1 per cent following their usual seasonal pattern.

As a result of the national "old series" index, more than one million workers will receive increases of one cent an hour, based on quarterly reviews. Of these, 800,000 are in the automobile and auto parts industries; 100,000 in the farm and construction equipment industries; 65,000 in the aerospace industries; and 45,000 in miscellaneous metalworking industries.

We Got Mad

As the readers of our paper have undoubtedly noted, we have received a number of public opinion letters. In most cases these have been constructive in content and have been appreciated. This week we received one that was quite different in nature. We read it through several times, trying to focus on its intent. Then we committed a cardinal editorial sin—we got mad.

It has been said by intelligent men—and rightly so, that a person should never speak or write in anger since he will usually regret his words. In spite of this warning, we are writing this editorial while the ire is aroused.

The letter in quesion, signed simply with the organizational initials of "the G. D. I.", is a model of inconsistency. It asks a special favor not granted by this paper to any other group or individual. It condemns a local organization for erecting the stone monument inscribed with the Ten Commandments on the courthouse lawn because it ". . .feels that this is an act not of moral good, but rather of complete hypocrisy."

We would like to answer the writer of the letter in person, but can not do so because it was unsigned. Therefore we will set forth our comments here, trusting that the writer and his fellow G. D. I. members (if any) will read them.

A note to the editor, at the Bottom of the letter, sates the following: "Ours is a newly formed independent organization of social protest. Because our opinions are those of our members en masse, we prefer not to sign names to this editorial and to our succeeding contributions. Please respect our opinions as we are interested in the open discussion of events pertinent to our community."

At least several times before we have stated that we welcome letters of public opinion. These letters must be signed, but names will be withheld on request and kept confidential. Such letters should be in good taste. Letters which are unsigned will not be considered for publication.

We, too, are interested in "the open discussion of events pertinent to our community". We are interested in such an event as the formation of a "newly formed independent organization of social protest". "Open discussion" takes place in public organizations and meetings, not in secret organizations, private groups, and secluded rooms.

If the G. D. I. is an organization, it has officers. If the secretary or president of this organization, in behalf of the group and its opinions reached "en masse", will sign the letter of "social protest", we will consider them for publication. If he, she or they will not sign the letters, then he, she or they may save the time spent in typing.

Personally, to the writer of the letter, we would take issue with the protest you are trying to express. We feel you are indulging in a bit of hypocrisy yourself, and we strongly suspect you have deeper motives than the petty criticism expressed in the letter, which, of course, will not be published. And by the way, your letter was public opinion and not an editorial. Writing editorials is our business.

Ten Years of Doubt

This June marks the tenth anniversary of a Supreme Court decision which, according to "Oil-Facts", has left the natural gas industry and its 35 million customers in a state of growing uncertainty. On June 7, 1954, the court ruled that the Federal Power commission was responsible for setting prices which producers of natural gas charged for their product. Prior to 1954, such prices were set competitively.

During the last 10 years, the FPC has tried several methods of setting prices. One approach whereby prices were to reflect a producer's costs plus a reasonable return. This was found unworkable. At one point, in 1960, the commission reported that it would have taken until the year 2043 to get current with its rate cases even if the commission staff were immediately tripled. This method was abandoned.

The system now being used, "Oil Facts" says, is called area pricing. Under this method the commission has divided the country into 23 areas; it has set temporary ceiling prices for each area pending the completion of hearings at which final prices will be determined. So far the commission has spent three years collecting 30,000 pages of testimony and 387 exhibits while trying to arrive at final prices for three of the areas.

With 20 areas still to go, producers have become convinced that area pricing is no pricing. Prices set competitively as in the past may well turn out to be the only practical approach, but big government is seldom practical.

What Does It Mean?

When Gov. George Wallace of Alabama drew surprisingly high vote totals in primary elections in Wisconsin (34 per cent), Indiana (30 per cent) and Maryland (43 per cent), the nation's political analysis began to ask what it meant. They are beginning to arrive at the same conclusions.

Politicians are beginning to find out that civil rights is not a problem which can be legislated away with the passage of a bill in Congress. On its own merits, and on the basis of his past record, Governor Wallace as an individual would not have the strong support he has received. The votes he received are in opposition to the proposed federal civil rights legislation and in favor of his states' rights position.

More and more, in conversing with people in regard to the bill, we find it to be unpopular. People don't like federal government interference—they don't like the idea of having their freedoms subjected to federal inspection—they don't like having their jobs held in jeopardy—they don't like the thought of being denied the choice to hire or fire whom and when they choose—they don't enjoy the proposed restrictions on rentals—and they like even less the penalties provided to put "teeth" into the legislation.

And those individuals who are indifferent because they don't think the bill would affect them personally are sadly mistaken. The civil rights bill, and the power it grants to individuals, is dangerously explosive. It is this power to which we most strenuously object. Some politicians would like to see the bill enacted. . .they don't like to be proved wrong. The communist party would like to see the bill beome law. . .it would make things easier for their plans. We would rather let things rnu their due course.

In the Same Boat

Unemployment, said to be one of our nation's greater internal problems, is not at all unique to the United States. Having the government control the business climate and manage the programs does not provide the perfect answer. Here's what a report from Radio Free Europe has to say about the employment situation in Poland:

> "Communism's claim that it can provide full employment even in a complex industrial society is belied by current official figures from Poland. Five per cent of the non-agricultural Polish work force is unemployed. About 20,000 persons were dismissed from jobs in the "socialized sector" last winter alone.
> "Considering that about 300,000 Poles were unemployed last October, this means there are some 500,000 persons, many of them young, out of work. There have been frequent reports in Poland's state-controlled press that young apprentices are being dismissed from their posts. A Polish demographic expert recently estimated that between 1966 and 1970 new jobs will have to be found for 1.5 million young persons entering the labor market. He expects the number of persons seeking work in Poland increasingly to outnumber the available new jobs."

It would appear, from this report, that free and comunist countries find themselves in the same boat when trying to fit an expanding population into the labor market. We would prefer to let the free enterprise system take its course in evolving the solution. It doesn't have all the answers, but neither does an all-powerful government.

The Swim of Things

Tindolph park swimming pool is now open to the public with lifeguards on duty. The river pool is far from the best as swimming facilities go, but it does offer countless hours of fun for area people.

With the swimming season goes the warning to heed rules of water safety. Never swim alone, after eating or when overly tired; don't overestimate your ability; swim at protected pools or beaches, perferably under the supervision of someone trained in lifesaving techniquets; never dive into unknown waters; and if a boat overturns, stay with it and don't try to swim a long distance to shore.

Increased interest in water sports of all kinds in recent years has added to the potential dangers involved. Be cautious—be a safe swimmer, not a statistic.

This is Proof?

William L. Batt Jr., adminisrator of the Area Redevelopment Administration (ARA), has stated in a news release that the ARA's experience of the past three years "proves that the war on poverty can be won—cheaper than any other war in the nation's history." We doubt it.

As an example of workers being taken off relief rolls and turned into steady employees, Batt cited a new factory started last fall in the Indian reservation country at Anadarko, Okla. He said the firm was expected to hire 50 workers inside of a year's operation. It is already nearing the 100-worker mark and growing, he said.

This sounds like a successful venture, and we imagine there are other businesses which have received ARA funds which are also proving successful. The fact that there has been a success, however, does not prove a great deal. Many battles have been won by forces which have lost wars.

AT THE CHURCHES

Community Methodist
A. Dean Headley, Pastor

"Student Day" will be observed Sunday, June 14, at the 9:30 worship service. College youth will assist in the worship service, and students from the Daily Vacation Bible School will share in the service. The special offering will go for our Indian work at Pine Bend, and envelopes for our Scholarship and Loan Fund for College youth through the church. Following the worship hour there will be an open house for parents and friends in the fellowship rooms below. Since this is the closing of Bible school, let us as a congregation learn with our youth as they have again looked at the life and teachings of Christ. This is one of our best opportunities to share through our church as a family. Plan to attend worship this Sunday as a family unit.

This week your pastor and Mrs. Headley will attend Annual Conference at Hamline University, St. Paul. A report will be given the last Sunday in June at the worship hour.

Registrations for youth camps are being taken at this time. The Senior High Camp opens this Sunday, June 14. Blanks are available at the church, or the office. $5 is to be paid with the registration, and the other $5 at the time of camp. You may pay the entire amount at the time of registration.

Plan to attend church each Sunday you are in town. Bring your guests. Come dressed informally if you like. The services are prepared for the entire family.

No worries, no responsibilities! A lot of us would gladly trade places with Wendy, just to share that wonderful "joy of living" that children feel so often, and adults experience so rarely.

"But what is there to be happy about?" you may be thinking. "Maybe Wendy has no worries, but I certainly have!"

Perhaps we forget that this world is in God's hands . . . and that, with God, nothing is impossible. We wear ourselves out seeking human solutions to our problems, when Divine help is always available if we will only ask.

Try it. Try bringing your worries and doubts to God this Sunday in your neighborhood Church. Hear God's promise of guidance and comfort for all who will give their lives to him in childlike trust. And let the Holy Spirit fill your troubled heart with lasting joy.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pick a Chevrolet and fill in the spaces
Now's the time to see the great outdoors in a great Chevrolet buy!

Here you are on the brink of vacation time. There's your Chevrolet dealer in the midst of Trade 'N' Travel Time. You two should get together! Object—celebrating the joys of summer in a new Chevrolet.

Why a Chevrolet? Well, with 15 models in four series, what possible reason is there to look further?

Take the Impala Super Sport (and a lot of people do just that). Comes as a Sport Coupe or Convertible. Has trimmings like front bucket seats, center console, special trim—all as standard equipment. And offers a typically Chevrolet array of extra-cost options.

Plain Impalas are anything but. They come in all popular body styles, including wagons. They're dressed up to a fare-thee-well: fully carpeted interiors, upholstery as durable as it is attractive.

Bel Airs and Biscaynes, the lower priced Chevrolets, make a practice of hiding it. All the conveniences, no sacrificing comfort or style.

Did we mention that Trade 'N' Travel Time won't last forever? It won't. So see your Chevrolet dealer. Then go fill in the spaces.

TABULATING returns in the Thief River Falls Jaycees community development survey are members of the local Jaycees and Mrs. Jaycees chapters. Rick Contos (facing camera at center of photo), project chairman, estimates it will take at least two more full nights of work to complete the tabulation. More than 80 questionnaire forms were returned in the house-to-house survey to determine the attitude and opinion of Thief River Falls residents in regard to community needs and services. The picture above was taken when the group assembled at the Northwestern Bell Telephone company meeting room to initiate the tabulation process.

Rain generally has been plentiful throughout northwestern Minnesota, the total fall being in excess of the average for the month of June. Some damage to crops has resulted, but most reports indicate that the benefits have far exceeded the losses. Several local newspapers in the area carried headlines in their last week's issue referring to "million dollar" rains.

Not far to the south of us a drought condition prevails. At Ortonville, in west central Minnesota, crops are suffering from a lack of moisture. In its June 11 issue the Ortonville Independent reports the total rainfall for the mont of May at only .34 inch and up to that date in June the total was only .28 inch.

The Independent states that Bigstone county's weather committee is raising a fund of $10,000 to hire a Colorado firm of rain makers, and arrangements have been made to secure the cooperation of the Sioux Indians to stage a rain-dance. The condition in that area is considered critical.

In our immediate area the rainfall has varied considerably and while it was generally ample, in was excessive. According to the recordings at the North Central Airline station south of the city, the total for June to date is 5.42 inches. The city has received 1.39 inches of rain since Thursday afternoon.

Temperature and precipitation figures, as recorded by the North Central Airlines weather station at the municipal airport, are as follows: 67 and 39 on Wednesday; 72, 53 and .25 on Thursday; 70, 56 and .86 on Friday; 77 and 50 on Saturday; and 73, 53 and .28 on Sunday. Overnight low this morning was 46.

In an appraisal of the crop condition in our immediate area, Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agent, gave the Times the following statement:

"Water damage is thinning crops in parts of Pennington county. Low areas, where drainage isn't adequate, are particularly affected.

"The crops generally recovered well after the June 1 frost and the rainfall from June 6 through June 9. The deep root development forced by the early season drought and proper fertilization of most crops helped the recovery when the rains came.

"Excess rain will result mostly in thinning of crops. Heat over areas with excessive water would burn crops. Cool weather to date has helped to minimize heat damage to crops in the county."

SPREADING out over the country-side following heavy rains in eastern Marshall and Pennington counties last week was the Mud river, shown in flood stage early last week. The river spilled over its banks and inundated fields, pastures and woodlands. A lone duck is shown flying over the swollen river in this photo taken by "Huck" Olson, Times sports editor.

Good Cheer Club Notes Its 40th Anniversary

Getting to meetings via horse-drawn buggy, cutter or sleigh, according to the season, was the early lot of members of an all-rural club known since 1931 as the Good Cheer club, organized May 22, 1924, by Mrs. S. L. Sorenson of Norden township. The club has grown from the original nine charter members to 34 members at the present time, and recently celebrated its 40th anniversary.

Five of the original members are still living and there are 10 honorary members over 70 years of age. Charter members still active are Mmes. Sorenson, Emil Ness, Carl Jenson and Iver Howick and Miss Laura Kron.

Known at first as the Sandridge club, the name was changed to the more meaningful title of Good Cheer club, whose purpose since the outset has been to help those in need. Approximately $3,000 has been raised for numerous projects, and contributed over the years to many organizations, such as the Salvation Army, Red Cross, polio and cancer funds, March of Dimes, among others, as well as in the form of personal gifts to the sick and needy. Funds were raised through bazaars, socials, serving lunches at community gatherings and from lunches served at the meetings, as well as from free-will offerings.

In the 40 years of club work, 271 meetings have been held, and 115 members have been enrolled. Membership has been restricted to farm women, but those moving into town may retain membership. Most of them are from Norden township, but there are several from North, Sanders and Rocksbury townships, and others now living in Thief River Falls.

Meetings are held monthly from April to December, with three hostesses for each meeting. These hostesses comprise the program committee for the following month. There is a devotional period, a business session, and program incorporated into each meeting. Records have been kept by the somewhat unique organization during the entire 40-year history of its existence.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. HERMAN DARGUS

Back-yard "chef-ing" having become an American summertime passion, recipes for this type of cookery are always in demand. This one is "tried and true" and a family favorite of the Dargus'; we are happy to have obtained it to pass on to our readers.

That there is a trick to successful over-the-coals cooking is a fact anyone who has ever tried it will attest to. In this case, the briquets should be about two layers deep, and burned to a whitish color. This chicken recipe takes about two hours to bring to perfection, but it is really worth the effort, we understand.

BARBECUED CHICKEN

Cut two broiler chickens into serving-sized pieces. (This is superior to leaving them in halves, since it allows the full flavor of the sauce to come through.) Place skin-side up to begin with, on the rack over the coals. Brush with barbecue sauce, using a pastry brush or a new paint brush. Turn about every six minutes, using only tongs for this purpose, as the tines of forks pierce the skin and allow the meat to lose its juices and become dry. Baste with the sauce after each turning.

BARBECUE SAUCE

Combine in a pan:
¾ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
one-third cup catsup
¼ cup vinegar
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
One-third cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons butter, melted
¾ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon Worchestershire sauce
two-thirds cup water
1 onion chopped fine

Mix well, and brush on cut-up chicken.

About 5 lbs. of briquets are required for this. If starter fluid is used, this must all be burned off before the meat is placed on the rack.

The Darguses have two children, a daughter Marilyn, who lives in Fargo, N. D. and a son Ronnie, who is employed at Popplers'. Mr. Dargus manages the Dargus Fix-it Shop in the garage at his home at 315 S. Arnold, where he repairs lawn mowers, bicycles, etc. and sells motor scooters.

Mrs. Dargus has a full calendar at all times, it seems. They are members of Trinity Lutheran church, where she has taught vacation Bible school for several summers, and where she sings in choir and women's chorus and serves as president of Hannah circle and has been secretary of that group. She is past-president of Happy Homemakers and is their secretary for this year; secretary of the Girl Scout council, and was secretary and corresponding secretary for the Newcomers' club, and originator of the packets sent to newcomers with the compliments of many of the business firms in the city. She does some baby-sitting too and is at present also employed at the Ben Franklin store.

It hardly seems fitting to mention spare time, for she has so little of that. She does enjoy entertaining company, however, and is secretary of the family reunion activities of her mother's side of the family. The family holds an annual reunion at Minot, N. D., with about 175 members in attendance. She likes sewing and gardening, and outdoor eating. Mr. Dargus, who once played for dances, still delights her with his accordion selections, which include mainly old-time waltzes at the present time.

Visiting in Minneapolis recently were the Benjamin Bendicksons, and Ben Jr., Marquitta and Susan. They were guests of the Bendicksons' son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bendickson. Susa Bendickson went on from Minneapolis to Duluth to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James (Lila) Malosky.

Medical Mirror

NEARSIGHTEDNESS

Q. My husband is quite nearsighted whereas my eyes are normal. What are the chances of our baby being nearsighted?

A. Theoretically, a 50-50 chance. Nearsightedness is an optical defect, usually due to elongation of the eyeball. Studies on twins show that the optical structure of the eye is inheritable in the same way as other physical features, such as ears, nose, etc.

CALLUS FORMATION

Q. I have a hard, callus-like growth on the inner border of my middle finger, close to the nail. It can be trimmed or picked away but comes back. How can it be removed permanently?

A. If it is simply a callus, the first step is to avoid further irritation. This rule, by the way, applies to any callus. In your case the irritating factor may be "picking" of the skin. This source of irritation might be avoided by covering the area with adhesive tape (change every second day) for as long as necessary to break the habit.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

It is a good idea to count our blessings, isn't it! It doesn't hurt to sit back and take inventory quite often. Remember, when you start counting, to tab one finger with "library"! What a blessing (regardless of your age, height, weight, education, occupation or hobby). Your library is ... a constant, ever-changing source of information and entertainment.

People of Thief River Falls and the surrounding area should never fail to remember there are some persons in their state who have no public library service! That's a lot of people to be without the same blessing, especially in a state that supports one of the best, academically, and largest universities in the U. S....not to mention the smaller private colleges and establishments of higher learning scattered within our borders. Just imagine, 800,000 people either have to buy a book in order to read it, or else settle for the catalogue!

Which one of you lucky people will be first at the charge desk to take home "Beat the Dealer" by Edward O. Thorp? This book presents a scientific analysis of a well-known game called "Twenty-one" or an alias such as "Van John," or "Black Jack." This is a "Must" for those vacationing in Las Vegas or Monaco...(or the basement game room!) And, since the author holds his Ph. D. in mathematics from the University of California at Los Angeles, it is good reading for anyone interested in math, even if they've no intention of trying their luck. (Of course, with the professor's system, you don't need luck...just a good memory!)

"A Parent's Guide to the New Mathematics" by Evelyn Sharp might be of more interest to you than the aforementioned. This clear, concise volume is written especially for parents to enable them to comprehand the new math being introduced into schools. (This is good summer homework for grown-ups, so when school starts next year we'll be prepared!) This is positively a "must" for all school-age children's parents, especially if they want their children to pass!

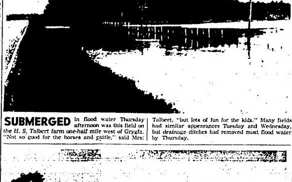
Shades of the past are brought to the present in "Fontier Community", a story of "Kansas City of 1870." A. Theodore Brown, the author, is preparing the second volume to be published during this year. The book is of great interest to all who are fascinated by our country's early life and its constant growth.

Along this same trail of thought comes "Tales of the Frontier", with Everett Dick (also a university professor) as the narrator. He spent some 40 years collecting the material and doing research and study. This is an extraordinary book, one every American should read for the history of our country can not be told, or retold, too often.

If you like something a little more rootin'-tootin', try "Outlaws on Horseback" by Harry Sinclair Drago. This book is the history of organized bands of bank and train robbers who terrorized the middle west for half a century. The truth contained between the covers will shatter some of the illusions which have been built up through the years by the more romantically inclined authors! Drago brings the clear unvarnished truth to the reader.

Like something a bit more modern, but quite nerve shattering? Try "The Bay of Pigs" by Haynes Johnson, as it was told to him. This is the inside story...and a full accounting of the tragedy. Read it.

Just for fun, and a bit of laughter, try "Farmer Takes a Wife" by Sheila Turner. The setting is England, or more precisely, a small village in the south of it. You'll smile and you'll chuckle aloud as you go through life by the side of Mary Braid and her new husband, gentleman farmer John Carrick. Read, friend!



SUBMERGED in flood water Thursday afternoon was this field on the H. S. Talbert farm one-half mile west of Grygla. "Not so good for the horses and cattle," said Mrs. Talbert, "but lots of fun for the kids." Many fields had similar appearances Tuesday and Wednesday, but drainage ditches had removed most flood water by Thursday.

IN FLOOD stage, as a result of heavy rains in the Grygla area, is the usually placid Mud river just north of the junction of Highways 89 and 219. This easterly view, off Highway 89, reveals the wide-spread flooding as the river overflows its banks.

Mrs. V. F. Robarge returned here Wednesday after spending a week in Hibbing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Galbraith. She and Mrs. Myrtle Galbraith of Cass Lake attended graduation exercises for their grandson, John Galbraith at Hibbing on June 5. While there, Mrs. Robarge also spent a day with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Addie Berthiaume at Superior.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Carolyn Offerdahl

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Since the county fair is approaching soon, it is time for 4-H members to think about giving demonstrations at the county fair. A demonstration is given to pass on to others how one can best accomplish a specified job in a better or a new way.

Demonstrating provides an excellent opportunity for self-development. At first, performing and talking before a group may seem like a fearsome task. But if the member is prepared, jitters will not last long. Just ask anyone who has demonstrated.

Throughout your lifetime you probably will be called upon to speak or perform before an audience. Your ease and confidence will increase as you face each new situation. Take advantage of this chance to grow personally and socially. Do this by giving a 4-H demonstration.

What is a demonstration? It is simply showing and telling others how to do something you are interested in and can do well. You might think of a demonstration as a means of selling. Can you "sell" your good idea to the audience?

There are three parts to a demonstration. They are the introduction, the body and the conclusion.

In the introduction you tell your audience in an interesting way what you plan to do. For example, you might say, "Today I am going to show you how to build a dream house for birds. It has all the conveniences of modern bird life, and the neighborhood bird watchers think it's great!" Whatever you say in your introduction, make sure it moves smoothly into the body of the demonstration.

In the introduction you told your audience what you were going to do. In the body, you actually do it. As you work, tell your audience what you are doing, why you are doing it and how you are doing it.

Be sure to talk to your audience and not at them. You may include interesting anecdotes, stories or personal experiences that relate to your topic. But be sure not to memorize as that does not sound natural.

If you have chosen a topic you are interested in, and if you are well prepared, you will find it easy to talk as you work.

The final part of the demonstration is the summary. The summary should be short and should emphasize the main points of the demonstration, display the finished product, ask for questions and invite the audience to inspect.

See! Giving a demonstration is not hard, is it? Let's see a great number of them at the Pennington County fair.

House guests at the Sigurd Folkedahl home the past week were Mr. and Mrs. Otis Reeves, Douglas and Philip of Montgomery, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Orva Williams of Kennewick, Wash.; Mrs. Ralph Wilde, Teresa and Brian; and Meribeth Folkedahl.

Mrs. Marian Hallenbeck, Minneapolis, executive secretary of the American Legion auxiliary in Minnesota, attended the 9th District convention of the Legion auxiliary at Red Lake Falls last week. She spent the following weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Peterson here.

Exports Hold Future For U.S. Soybeans

An expanding export market has written the vital chapter in the postwar success story of U. S. soybeans. While U. S. soybean production has doubled in the past decade, reaching 701 million bushels in 1963, exports more than tripled in the same period, according to Reynold P. Dahl, agricultural economist at the University of Minnesota.

He points out in the current issue of "Minnesota Farm Business Notes" that the soybean equivalent of U. S. exports of soybeans, soybean oil and soybean meal in 1962-63 totaled nearly two-fifths of production. The six countries of the European common market took more than a third of all U. S. exports of soybeans and 65 per cent of total U. S. shipments of soybean meal in the 1962-63 year.

Under a common agricultural policy now being formulated, the common market has decided to limit imports of wheat, feed grains and poultry through variable levies which raise import prices to the higher prices within the market. The effect is to insulate their market from import competition, Dahl explains.

Soybean exports from the U. S. to the market have a bright future, Dahl said. Both soybeans and soybean meal are currently imported duty-free into the common market and will continue to be free under the common external tariff in 1970.

Another factor is the European climate. These countries do not produce enough oilseeds for their needs. They find it desirable to import soybean which contain a higher ratio of high protein meal to oil than do most oilseeds. 80 per cent meal to 17 per cent oil on a weight basis.

Prospects are good, Dahl continues, that demand for soybean meal in the common market will increase rapidly as meat production and consumer incomes there go up. Assuming the present rate of consumer incomes will continue, the EEC commission forecasts that between 1958 and 1970, poultry consumption there will increase 115 per cent, beef consumption by 53 per cent and pork by 29 per cent.

Dahl sees a need for restraint in setting support prices for soybeans, and it is in the interest of the U. S. soybean industry to expand production each year enough to cover the demand increase.

Public Opinion

Dear Editor:

I was interested in reading the article by Norman J. Miller which appeared a short time ago in this column. Anyone who has had a little experience working with the mentally retarded cannot help sharing his feelings concerning the tremendous size of this problem and what has thus far been the lot that the majority of this group has been forced to accept. This has consisted chiefly of indifference and neglect.

I believe one of the reasons for this situation is that human needs and problems are so varied and numerous. In the past we have concentrated our efforts on several areas and where this has been done great progress has been made. As an example we might mention polio with the emphasis placed on "March of Dimes." As a result we have an incidence of 35 permanent polio cases under treatment per 100,000 people. This is something for which we should all be extremely grateful. For the retarded, where help has been so little and so late, the picture is not so bright. Here we have 3,000 afflicted for every 100,00 in the population. These figures are an indication of how rapidly mental retardation is becoming a leading health problem in our nation. In comparison with polio alone it is over 85 times as great.

However, I dot not think the size or nature of the problem should discourage us completely in our efforts. Rather, it should be a great challenge. In my work I have encountered concerned individuals and interested groups of people.

On different occasions I have been asked, "what can we do to help?" In answer to this question I would like to suggest what both individuals and groups can do. First of all, become informed. By contributing $3 an individual can become a member of the local, state and national organization for retarded children. A member receives the state publication and also "Children Limited," the national newspaper. Attend local meetings where films are presented and speakers from the field give important information.

For group or organizations I would like to suggest a definite plan or program. Several organizations in our community already have done this, such as the annual event sponsored by the Mrs. Jaycees. An idea which was conceived by an individual in our community this past week might be one that many organizations could adapt.

At every meeting of our birthday club we have our ARC piggy bank, where each member contributes 25 cents. This is given to the day-activity center to be used for a specific purpose. The group has entitled themselves "The Helpers." Support such as this and every indication of concern is tremendously appreciated by the association.

However, in spite of the fact that a good beginning has been made in in our local community, there is so much more that needs to be done.

In the very near future there will be an urgent need for our day-activity center to operate on a full-time schedule during the entire year. The state is now becoming aware of the needs for such centers. Financially it is a saving to the taxpayers since many who would otherwise be forced to enter state institutions are able to stay in their homes with this extra help.

An appropriation aiding the establishment of 10 new centers was made at our last session of the Minnesota legislature. However, 17 asked for assistance, so much more is needed in order to reach those seeking aid. In order to qualify for state aid the local community must be able to supply one-half of the cost of maintaining the center. This means we would need to greatly increase our efforts in our home community.

Our local unit consists of Pennington and Red Lake counties. I believe that if we had many civic and social organizations adopting the plan of "The Helper" or even having a "March of Quarters" once a year, much could be done for this cause.

Mental illness and mental retardation plays no favorites. They may strike the rich and the poor, the learned and the ignorant in any place at any time. It was no stranger in the family of the late President Kennedy. The effects of laws passed during his administration are now beginning to be felt.

The problem has at last received national recognition, but not until each individual assumes a share of the responsibility will very much be accomplished.

For those of us who were given sound minds and bodies, it should be considered a great privilege to be able to help those who received less.

Sincerely Yours,
Mrs. Melvin Grinde, Instructor

Legion Auxiliary Sends Delegates To Girls State

Representatives sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary in Thief River Falls to Girls State in St. Paul left Wednesday to begin their education session in government operations. Sponsored by the local unit are Lois Benson of Thief River Falls and Joyce Kriel of Goodridge.

"Our girls are part of 17,500 third-year high school girls who will attend various Girls State programs of the American Legion auxiliary this year," stated Mrs. Elmer Andersen, local Girls State chairman. "At Girls State the girls will establish and operate a miniature state government of their own. They will form two political parties, hold conventions, nominate candidates for office, conduct campaigns and hold elections."

Mrs. Harold M. Johnson of Thief River Falls is one of the counselors at the session. Two girls from Minnesota will be selected to represent the state at Girls Nation in Washington, D. C.

Red Lake Tribal Court Judges at UND Conference

Two Indian tribal court judges from Minnesota, Alex Everwind and Edward Dudley of Red Lake, attended the first annual Indian judge's conference at the University of North Dakota. The training program was designed to acquaint the Indian tribal court judges with the elementary principles of Anglo-American law. Twenty-eight judges from six states attended the session.

Topics included in the discussions were alcoholism, family relations, evidence, judicial systems in the United States, civil proceedings and criminal procedure.

BSC Gets Science Foundation Grant

Awarded for Elementary In-Service Institute

Announcement of a $5,700 grant to Bemidji State college from the National Science foundation to hold an in-service institute for elementary school teachers and principals was made this week by Dr. Richard E. Beitzel, associate professor of chemistry and director of the institute.

This is one of the first institutes of this type run for elementary school personel at BSC, and because the enrollment is limited to 30 students, Dr. Beitzel asks that advance registration be made during the summer. The fall session will run September 21 through December 7 and the spring session will start March 1 and run through May 17, 1965.

The institute is especially designed for elementary school personnel who have little or no formal training in physical science and modern mathematics. The National Science Foundation grant allows for the tuition of the student, a travel allowance and a maximum of $10 for books. The college will assess no fees to students enrolled only in this institute.

Applications are being accepted now and forms may be obtained by writing Dr. Bietzel at Bemidji State college.

Ore-Ida Stops Lake Bronson Operations

(Kittson County Enterprise)

Last Saturday night Ore-Ida Corporation called their engineer in charge of operations and instructed him to bring a halt to all building activity at the site of the $2,500,000 factory which was being built at the south edge of Lake Bronson village, Kittson county.

There was considerable and increasing activity at the factory site over the past few weeks. The contractor had moved in, heavy machinery was at work there removing earth to refill with ballast for a spur track to admit the Soo line railway into the plant site, other equipment was digging a settling pond of enormous size. A good well was dug and capped which brought in ample water, the Corporation was well pleased with it.

Ore-Ida officials said the reason for stopping the "works" was because not enough farmers had contracted to raise potatoes enough to operate the plant which was scheduled to operate and process this fall's crop. They intimated that if farmers would cooperate and grow the potatoes required they might resume operations in the imediate future.

Argyle Board Buys Two-Way Radio

(Argyle Banner)

At its regular monthly meeting held last Wednesday night, the Argyle school board voted to accept the low bid submitted jointly by Electronics Associates of Grand Forks and Northwest Television of Argyle, for installation of a two-way radio system for its school buses.

The total bid price is $2,330.55. The units will be the Johnson "Messenger 202" business-band series.

Ask Bids for Extensive Street Improvements

(Warren Sheaf)

Bids for approximately 50 blocks of street paving including laying of storm sewers and curb and gutter construction will be received by the City Council in Warren on July 2 at 2 p.m., the project being approved by the Council in regular session last night.

The project includes the entire original proposal with the exception of the Montana Street area and the city parking lot on the Great Northern right of way, said M. H. Sands, city clerk.

Warren Cream to be Churned Here

(Warren Sheaf)

Several economy moves to better Warren Cooperative Creamerys financial position were announced at the postponed stockholders meeting held Thursday night in Warren city auditorium. Faced with declining volume of milk and sales and wearing out equipment, the decision of the board to have butter churned at Thief River Falls and milk bottled and handled at Grand Forks was told to about 35 stockholders attending the meeting. No processing of any type is now done at the creamery, one of Warren's biggest employers 10 years ago.

Kittson Seeks County-wide Curfew

(Karlstad Advocate)

The school superintendents and pastors of Kittson County met at Karlstad, on June 2nd with the following towns being represented; Karlstad, Kennedy, and Lake Bronson.

After some discussion the following motions were made as recommendations to be presented to the Peace Officers Association of Kittson County that:

1. A curfew be set for 10:00 P.M. Central Standard Time from Sunday through Thursday with the summer season (June through August) 10:30 p.m. daylight savings time, and that a 11:00 p.m. curfew be allowed for Friday and Saturday nights throughout the year.
2. Investigation to the point of prosecution, the sale and purchase of liquor to minors.
3. Enforce the smoking laws of Minnesota.
4. Place the responsibility of supervision of all outdoor drive-in theaters in the county.

Meeting was adjourned.

Work to Start Soon on New Court House

(Kittson County Enterprise)

Very soon now, work will start on the new court house here, an $800,000 structure, according to information given this newspaper by Lawrence Ward, Chairman of the Kittson County Board of Commissioners.

Mr. Ward said the architect said the final set of plans in their entirety will be in the offices of the Federal Government Home and Finance Agency at Chicago by July 6th, a matter of days from now. He said this Agency was the segment of the Federal government from which the $400,000 loan was obtained to help build the new building.

Mr. Ward said actual work on the grounds would be under way by July 30th.

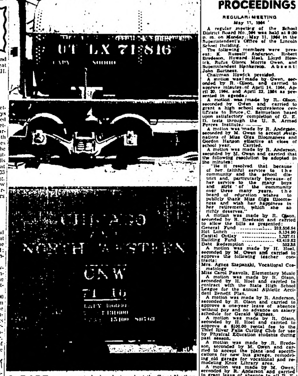
Lake State Buys Rural Phone Lines

(Stephen Messenger)

Lake State Telephone Company with the district office in Warren, has acquired the rights to the area formerly served by four service station companies in the rural Stephen area. The acquisition of the rights to serve these areas has been approved by the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission.

The five companies, totaling 179 users, are: Stephen Farmers Independent Telephone company, serving 48 subscribers; Stephen Red River Telephone company, serving 45 subscribers; Farmers Service Rural Telephone company, serving 25 subscribers; Sinnott-Augsburg Telephone company, serving 49 subscribers; Englund Farmers Telephone company, serving 12 subscribers.

It is the intention of the Lake State Telephone Company to provide four party rural buried telephone service in the new areas acquired. This will mean that the poles and open wire now used to serve the service station companies' subscribers will disappear. There will be no more than four rural establishments on a line when the buried plant is completed.



A RARE occurrence took place last week at the Great Northern freight depot when two railroad cars with the same serial number appeared in Thief River Falls at the same time. The two cars, one a Union Tank car and the other a CNW boxcar, were coupled together and photographed at the crossing in front of the L. B. Hartz warehouse.

The average driver is involved in most accidents. It isn't always the fool or daredevil who makes the error. The everyday driver, driving too fast and taking one chance too many is often the culprit.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of our dearly beloved son and brother, David, who was taken from our family circle June 11, 1960:

A ray of sunshine
Has gone from our home,
And a place is vacant today,
And the little boy
That we loved so well
Seems so very far away.
But we're trying to live
Just day by day,
Trusting the Father for light—
Knowing that some day
He'll be with us again
In the Home in the City of Light.

He is sadly missed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nordhagen, by Shirley, Leslie, Bruce, Richard and Steven. 1t48p

TAKE NOTICE that a special meeting of stocholders will be held at city auditorium in Thief River Falls, Minnesota on June 23, 1964, commencing at 8 o'clock P. M., to vote on the following PLAN OF MERGER between the KARLSTAD COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION AND THE THIEF RIVER FALLS COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASS'N.

Otto Saugen, Secretary

PLAN OF MERGER OF KARLSTAD CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION INTO THIEF RIVER FALLS COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION

Under this PLAN OF MERGER, KARLSTAD CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION (herinafter called "Karlstad") shall become merged in to THIEF RIVER FALLS CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION (herinafter called "Thief River") in such a way that all of Karlstad's property shall belong to Thief River and the members of Karlstad shall become members of Thief River.

Karlstad has but one class of stock, namely common stock, par value $10.00 per share, which has been issued to its members. It also has outstanding on its books patronage equity credits issued for consecutive years commencing with the year 1948.

Thief River has but one class of stock, namely common stock, of the par value of $12.50 per share. It also has outstanding on its books patronage equity credits issued for consecutive years commencing with the year 1931.

Under the PLAN OF MERGER each person who is now a holder of stock of Karlstad shall be issued in exchange for such stock a like number of shares of stock of Thief River. The difference between the par value of Karlstad's stock and Thief River's stock (to wit, the sum of $2.50 per share) shall be deducted from the stockholder's patronage equity credits in Karlstad. Any person holding Karlstad stock who is not an active patron shall; in lieu of receiving stock of Thief River, be credited with the amount of his Karlstad stock in the form of patronage equities entered on the books of Thief River.

All remaining patronage equity credits of Karlstad shall be entered on the books of Thief River at their full face amount in the names of the respective patrons of Karlstad. Such patronage credits shall be redeemed in the following manner:

If and when the Board of Directors of Thief River redeem Thief River's 1931 patronage equities, the 1948 Karlstad patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1932 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1949 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1933 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1950 and 1951 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1934 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1952 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1935 patronage equities shall be redeemed. Thereafter the patronage equity credits of both associations for the same corresponding years shall be redeemed together.

The steps of merger whereby Karlstad shall become merged with Thief River shall be as follows:

1. The merger shall become effective on July 1, 1964. On that date all the facilities and property of Karlstad, including physical assets, cash on hand, accounts receivable, and every other form of property of any nature whatsoever, shall become the property of Thief River. On the date Karlstad shall cease to be a corporation and shall become fully merged into Thief River under the provisions of Section 308.15, Subd. 4, of the Minnesota Statutes. All of the outstanding debts and liabilities of Karlstad shall automatically become the debts and liabilities and obligations of Thief River as of July 1, 1964. Thief River shall step into the shoes of Karlstad and be obligated to fulfill all the outstanding contracts, commitments and engagements of Karlstad. The entire property of Karlstad shall automatically become the property of Thief River as of July 1, 1964.

2. The articles of incorporation of Thief River are hereby amended in the following particulars:

(A) Section 1 of Article III shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The amount of authorized capital stock of the Association shall be $50,000 divided into 4,000 shares of common stock with a par value of $12.50 per share.

(B) Section 3 of Article V shall be amended to read as follows:

Section 3. The annual meeting shall be held at such time as shall be prescribed by the By-Laws."

(C) Section 1 of Article VI shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The government of this Association and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a Board of Directors, the number of which shall be determined in accordance with the By-Laws. The terms of office of the Directors shall be determined by the By-Laws.

3. The By-Laws of Thief River are hereby amended in the following particulars:

(A) Section 1 of Article I shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The annual meeting of the Association shall be held at such time and place as shall be fixed by the Board of Directors, not more than six months after the close of the fiscal year."

(B) Section 1 of Article II shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The number of Directors shall be not less than five nor more than twelve, the exact number to be determined by the stockholders at the annual meeting of stockholders. Directors shall be elected for a term of three (3) years."

(C) Article V shall be amended in its entirety to read as follows:

ARTICLE V

"The members of the Association shall consist of the persons who are holders of its capital stock. It shall be the obligation of each member to market his milk or cream through the Association and to patronize the other facilities and services offered by the Association to the extent of his needs. Whenever the Board of Directors determines that a holder of stock is not eligible for membership or has failed to patronize the Association for a period of twelve (12) months, such stockholder shall have no voting rights on account of such stock, and his stock shall be non-voting stock, and written notice to that effect shall be mailed to him at his last known post office address, and the Association shall have the right (but not the obligation to do so) to redeem said stock at par value. Nothing in this paragraph shall affect the interest, if any, of said stockholder in the allocated reserves of the Association. The provisions of this paragraph shall be printed on each stock certificate."

4. On the effective date of the merger, the number of Directors of Thief River shall be increased from five (5) Directors (the number which it now has) to seven (7) Directors. The seven Directors shall consist of the five persons presently on the Board of Directors of Thief River, together with one Director elected by the members of Karlstad at the time a vote upon this PLAN OF MERGER, who shall serve until the annual meeting to be held in 1966. The Successors to the two additional Directors shall be elected for terms of three (3) years.

5. Before this PLAN OF MERGER becomes effective it must be approved by the members of each Association namely Karlstad and Thief River at a meeting duly called and held separately by each Association at which a quorum is present, and it shall be necessary that the PLAN receive the favorable vote of at least two-thirds of those present at the meeting. A copy of this PLAN OF MERGER must be mailed to every member in connection with the mailing of the notice of meeting for each Association.

6. After the PLAN OF MERGER has been approved by the members of each Association, ARTICLES OF MERGER shall be signed and acknowledged by the President and Secretary of each Association and shall be duly filed and recorded as required by law.

Local Legion Jrs. Edge R.L. Falls 1-0

Fred Landman's looping single over shortstop with one out in the seventh inning spoiled righthander Rick Jensen's bid for a no-hit and no-run game in a junior baseball game played here Wednesday evening. Coach Ralph Skay's local club scored a 1 to 0 win over coarch Mike Hajostek's Red Lake Falls juniors, as the Lakers' lanky righthander, Bernard Demarais, nearly matched Jensen's performance, giving up but four hits and striking out 11 batsmen.

The locals will have a busy schedule this week, with six games on the slate, including a doubleheader with the Devils Lake, N.D., juniors here on Wednesday. On Monday, with game time at 7 p.m., the locals will play the Fertile juniors at Fertile; on Tuesday, with game time at 6:30 p.m., the local squad will play the Roseau juniors at Roseau in a Northwest league game; and on Wednesday, with game times at 6 and 8 p.m., the Devils Lake juniors will play here.

On Thursday coach Skay's club will travel to Crookston for a 6:30 game p.m. against Dick Halvorson's Crookston juniors; and on Friday, at 6:30 p.m., a return game will be played against the Red Lkae Falls juniors at Red Lake Falls.

In Wednesday evening's well-played game, with only one error being recorded, the game's lone tally was marked up in the second inning. With two men out, Tony Poole, a righthanded batter, sliced a fly into right field and was credited with a double when Mike Anderson failed to hold the ball after a long run. Lefthanded batting Pat Fischer poked a hit along the left-field foul line, scoring Poole with the game-winning run.

Red Lake Falls made its strongest bid for a run in the fourth inning when, with one out, Anderson and Demarais reached base, the former on an error and the latter on a base on balls. Landman was retired, pitcher to first base, with the runners advancing to third second, respectively. Jensen whiffed Tim Kuiper to end the threat.

Vets Top Hartz In Rain-Soaked Softball League

Bea's Food Market In First Place; Full Slate Of Games Set This Week

City Softball League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Bea's Food Market	4	0	1.000
Bridgeman's	3	1	.750
V.F.W.	3	1	.750
Hamm's Beer	1	2	.667
Hartz Stores	1	3	.250
Rasmussen Ins.	1	3	.250
Thorp Loan	0	3	.000

Result of week's game:

V.F.W., 4, vs. Hartz Stores, 2.

This week's schedule:

June 15, Rasmussen Ins., vs. Hartz Stores.
June 16, V.F.W. vs. Hamm's Beer.
June 17, Thorp Loan vs. Bea's Food Market.
June 18, Bridgeman's vs. V.F.W.

Rain and wet grounds forced the postponement of three of the four games on last week's softball league schedule, but the one game that was played to a conclusion, between the Hartz and the Vets, proved to be a thriller. The Vets, with a veteran lineup, edged out the Hartz, 4 to 2, in twelve innings. Kermit Malberg pitched the entire game for the Hartz, while the hurling duties for the Vets were shared by Harlie Drees and Wally Grovum, with Wally being the winner.

This week's play will find the Vets up against a pair of 'toughies', meeting the Hamm's Beer club on Tuesday evening, and the Bridgeman's squad on Thursday evening.

It is possible that several of last week's postponed games will be added to this week's schedule, with the postponed games being curtailed to five-inning games and to be played following the regularly scheduled games.

New Record Deer Kill Set During '63 Deer Season

112,807 Deer Harvested By Hunters; Previous High Was 106,763 in '61

Minnesota game and fish division reported today that a new record of 112,807 deer were killed in the state by hunters during the 1963 season. Highest kill recorded previously was in 1961 when 106,763 deer were taken.

Figures for the 1963 season were based upon a special questionnaire mailed to 1,200 deer hunters and a tally of 45,500 hunter report cards attached to the big game license.

Forty-four per cent of all hunters bagged a deer for the second highest success ratio recorded to date. The figure was exceeded only by the year 1959 when 52 per cent of all deer hunters were successful. A new record wss also set last year in the sale of resident big game licenses—257,348.

Reports from hunters show that 77 per cent of all deer taken were in zone 1 in northeastern Minnesota where nine days of hunting were allowed. Sixty-five per cent of the deer hunters were concentrated in this area.

Based upon the return of license report cards, adult bucks comprised 48 per cent of the 1963 deer harvest, adult does 30 per cent and fawns 22 per cent. These percentages are similar to those reported for previous seasons. It is probable that the harvest of fawns actually is higher since hunters tend to count a significant number of both male and female fawns as adults, the department said.

Ted Shields, state game and fish director, said that in view of the poor hunting conditions, the harvest of almost 113,000 deer indicates the herd is in excellent condition.

He credited the size and health of hte herd to a succession of mild winters, sound game laws and management practices which permit the taking of does and fawns as well as bucks, and the use of hunting zones to regulate the harvest to conform with the size of the herd in the various sections of the state.

Newfolden Lady Is NWSA Women's Camp President

Mrs. John Thompson of Newfolden served as president at this year's women's camp held June 9-12 at the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston. Also attending the camp from Newfolden was Mrs. Emil Dyrud, who received "honorable mention" for an all-time record of attendance.

While at the camp the women experienced a program of lecture-demonstrations on homemaking, travelogues and films, health, handicraft, music and recreation. Camp leader was Mrs. Harlene H. Overgaard.

TRF RECREATION

by Jim Foley
Park and Recreation Director

Last week was the first full week of activities in our summer recreation program. Many of the week's activities had to be canceled because of rainy weather. Our baseball program had its first slate of games canceled. We now have eight midget, nine peewee, and five T-ball teams in operation. Any boy still not playing ball but who would like to play should contact the recreation office.

Tennis classes started last week with 43 people enrolled. They are divided into three groups—beginners, intermediates and the advanced group. Brian Mostue, the tennis instructor, is looking for more participants to register in each of these groups. Anyone wanting to join may do so simply by reporting to the high school tennis courts at 2 p.m. on either Tuesdays or Thursdays. A tournament for those enrolled in the classes will be announced later.

Last Thursday a meeting was held for all persons interested in archery. Purpose of the meeting was to discuss the possible location of ranges and to form an archery club. Both of these objectives were met, the club is called the Thief River Archery club. Newly elected officers are Paul Halverson, president, Gordon Dunham, vice president; and Lauris Kragstad, secretary - treasurer.

The club will meet at least one night a week during the summer, the next meeting to be on Thursday at the west end of the fairgrounds at 7 p.m. Purpose of this meeting will be to set up an archery range there. Any person interested in joining should call Gordon Dunham at 681-2916. Club Membership is open to everyone, with special consideration given to family membership. The club will offer classes to anyone interested in learning to shoot. Time and days of the classes will be announced later.

On Friday we will have our first special event day for the summer. For the boys there will be a baseball clinic at the fairgrounds. The clinic will try to cover all phases of baseball. Girls will meet at east side field for a doll and hobby show, with every girl to bring either her dolls or her hobby. Both events will begin at 1 p.m. Everyone is encouraged to attend and there are no fees or charges.

We still have room for more children in our small fry activities. These are for boys and girls age five through seven, and consist of small craft projects, low-organized games, story telling and singing. Any one interested in joining should call the recreation and park office at 681-4816.

Registration for the swimming classes will be taken on Tuesday and Thursday of this week at 9 a.m. Children attending summer school may register with George Stockman for afternoon classes.

Two LHS Seniors Invited to MSC Recognition Event

Golf League Favorites

The city golf league opened play on its 1964 schedule on Wednesday (but there are some incomplete team totals as some of the newcomers to league competition did not know that the golf rounds must be played on Wednesday, or before), and the Union State Bank team, with a net of 135, had the low team total.

The Union State Bank squad—Ken Onken, Jim Womack, Bob Flynn, Red Kortuem and Fred Sorensen—is the only team in the league that has a roster made up of players from the sponsoring business, in this case the Union State Bank. And they are a capable group of golfers, too, as their card for Wednesday's play indicates: Ken Onken, net 30; Womack, net 41; Flynn, net 37; Kortuem, net, 30; and Sorenson, net 38.

But the team that I rate as the league favorite (and I have been doing this for several seasons and I should be right one of these years) is Rog Tunberg's Tunberg Motors squad. Look at this veteran lineup: Rog Tunberg, Roy Lee, Bob Wurst, Dr. Orlon Belch, and Vern Jahr. And they carry the following handicaps: Tunberg, 6; Lee, 7; Wurst, 6; Belch, 7; and Jahr, 5.

As a "dark horse" entrant in the league I will name Arnie Lee's Soo Line squad. And especially so if they can persuade Stan Cockrell to join the squad.

At Duluth

Arlo Brunsberg, the former Fertile high school and Concordia college all-round athlete and now a member of the Detroit Tigers baseball organization, is now with the Duluth-Superior team of the Class A Northern league. Duluth-Superior is a "farm club" for the Tigers, and rated quite highly in the Detroit organization.

It is only a couple of seasons ago that Bill Freehan, now the Tigers' number one catcher, was with the Duluth-Superior club. And playing in the Northern league will give Arlo an opportunity to get playing experience, and that's what the personable Fertile athlete needs. It is surprising that Arlo isn't batting better in professional baseball, for when he was playing with Fertile in the Norman Polk league he was a real good sticker. But then the pitching in organized baseball is better, and smarter, than that of the Norman-Polk circuit.

And it's not such a demotion to be sent down from Knoxville of the Southern league to the Northern league, as was Arlo, for the Minnesota Twins, just this week, sent relief pitcher Bill Dailey from their major league staff to Mandan-Bismark of the Northern league.

Like an All-Star Squad

The V. F. W. softball team, with their every outing on the playing field, become more and more like an all-star aggregation. Last week, for their Wednesday evening tilt against the Hartz Stores, who should appear in the Vets lineup but Glenn Carlson. Glenn, perhaps the finest hitter to come out of Prowler baseball, will be playing for the Vets for some weeks as his state highway department work brings him into this area.

And the end is not yet, as it is reported that Joey Poole and Arlen Hjelle will be playing with the Vets in a week or so. That's an all-star lineup.

But I can't understand how Roy Pederson makes his appearance in the V. F. W. lineup. The last time he played in the city softball league, before he entered the Army, he was a member of the Hamm's Beer team. And as late as last July, when I received a letter from Roy, he expressed his intentions of playing with the Hamm's. Fortunately I have Roy's letter in my files, and this is what he had to say about softball: "For your softball readers I have a prediction: here it is: 'Hamms' some more in 64'." Roy went on to state, speaking of the Vets, "They have Wally Grovum, and ther isn't a doubt in my mind that he is probably the luckiest man I know".

So what happens? Roy shows up with the Vets! I have looked over the chattel mortgage releases at the court house, and there isn't any evidence that Roy was given his release by the Hamm's. And not only does Roy appear in the Vets' lineup, and batting in third place, but he also has his private rooting section at the games!

And an extra note, I hear that Milt Relerson, the veteran softball pitcher of many campaigns, is doing some warm-up pitching and there is a possibility that he will appear with one of the league teams. There are a couple of teams that could use a pitcher of Milt's caliber. Fact is, there are more than a couple—any of the teams would be stronger with Milt on the roster.

According to Form

The Austin high school team from Region One won the state baseball title by defeating Minneapolis West, 3 to 0, in the finals of the tourney that was concluded in St. Paul on Friday night.

Austin defeated Halstad and lefty Duane Ramstad, 6 to 3, in a first-round game on Wednesday, bested Fairmont, 6 to 4, in a semi-finals game and then took the measure of Minneapolis West behind the five-hit pitching of Dave Hartman.

The Halstad team, from Region Eight, took a lacing from Ely, 13 to 1, in a consolation game on Thursday, with the game being called after five innings because of the ten-run rule.

The victory of Austin was "according to form", as the Region One club had been installed as the pre-tourney favorite.

Plan to Combine Art and Science Shows Next Year

At recent meetings held in the Red River Valley Winter Shows building in Crookston, decisions were made to combine the 1965 Red River Valley fine and applied art exhibition and the Red River Valley science and youth fair into one large Red River Valley fine art and education exhibition. These two events in 1964 drew over 15,000 attendance.

Both the Red River Valley Fine Art council and the Red River Valley Science, Education and Youth council unanimously approved the combining of the two exhibitions recently. The fine arts exhibition and science and youth fair (and their councils) will each maintain its own identity but will be held in the Winter Shows building at the same time in 1965, likely during the third or fourth week in April.

Greenbush Pastor Is Secretary of Lutheran Ass'n.

Rev. Richard Snipstead of Greenbush was reelected secretary of the Association of Free Lutheran congregations at the annual conference held in Valley City, N. D., last week. Rev. F. B. Monseth of Valley City was reelected vice president.

Much of the delegates' attention was centered on the seminary, which the church is establishing. A capital investment drive for funds was authorized and Rev. John P. Strand of Tioga, N.D., conference president, was named as the seminary's first dean. About 80 congregations are affiliated with the association. There were 220 registered delegates at the convention.

Tips Given for Food Care If Freezer at Home Stops Running

Will the food in the home freezer spoil if the power goes off in an electrical storm? This is the season that question is frequently asked by worried homemakers, reports Mrs. Shirley Munson, who is in charge of the University of Minnesota's food processing laboratory.

Individuals often call to say they have come back from vacation and found they had accidentally pulled out the freezer plug or turned off all the electricity. In that case, there's not much to do except discard the contents of the freezer—unless ice crystals are still present in the food, Mrs. Munson said.

If the freezer stops running because the electricity has gone off, you can take one of a number of different steps to keep food from spoiling: keep the freezer door closed, move the food to a locker plant or add dry ice.

Food in a large chest-type freezer that is full won't thaw for two or three days when the power is off, Mrs. Munson says. In a freezer that's half full, food should keep well for one day. But food in an upright freezer will thaw more quickly. If the electricity comes on in a matter of hours, you needn't worry. However, don't open the freezer unnecessarily, because by doing so you let warm air in and raise the inside temperature.

If the power should be off for more than a day or two, dry ice can come to the rescue. The dry ice is most effective if you saw one 50-pound chunk into smaller pieces and set these on cardboard on top of the frozen pacakages. Wear gloves to keep the ice from touching your skin while you are handling it.

When the power is restored, if you find your freezer is full of partially thawed foods, it may be best to take the food to a commerical locker plant to get a quick refreeze. To refreeze food in your own freezer, rearrange the packages so the warmer ones are against the refrigerated surface. Pile packages so air can circulate around them.

Examine each package of thawed meat espicially carefully, Mrs. Monson cautions. If the food still contains ice crystals, it may be safe to refreeze, though the quality may suffer. However, it is often wiser to cook food that is almost completely thawed than to refreeze it. If the odor of thawed food is questionable, destroy the food, it will probably be unsafe to eat.

Mrs. Munson warns against refreezing vegetables, shellfish and cooked foods that have thawed completely, since it is difficult to tell by the odor whether they have spoiled.

If thawed fruits taste and smell good, you can either refreeze them or use them for making jams or preserves. When fruits start to spoil, they usually ferment. A little fermaentation will not make fruits dangerous to eat, but it may spoil their flavor.

Removing the bad odors from the freezer is one of the problems homemakers face if electricity went off when the family was on vacation and food spoiled. Mrs. Munson suggests washing the inside of the freezer thoroughly with a detergent solution or baking soda. If the odor still remains, put several shallow dishes of vinger in the freezer and let them stand at least overnight, with the motor running. Then defrost, wash and rinse the freezer. This process may have to be repeated several times before the odor disappears.

District Economy Expands Federal Reserve Bank Says

Crops Get Strong Start And Building Permits Show Construction Growth

Ninth district's over-all economy is expanding moderately in most areas, according to the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. Total personal incomes are 4.5 per cent ahead of April 1963, in spite of a recent leveling off of growth. New building permits and contract awards suggest an increase in construction activity.

Statistics on the industrial use of electric power also continue to improve, indicating higher industrial output in the region. Widespread precipitation throughout much of the district during May corrected the subsoil moisture deficiencies and provided a strong start to the new crop season.

However, some district measures continue to show a lack of vigor. The district's index of department store sales remained weak through April. Nonagricultural employment is up only one per cent from year-ago levels, and lower cattle prices have depressed farm income.

The gain in outstanding loans at district member banks from March 25 to April 29, amounted to $44 million—more than twice the advance of last April and one-third more than the average April increase. Both country and city banks expanded loan portfolios above the seasonal rate, with country banks increasing $27 million.

The 1964 feed grain program will add an estimated $107 million to district farm income through acreage diversion payments. In the Ninth district, 55 per cent of the farms participated in the program, as compared to 41 per cent nationally. However, the proportion of base acreage diverted on the participating district farms was smaller than the national average. Payment ranged from a low of $11 per acre in North Dakota to $26 per acre in Minnesota.

Wardens Arrest 299 for Game Law Violations

State game wardens apprehended 299 persons for violation of the game and fish laws during the month of May, the Conservation Department reports.

Of the total, 258 were for various fishing law offenses. Som of the more numerous violations were: fishing with more than one line (44) no license (41), fishing during closed season (48), and possession of a spear near a lake or stream between Feb. 15 and May 1 (40).

Eleven persons were caught with more than the legal limits of fish. There were 27 arrests for transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle. Various miscellaneous infractions accounted for the balance of arrests for the month.

Such is the action involved in "The Prize," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's exciting motion picture now showing at the Falls theater in Thief River Falls. Filmed in Panavision and Metrocolor, the feature stars Paul Newman, Elke Somner and Edward G. Robinson and is directed by Mark Robson.

Wetlands Fund in State Receives Gift of $10,491

Receipt of thelargest single contribution to the wetlands fund from a private individual or organization was announced today by Ted Shields, Minnesota game and fish director. Shields said the conservation department has received a check for $10,491 from the American Game association, the nation's oldest wildlife organization.

The gift will be used to purchase a prime waterfowl marsh southwest of Fergus Falls in Ottertail county. The area will be included in the system of state-owned wildlife management areas and will be open to hunting during the established seasons after purchase has been completed.

Area game managers report that the marsh area produces at least 12 broods of ducks per year and also provides excellent pheasant hunting. Teal, gadwall, mallard and pintail have all used the marsh during recent years.

Ducks Unlimited Says Canadian Conditions Good

Good water conditions in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan have resulted in an increase over last year in waterfowl breeding population in this region, according to Angus Gavin, general manager of Ducks Unlimited. This bright picutre is also the case in southern Alberta, said Gavin in his report in the June issue of "Duckological," publication of Ducks Unlimited.

Elsewhere on the prairies, Gavin said, the situation is far from bright. Western Saskatchewan is very dry and breeding population is well below that of last year. Heavy rains could still improve the situation there, however. Central Alberta is also dry, but shows a small increase in breeding ducks.

Spring land work was delayed, says the report, and "we can expect that more nests in the stubble will hatch successfully this year."

Musky Fishing On Border Waters To Open June 20

There is a minimum size limit of 30 inces on muskies taken in all Minnesota inland and boundary waters except in Shoepack and Little Shoepack lakes in sSt. Louis ctunty where the minimum size limit is 26 inches. Musky fishing in inland waters of the state began on May 16.

Minnesota Bands Invited to Play For President

All of Minnesota high school bands have been invited to join in the Minnesota welcome for President Johnson at the end of June, according to Walter F. Mondale, Minnesota attorney general. Mondale is director of Johnson's Minnesota campaign.

In Spite of It All

Northwest Dairy Day must be considered a success again this year, in spite of the problems which befell the sponsoring organization. Improvement of the dairy herds in the area and the development of youth have been the major goals of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, and from those points the 1964 show was a success.

The problems mentioned include the rain, which forced the show indoors; the resignation of Lew Conlon, which left the show without an experienced supervisor of the cattle show; and a public address system, which was scarcely audible over the noise of the crowd and the cattle. Conlon, who had emceed every Dairy Day show here since they started 15 years ago, resigned as manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee this spring.

Judges and other show officials were emphatic in stating that the quality of cattle brought to Dairy Day improves each year. Although the animals did not show to advantage in the city arena, there were some excellent cattle in the show.

We offer our congratulations to the winners for fitting and showing their animals to their best advantage. The losers are also to be complimented for entering competition, being willing to learn and showing a personal interest in the dairy industry.

To the Northwest Dairy Princess, Miss Shirley Rowland of Fosston, we extend our best wishes for success in the Princess Kay of the Milky Way contest at the Minnesota State fair in late August. The other regions in the state have a big job on their hands if they hope to be in the running against Shirley at the state contest.

Well Chosen Words

Speaking at the District Six American Legion convention in Long Prairie, Congressman Odin Langen had some well-chosen words on Americanism and the American system. He stressed the value of community initiative, saying the extent to which communities in America use their local initiative to solve their problems will determine the course democracy will take in the years ahead. Excerpts from his talk follow:

> "The strength of our local communities is what makes our democracy different from the dictatorial governments of the communist world. In the United States we have thousands of towns and cities, each working individually to develop high economic and moral standards, each contributing to the overall national good. But in countries such as Russia there is but a single standard, dictated from the Kremlin.
> "The best assurance you have of our nation remaining the greatest force for freedom in the world is for each community to maintain the highest standards of community enterprise through the efforts of public-minded groups as the American Legion.
> "Your Americanism programs, so important to the future of democracy, will be attacked frequently by those who would downgrade patriotism, make flag-waving old-fashioned and undermine the constitutional framework of the one form of government that has developed the greatest free nation in the world. But when the enemies of freedom raise their voices, you'll know you're on the right track. You can't give up because you must know and believe that the only 'ism' that can keep us free is Americanism.
> "The American Legion, as a national group, must continue its important work in keeping America strong and our defenses adequate. The real strenth of our nation will be measured by how well you face the problems at the local level, how good an example you provide for the coming generation, and how adequately you rally your entire community around the Legion principles of God and country."

Suspense Ended

With the Senate vote to end the filibuster of the civil rights bill and limit debate to one hour for each senator, the suspense of Senate opinion on the bill is apparently ended. The vote on the actual bill and amendments could take place late this week, and that is where the most important decision will be made.

Adoption of several amendments which would modify the most objectionable portions of the bill would be desirable. Since the Senate was able to gather four votes more than the two-thirds majority necessary to limit debate, it does not appear that the bill will have much difficulty in passing. We are sorry to see it happen.

We don't expect that the provisions of the bill will be felt immediately upon passage—at least not in our area of the nation. It will take some time for the machinery to be put in motion. But just as it will take time and effort to get action started, it will take more effort and alertness to keep it under control. This will be a real problem.

It would seem that our elected officials more and more are expressing the belief that the only way to effect solutions to problems is to pass laws. In too many cases the laws that are passed merely serve to confuse, complicate or magnify the problem. This has happened in the civil rights situation.

If the bill is passed and national observers deem it a certainty, Americans will have learned a lesson. The lesson is simple: Be a minority group, be vocal, blame your grievance on anything but personal responsibility, stage demonstrations of both violent and non-violent nature and keep the pressure on politicians where it is felt most —in the ballot box.

We fully expect the unrest we have seen until this time will be child's play in comparison to events we will hear and read about after the bill becomes law.

Meeting a Need

According to "Editor and Publisher", newspaper circulation as a per cent of adult population in the United States has increased from 49.15 per cent in 1946 to 51.14 per cent. This is notable since a number of people expressed the opinion in the late 1940's that the new gadget called television would wreak havoc with other media of news and entertainment.

It can not be denied that the one-eyed monster has had some effect. In general, however, the challenge was met by other media. The competition for readers, listeners, viewers and advertising revenue generally strengthened the other fields. They concentrated on improving their service and promoting their offerings—and as a result have improved their position in the eyes of the public.

In the case of newspapers, they are apparently filling a need that the public feels should be filled. The greatest advantage, of course, is the fact that the reader can select his own time to study the things that interest him most. He does not need to pick up the paper at 6 p.m., read the front page before the sports section or study the weather charts.

The advertiser knows that his message will be before the reader for some time, that it can be studied and compared and evaluated. He knows how many people his message will reach because newspapers have subscribers who get every issue. He can use lasting pictures and words to deliver his sales message, and he can concentrate his advertising in the area where it will do him the most good in producing sales.

The newspaper meets a definite need. Have you ever tried lining shelves with a radio or swatting flies with a television set?

The Political Scene

Ben Wichterman of Plummer, a former state representative and now a DFL - endorsed candidate for U. S. Congress, recently announced the officers of his volunteer committee. Wichterman will oppose incumbent Odin Langen to represent Minnesota's Seventh district.

Co-chairman of Wichterman's committee is Dr. Harding Noblitt, political science instructor at Moorhead State college. Wichterman and Dr. Noblitt both sought the DFL endorsement two years ago. At the district convention, the two years ago to a draw after 50 roll-call votes and the session adjourned. When the convention re-convened some days later, Wichterman withdrew his name in favor of the Moorhead professor.

Dr. Noblitt conducted an extensive and intensive campaign in his race against Langen, but he lost in the November election by a substantial margin. If he is as much of a student as we presume he is an educator, he should have learned something by his venture into actual politics two years ago. It remains to be seen if he is able to use this knowledge in the 1964 campaign.

Meanwhile, back at the villa, Sen. Barry Goldwater seems to have the Republican endorsement for President quite well in the bag. William E. Miller, Republican national chairman, was quoted last week as saying "The battle now is over. It becomes the obligation of Republicans now to unite behind Sen. Goldwater." Basically, this means unsaying the things that have been said by other candidates seeking the endorsement. This endorsement, however sure it seems now, won't be official until the national convention actually grants it.

On the local scene, we have heard of no filings for the office of state representative. Rep. Andrew Skaar, who is completing his freshman term of service, has stated he plans to file for reelection in the next couple of weeks. We have heard several names rumored as possible opponents, but have received no definite announcements from potential candidates.

In Marshall county, Rep. Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle has competition for his state legislative post although he has not yet filed for reelection. Harold M. (Hank) Johnson, vocational agriculture instructor at Warren high school, has filed for the office of state representative. Oscar Rokke has filed for county commissioner from Marshall county's fourth district, no surprise since he was appointed to fill the position vacated by the death of Andrew Korgen.

There are few contests of local, county or state significance this year, and the presidential race may have to carry the major attraction in bringing voters to the polls.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Secretary of State Rusk and Defense Secretary McNamara, returned recently from top-level strategy talks in Honolulu. The meeting was called presumably to discuss the problems of Southeast Asia. While no official statement was released as to the results, it appears that our government is now committed to a program of bolstering the effort in Vietnam without carrying the war to the north.

In commenting on the Honolulu meeting Rusk made this interesting statement. He said:

> "The problem is to make sure the other side fully understands that we mean what we say."

We can see no reason for Secretary Rusk's concern because the other side does not "fully understand" what those who speak for us in Washington have been saying. The things that have been said are so contradictory that we at home do not understand them. If Secretary Rusk would use his influence to reduce the volume of double-talk that is coming out of Washington, he might open a door to better international understanding.

But a mere secretary of state cannot very well curb the inappropriate statements of his boss or the frequent declarations of war by those who speak at various levels for our military machine.

Reports on the activities of the youth Peace Corps, operating thruout the world have been encouragingly favorable for some time. The organization did get off to a bad start and the fact that it was subjected to considerable criticism, and some ridicule, in the early stages of its development, probably has been helpful to the process of working out a basically sound program.

The young people who represent us in the backward areas of the world seem to be making friends for our country. They are not well paid by our standards and apparently are encouraged to adjust themselves to the living standards of the countries in which they serve. The reports on their operations have been uniformly good of late and they deserve a pat on the back for their contribution to better international understanding.

Congress should give serious consideration to the recommendations of Mortimer Caplin, the nation's top tax man, pointing up the fact that the national income tax should be simplified. The tax in its present form is so complicated that only a well informed specialist can give reliable guidance to a taxpayer whose problem is to any extent involved.

I can understand why there always will be problems that require the guidance of tax experts, but I can not see good reason why the income tax laws should not be simplified to a point where the average taxpayer could make his own report without professional assistance.

Most of the polls forecasting the results of the California election were wrong, and, if we look back, we may properly arrive at the obvious conclusion that the batting average of the recognized polls of public opinion on controversial questions has not been high.

Which is not necessarily bad. I would not be in favor of passing a law outlawing the polls merely because they are not always right. I do think it is important that the run-of-the-mill readers of poll reports recognize the fact that the reports are largely the conclusions of some of the state's or the nation's hired guessers whose conclusions are sometimes influenced by their own ideas of what is the best answer.

I like the following observation by the Chicago Tribune:

> This has been a bad year for the public opinion polls which purport to forecast the outcome of elections and enlighten us on what the citizenry is thinking about a broad array of important issues. The pollsters were wrong in New Hampshire, wrong in Oregon, and wrong in California. They don't seem to be talking to the right people or at least not enough of them to come up with accurate predictions.

The moon-maniacs who think it is tremendously important, regardless of cost, that we land a man on the moon by 1970, did get some satisfaction, it seems, out of the fact that we have put a made-in-America moonship into orbit around the earth in the first test flight of the vehicle. The flight was partially successful but did not measure up to the hopefull expectations. How many millions of borrowed dollars this experiment cost has not been revealed. The many billions of dollars the trip to the moon will eventually cost is at best a guess.

I will string along with those who believe the money could be spent for more worth-while purposes; projects that probably would actually reduce poverty in our country and thruout the world. I will string along with such scientists as Sir John Eccles, a Nobel Prize winner, who says that the race to the moon is "futile, fantastic and crazy."

In a recent speech at a meeting of scientists in Australia Sir John said:

> "I don't know the point of going to the moon. It's an awfully dull place with just dust, mountains and no climate."

Our good friends, the Russians, seem to have lost interest in establishing a Communist outpost on the moon. If they should change their minds, my guess is that we shouldn't interfere with their folly. I will go along with those who know more about such things who tell us to leave the management of the moon to the Man in the Moon. He is doing a good job of directing the timing of the satellite and he is always looking in our direction. Why should we interfere?

Andrew Skaar To File for State Representative

Incumbent Legislator Announces He Will Seek Second Term This Fall

Andrew Skaar

Rep. Andrew Skaar of rural Thief River Falls, who is completing his freshman term as a member of the Minnesota Legislature, announced today that he will file Friday with the Secretary of State for reelection to the state House of Representatives.

"It has been my privilege for the past two years to represent the people of Pennington and Red Lake counties in the House of Representatives," Rep. Skaar said in announcing his filing. "These first two years have been very valuable to me in learning the fun- and where I can be of most value to the people of the 66th District.

"It has been my good fortune to receive assignment to several key committees," the Representative continues. "I am a member of the appropriations committee, one of the most influential in the House, and of the education subcommittee of appropriations. My other committees include health and welfare, dairy products and livestock, election and reapportionment and motor vehicles, of which I am vice chairman.

"Educational opportunities for the young people in this district has long been my concern. I hope that the junior college bill, of which I was a co-author in the House during the 1963 session, will result in junior college facilities in northwestern Minnesota.

"Membership retained on the committees to which I have been appointed would be of major benefit to the people of this district," Rep. Skaar added.

Girl Scout Troop Has Extensive Tour East

Editor's Note: The following narrative report of an extensive trip by a Thief River Falls Girl Scout troop was written by Mrs. Melville Simon, troop leader and one of the chaperones on the trip. The troop worked on various fund-raising projects for several years to earn money for the tour which included the New York world's fair, countless points of interest in the East and many stops en-route.

New York, here we come, seemed to be foremost in the thoughts of members of Senior Mariner Mariner Girl Scout Troop No. 94 of Thief River Falls as they began their 15-day trip on May 30. Togetherness was the word, co-operation adhered to, and it was go, go, go all the way.

Meeting their co-chaperone and bus driver for the first-time in Moorhead was a simple adjustment, and Mr. Wigley and Mrs. Welsh were taken into the hearts of all the girls. First stop was the capitol building in St. Paul, a must before viewing our national capitol in Washington, D. C. Good driving weather prevailed, with rain and cold proving an asset.

The city officials in Wisconsin Dells turned over their facilities to the group as a result. Next night out the tent was again left intact as the group was housed at the YWCA recreation building, with all its deluxe appointments, including wall to wall carpeting where the chaperones slept!

Arrival at Potomac, Maryland, late Monday afternoon gave the group a chance to settle at the Rockwood National Girl Scout Camp. From early morning until late at night such wonders were seen as the FBI building, White House, Washington's Monument, Lincoln Memorial, Congressman Langen's office, the Senate and Congress in session, tour of the Capitol building, Library of Congress, national wax museum, Smithsonian institute, archives, Jefferson memorial, Arlington cemetery, Tomb of the Unknown Soldier with the changing of the guard, President John F. Kennedy's grave, Curtis Lee mansion, statue of Iwo Jima, a military funeral in progress, Mt. Vernon in all its beauty, the Tidal basin, Pentagon building, Washington by night, and more.

Light blue Mariner uniforms worn by the girls gave them many special privileges and opportunities to speak with interested persons. Always there were admiring young men at hand, as well as others, and compliments were many as

Bank Debits Rise Three Per Cent In City for May

Bank debits in Thief River Falls during May were up three per cent from the same month a year ago, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. In dollars, Thief River Falls bank debits volume during May was $8,394,000. In the same month of 1963 the total figure was $8,159,000. During the first four months of 1964, bank debits here amounted to $40,898,000, an increase of six per cent over 1963's $38,412,000.

Bank debits represent the dollar volume of checks drawn by depositors against their bank acounts. Since most of these checks go to pay for local goods and services, the debit figure is considered to be a fairly reliable indicator of general changes in business volume.

For a sample of Minnesota cities, the volume of bank debits for May increased six per cent from last year. Debits for the first five months of 1964 showed a 13 per cent increase from 1963.

Women Urged To Have Needlework Entries for Fair

Knitting and Crocheting Entries To Be Judged For National Competition

Since opening day of the Pennington county fair is only a few weeks away, knitters and crocheters who plan to enter the 1964 national wool needlework contest are urged to make their needles and hooks fly and speed up work on their entries. Judging of the art needlework entries will take place at the fair which opens on July 23.

To be seriously in the running for an award by the fairs judges, contestants are advised to give careful attention to such details as blocking, cleanliness and overall detail before entering, according to Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, Pennington county home agent.

Both knitters and crocheters are eligible to enter the contest; provided that they are non-professional needleworkers. Awards will be made in six separate categories, three for knitting and three for crocheting. These categories include afghans, sweaters and three-piece baby sets.

Second and third place ribbons will be awarded in all six categories in addition to the six first place blue ribbon presentations. An engraved trophy will be awarded to one of the six blue ribbon winners adjudged to be "Best of Fair." All six blue ribbon winners at the fair are eligible to submit their winning designs to national headquarters in New York. There they will be judged in competition with other blue ribbon winners from fairs through out the country.

The grand national winner will receive a free three-day stay for two in New York as well as a cash prize of $1,000 and a special engraved trophy. In addition, other cash awards with appropriate ribbons will be made within each category on a national level.

To participate in the contest, all entries must be made of 100 per cent wool or mohair yarn and must have been completed since January, 1964. A label from the yarn used must be attached to each entry. Contestants may enter in as many categories as they desire.

Further details on rules for the 1964 national wool needlework contest can be procured from Mrs. Adam Lendobeja, chairman of the women's division of the Pennington county fair.

Award Contract For Dismantling City Water Tank

Recommendation of two persons to be appointed by the district court to the water and sanitary district created by the 1961 Minnesota Legislature took place at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday evening. The district is concerned with river clean-out and improvement in the city of Thief River Falls and the townships of North and Rocksbury. Recommended by the council for appointment were Les Ihle and William LaFave.

The water control and sanitary district was created by the legislature upon petitions by local governing bodies. The city council adopted a resolution on Aug. 15, 1961, asking the mayor and city clerk to petition for establishment of a commission to administer the affairs of the district. Commission members, acording to the adopted legislation, are to be appointed by the district court.

In making the recommendations Tuesday evening, the council discussed the condition of the Red Lake river above the dam, noting that silt and debris has clogged the channel and reduced the recreational value of the river. An estimated $80,000 to $100,000 was mentioned as cost of the clean-out and improvement project.

Subject to filing of a building permit, Farmers Grain and Milling company was granted verbal approval to install a grain dryer at its warehouse site on Knight av. S. near Lincoln high school. Harland Knutson, local company manager, represented the company at the meeting. He stated that the dryer would be used to dry grain grown on contract for the plant and could also be used on a commercial basis by individuals in the "off" season. The permanent installation would be mounted on a concrete slab east of the present elevator site.

Dakota Tank & Steel of Grand Forks was awarded a contract of $2,860 for removal of the water tower on East 2nd street at the council meeting. Other companies offering bids were Sentry Tank company of Pittsburg, Kans.; and Master Tank service of Minneapolis. Work is expected to begin in about two weeks.

Other business at the meeting was to approve 10 building permits totaling $39,850 applied for within the city. Those approved included Orville Peters, 317 N. State, $800

Kathleen Hamilton Becomes Bride of Kenneth Wedul

Kathleen Hamilton of Chicago, Ill., and Kenneth Wedul of Seal Beach, Calif., were joined in marraige in a double ring ceremony on June 5 at 8:30 p. m. at Trinity Lutheran church of Thief River Falls. Candles in spiral candelabra lighted the setting of pink and white roses and arrangements of ferns. Rev. Otto Wedul of Santa Rosa, Calif., and the Rev. R. A. Wangberg, pastor of Trinity, officiated at the service in the presence of 150 guests.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamilton of Thief River Falls, is a 1960 graduate of Lincoln high school, and also attended St. Olaf college at Northfield. Until May 18 she was a stewardess with United Airlines. The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnt Wedul of this city, is also a graduate of the local high school and received his degree from North Dakota state university in 1956.

Mr. Hamilton gave his daughter in marriage. She was gowned in Schiffli embroidered organza made with a short sleeved Emprire bodice and scoop neckline. The "A" line skirt, banded in floral appliques, fell into a square elongated chapel train. Her fingertip veil was arranged under a small crown of organdy petals and a cascade of white roses formed her bouquet.

Bridal attendants were Karin Larson of St. Olaf college, Northfield, as maid of honor, and bridesmaids Catherine Risser of St. Olaf and Sharon Strong of Edina. Their gowns of aqua sheer nylon over taffeta were floor length with back Watteau panels on the controlled skirts. The short-sleeved bodices were finishing with cummerbunds. The girls wore matching open pill box hats with bows and veiling and carried semi-crescent bouquets of red and pink roses.

Escorting the attendants in the processional were the groomsmen, attired in black trousers with white tuxedo jackets and boutonnieres. Best man was Arvid Wedul of Clarissa, brother of the groom. Another brother, Maynard Wedul, of this city, and the bride's brother, Paul Hamilton of Minneapolis, were attendants. Ushers were a brother of the bride, John Hamilton of Mineapolis, and James Winjum of this city.

Mrs. Walter Larson of Thief River Falls, organist, played Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary in D Major" as the bride's processional and Purcell's "Trumpet Tune in D Major" as the recessional. Before the ceremony she played a program of nuptal music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Donald L. Olson. Mrs. Olson sang "Song of Ruth" as the service began; "Crown With Thy Benediction" as the couple were at the altar, and closed with "The Lord's Prayer". The bridesmaids' processional solos were also sung by Mrs. Olson. They included, "Abide, O Dearest Jesus", "Jesus, Priceless Treasure", and "Let Us Ever Walk with Jesus".

The mothers of the bridal pair were presented with corsages of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Mrs. John Hamilton and Mrs. Paul Hamilton, sisters-in-law of the bride, poured. The cake was cut by Mrs. Otto Wedul and Mrs. Maynard Wedul, sisters-in-law of the groom. The gift table was attended by Barbara Rae Buzzelli and Judy Doering; punch was served by Sandra Skay, and Sally Ellingson was at the guest book.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton were hosts at a reception in the church parlors. White nylon net and roses decorated the bride's table as well as the serving table which was set in the form of a cross. Smilax and net were used on the punch table. The wedding cake, with floral candle arrangements on either side, was decorated with pink and white roses and a Christogram.

Out-of-town guests were from Santa Rosa, Calif.; Detroit, Mich.; Chicago, Ill.; Waukon, Iowa; Fargo, Valley City, Oakes and Jamestown, N. D.; and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Cambridge.

The newlyweds' honeymoon trip is to the North Shore of Lake Superior, and from there to Spokane, Wash.; Las Vegas, Nev.; and San Francisco, Calif. The bride's going-away suit was of white mohair. They will be at home in Seal Beach, Calif., where Mr. Wedul, a pharmacist, is the proprietor of the Seal Beach drugstore.—Photo by Neal Fox Studio these well-mannered young ladies enjoyed the sights and sounds of the beautiful city.

Girl Scouts Have Extensive Tour To East Coast

A one day trip to Williamsburg, Va., was made. A look into the past was possible as the group toured the authentic town of Revolutionary days. Friday, June 5, found the limousine on the way to New York City. A must was a swim in the Atlantic ocean, so in spite of chilly breezes the chaperones coaxed the reluctant girls into the waves, then had to coax them out again, since it was wonderful fun diving into the ocean waves and salt water.

Arrival in New York was at the height of the traffic and eagerness for big city life rather cooled down—temporarily, of course!

New York stay was filled to the brim, with first a visit to the Metropolitan Art Museum, where the woodcut prints by Cathy Simon and Margaret Mousley of Thief River Falls were displayed, giving everyone a feeling of pride and personal interest.

Included in the N. Y. sights were Rockefeller Center, Radio City Music Hall where the N. Y. Philharmonic Orchestra played and Rockettes were on stage, an hour long succession of entertainment. A trip to Battery Park was made, shopping at Macy's Saks' for 2 hours, seeing the Empire State building and Times Square, Broadway and 42nd Street at midnight with its thousands of people from all walks of life just filling the streets.

Early mass at St. Patrick's huge church included Linda Dahl and Mrs. Simon, who taxied over and walked back to the YWCA to hurry the others on to Marble Collegiate church to hear Norman Vincent Peale speak. Dr. Peale welcomed the Girl Scouts from Thief River Falls from the pulpit, spoke on "Tomorrows Are Made for You", of special interest to young people. Following the service, the group found their way to the boat which toured Manhattan Island, were entertained by a jolly ex-actor who commented on the sights, and three hours later the girls were enroute to the World's Fair via subway.

Chaperones and the 12 "girls in blue" boarded the glide-aride and saw much of the fair from a comfortable seat. After that they were on their own, groups of three and four, to eat, see, enjoy the extravaganza, color, people, and all that goes with a World's Fair. It was most exciting and interesting.

Monday, June 8, found everyone at the United Nations building, where a tour was conducted by a beautiful miss from Pakistan, who wore a lovely native costume. Here the assembly rooms, the gifts of Zeus from Greece, Sputnik from Russia, magnetized ball from Holland, wishing well from Japan were all seen. Due to a heavy rain the flags were not flying in front of the area.

Back to the YWCA and load up the limousine with all accumulated gew gaws and baggage. Next stop at Geneva, N. Y., where the mayor and police department took a personal interest in us, to the extent of putting up the tent and acting as an alarm clock the following morning.

Niagara Falls, splendid in bright sunshine, inspired everyone, and the trip into the mist via boat did not dampen spirits as it did people. The only warmth of the trip was found this day, when it reached 90 degrees. The arrival in Detroit, through to suburban Royal Oak, was filled with much to see. Driving up the block to our night's lodging, we were happily surprised to find the R. E. Vandenberg family out to welcome us, with a sign around their huge tree stating: "Welcome to Royal Oak, Girl Scout Troop No. 94". All the neighbors had porch lights on, everyone was out to see this bus load of girls descend on their neighbors.

The recreation room looked like wall-to-wall sleeping bags, but who cares when everyone is happy? Time for hamburgers and iced treats, get acquainted and maybe some sleep too!

June 10, and it was "happy birthday, dear Ann" all day long, as all helped Ann Winters celebrate by first touring the Ford Motor plant, then Greenfield Village with its original homes, slave quarter, jewel shop, watch shop, covered bridge, 16th century stone house, etc. Final stop was made at the Shrine of the Little Flower, church of Father Coughlin. This ornate church is round and we were toured by the custodian. Outside are blocks with states imprinted and Minnesota is among them.

A birthday dinner, with cake, candles and ice-cream was next, and then 12 Minnesota Girl Scouts, four Detroit cousins and Mr. Wigley took off via limousine for Tiger stadium and the baseball game. The Twins were downed 5 to 4 by the Detroit Tigers, but who cares when there is plenty of candy and chips at hand?

Thursday and time to head for the north country, with a short stop at the world's largest shopping center under one roof at Northland, in Detroit. Camping out at night in Straits state park at St. Ignace proved comfortable, and a wonderful view of the Mackinac bridge at night.

Friday travel was cool, but not so much that a swim couldn't be worked in at Wakefield, Mich. One more treat in upper Michigan was the noon meal of a patsy, unknown to the girls, and much enjoyed.

An early start for home on Saturday morning was certain, and off we went, arriving in Thief River Falls just after noon on June 13.

A trip to remember, an education in fact, a new awareness of people and a new enthusiasm for living for everyone. Twelve wonderful girls, two compatible chaperones, and a patient, understanding person to drive them 4,000 miles made it all a terrific experience. Each one thanks the parents, husbands and many persons who went the second mile and made the trip possible.

Victor Lorentson of Lakeville spent the weknd at the Fred Lorentson home.

In other action, the council voted to close liquor stores for the July 4 holiday, the general consensus being that workers in liquor stores are entitled to the day off.

It was also decided that the city attach a sewer connection to the east side playground water fountain. For years, the only outlet for water from the fountain has been a ditch by the road, creating a permanent "mudhole", the council was informed by Harold Anderson, superintendent of the city water plant.

Approved by the council was renewal of an electrician's and plumber's license for Edwin Langlie, and renewal of a plumber's license for Carl Lee.

The council received a notice from the state fire marshal that no meetings may be held in the upstairs rooms of the city arena until a second exit is made. Also received was a request for a loading zone at the new entrance to the hospital on First street.

The city authorized temporary repairs at the city library, which will include rewiring and installation of a water heater and a water fountain.

Public Opinion

Editor Times:

May I be allowed space in your paper to call attention to a news item appearing in the Minneapolis Morning Tribune, the St. Paul Pioneer Press and the Grand Forks Herald for Friday, June 12, in regard to federal salary increases. I feel, that more attention should be given to this legislation now proposed and pending in Congress for salary increases.

According to these daily papers the "salary grabbers" in Congress are again at work and are trying to pass a bill to raise the salaries of Senators, Representatives, federal judges and other high federal officials and employees. A bill has just been voted upon and passed by the House that will raise the salaries of Senators and Congressmen and other high official by $7,500 if finally adopted. This bill even provides for semi-automatic increases hereafter without further action by Congress in certain cases.

Senators and Congressmen are already getting a salary of $22,500, plus an extra allowance for their expenses. Most of our federal officials are now getting very liberal salaries, but our members of Congress do not seem to be satisfied with a salary of $22,500, and are trying to raise this amount.

In my opinion this bill is an absolute disregard of best interests and welfare of our people; and I am very much disappointed to see Congressmen from Minnesota voting for such a salary raise. The farmers, the laboring people and the small business men, all with small incomes, will sooner or later, in one way or another, be taxed to pay for these salary increases if this bill becomes law.

I hope members of the Democratic Farmer-Labor Party will keep this in mind and take note of what is going on. Officials, whether they be Senators or Congressmen, or otherwise, who are not satisfied with a salary of $22,500 should stay home, or get another job. I hope the small business people in the Cities, and the laboring people in the Cities and on the Range will keep this in mind on election day. I hope the farmers will also speak up. It is a clear betrayal of the interests of the people.

There will be no change so long as we remain silent. Let me urge you to write your Senators and let them know just how you feel about this salary increase. Notice also there is no serious effort being made in Congress to pass other important legislation necessary for the welfare of the people. I hope all the Farmer-Laborites and progressive people of Minnesota will speak up. . . .

THIEF RIVER FALLS COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASS'N.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS

TAKE NOTICE that a special meeting of stocholders will be held at city auditorium in Thief River Falls, Minnesota on June 23, 1964, commencing at 8 o'clock P. M., to vote on the following PLAN OF MERGER between the KARLSTAD COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION AND THE THIEF RIVER FALLS COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASS'N.

Otto Saugen, Secretary

PLAN OF MERGER OF KARLSTAD CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION INTO THIEF RIVER FALLS COOPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION

Under this PLAN OF MERGER, KARLSTAD CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION (herinafter called "Karlstad") shall become merged in to THIEF RIVER FALLS CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION (herinafter called "Thief River") in such a way that all of Karlstad's property shall belong to Thief River and the members of Karlstad shall become members of Thief River.

Karlstad has but one class of stock, namely common stock, par value $10.00 per share, which has been issued to its members. It also has outstanding on its books patronage equity credits issued for consecutive years commencing with the year 1948.

Thief River has but one class of stock, namely common stock, of the par value of $12.50 per share. It also has outstanding on its books patronage equity credits issued for consecutive years commencing with the year 1951.

Under the PLAN OF MERGER each person who is now a holder of stock of Karlstad shall be issued in exchange for such stock a like number of shares of stock of Thief River. The difference between the par value of Karlstad's stock and Thief River's stock (to wit, the sum of $2.50 per share) shall be deducted from the stockholder's patronage equity credits in Karlstad. Any person holding Karlstad stock who is not an active patron shall, in lieu of receiving stock of Thief River, be credited with the amount of his Karlstad stock in the form of patronage equities entered on the books of Thief River.

All remaining patronage equity credits of Karlstad shall be entered on the books of Thief River at their full face amount in the names of the respective patrons of Karlstad. Such patronage credits shall be redeemed in the following manner:

If and when the Board of Directors of Thief River redeem Thief River's 1951 patronage equities, the 1948 Karlstad patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1952 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1949 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1953 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1950 and 1951 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1954 patronage equities are redeemed, Karlstad's 1952 patronage equities shall also be redeemed. If and when Thief River's 1955 patronage equities shall be redeemed, Thereafter the patronage equity credits of both associations for the same corresponding years shall be redeemed together.

The steps of merger whereby Karlstad shall become merged with Thief River shall be as follows:

1. The merger shall become effective on July 1, 1964. On that date all the facilities and property of Karlstad, including physical assets, cash on hand, accounts receivable, and every other form of property of any nature whatsoever, shall become the property of Thief River. On the date Karlstad shall cease to be a corporation and shall beome fully merged into Thief River under the provisions of Section 308.15, Subd. 4, of the Minnesota Statutes. All of the outstanding debts and liabilities of Karlstad shall automatically become the debts and liabilities and obligations of Thief River as of July 1, 1964. Thief River shall step into the shoes of Karlstad and be obligated to fulfill all the outstanding contracts, commitments and engagements of Karlstad. The entire property of Karlstad shall automatically become the property of Thief River as of July 1, 1964.

2. The articles of Incorporation of Thief River are hereby amended in the following particulars:

(A) Section 1 of Article III shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The amount of authorized capital stock of the Association shall be $50,000 divided into 4,000 shares of common stock with a par value of $12.50 per share."

(B) Section 3 of Article V shall be amended to read as follows:

Section 3. The annual meeting shall be held at such time as shall be prescribed by the By-Laws."

(C) Section 1 of Article VI shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The government of this Association and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a Board of Directors, the number of which shall be determined in accordance with the By-Laws. The terms of office of the Directors shall be determined by the By-Laws.

3. The By-Laws of Thief River are hereby amended in the following particulars:

(A) Section 1 of Article I shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The annual meeting of the Association shall be held at such time and place as shall be fixed by the Board of Directors, not more than six months after the close of the fiscal year."

(B) Section 1 of Article II shall be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. The number of Directors shall be not less than five nor more than twelve, the exact number to be determined by the stockholders at the annual meeting of stockholders. Directors shall be elected for a term of three (3) years."

(C) Article V shall be amended in its entirety to read as follows:

ARTICLE V

"The members of the Association shall consist of the persons who are holders of its capital stock. It shall be the obligation of each member to market his milk or cream through the Association and to patronize the other facilities and services offered by the Association to the extent of his needs. Whenever the Board of Directors determines that a holder of stock is not eligible for membership or has failed to patronize the Association for a period of twelve (12) months, such stockholder shall have no voting rights on account of such stock, and his stock shall be non-voting stock, and written notice to that effect shall be mailed to him at his last known post office address, and the Association shall have the right (but not the obligation to do so) to redeem said stock at par value. Nothing in this paragraph shall affect the interest, if any, of said stockholder in the allocated reserves of the Association. The provisions of this paragraph shall be printed on each stock certificate."

4. On the effective date of the merger, the number of Directors of Thief River shall be increased from five (5) Directors (the number which it now has) to seven (7) Directors. The seven Directors shall consist of the five persons presently on the Board of Directors of Thief River, together with one Director elected by the members of Karlstad at the time a vote upon this PLAN OF MERGER, who shall serve until the annual meeting to be held in 1964. The Successors to the two additional Directors shall be elected for terms of three (3) years.

5. Before this PLAN OF MERGER becomes effective it must be approved by the members of each Association (namely Karlstad and Thief River) at a meeting duly called and held separately by each Association at which a quorum is present, and it shall be necessary that the PLAN receive the favorable vote of at least two-thirds of those present at the meeting. A copy of this PLAN OF MERGER must be mailed to every member in connection with the mailing of the notice of meeting for each Association.

6. After the PLAN OF MERGER has been approved by the members of each Association, ARTICLES OF MERGER shall be signed and acknowledged by the President and Secretary of each Association and shall be duly filed and recorded as required by law.

Jr. Legion Win Streak Is Snapped by Roseau Team

Devils Lake, N.D., Slated To Play In City Tonight

Weather conditions permitting, a doubleheader junior Legion baseball game will be played on the Fairgrounds diamond here this evening, Wednesday, with coach Derwood (Swede) Lund's Devils Lake, N. D., team opposing coach Ralph Skay's local Juniors. The first game is slated to start at 6 p. m. with the second game billed for 8 p. m.

The locals had their winning streak, which had reached three games with their 7 to 5 win over Fertile on Monday evening, snapped by coach Ray Kavanagh's Roseau club at Roseau on Tuesday evening, with Roseau winning by a 9 to 8 score.

Bill Dicken and Billy Poole, a pair of young hurlers on the local Legion staff, combined to defeat Fertile on Monday evening. Dicken pitched five and one-third innings, giving up but four hits, but doling out eight walks. Poole came on in relief in the sixth, and managed to protect the lead that coach Skay's club had gained in the early innings.

Leading the attack on Fertile's John Lindberg was Paul Klungness, with three hits in four tries, and Mike Benke, who hit a home run over the left-field fence to open the fifth inning.

Playing at Roseau on Tuesday evening, the local club made a strong rally in the seventh inning, falling one run short of tying the game. John Aune grounded out, third to first, for the game-ending out, stranding runners on second and third.

Roseau put across what proved to be the game-winning tally in the sixth inning when with two out, Brian Pelowski poled out a double to score Gary Brandt and Jim Nelson, who reached base on infield hits, and seconds later, Pelowski, from third base, scored on a wild pitch, giving Roseau a 9 to 6 lead.

In the first of the seventh, Buzz Olson beat out an infield hit. Tom Cummings was safe on a fielder's choice which failed to produce an out, and when Paul Klungness beat out an infield hit, the bases were loaded with none out. Dennis Nelson struck out Billy Poole and Wayne Smith. Benke tapped a slow roller to shortstop for a hit, scoring Olson, and when a bad throw ensued, Cummings came in with a tally and the locals trailed by one run. John Aune grounded out, third to first, to end the game.

For the winners, Arnie Johnson had a 14-8, Walt Fischer a 22-1, Roy Landman a 19-6, Don Hoganson, 21-1, and Steve Johnson a 19-7. While for Coast-to-Coast, Don Olson, with a 21-3, and George Mackenroth, with an 18-6, were the "high" guns.

Municipal Court Has Six Cases Tried on Monday

Six cases were handled by the Thief River Falls municipal court at its regular session Monday. Brought by the highway patrol was Lyle Sorenson, Minneapolis, speeding, $12.50 bond forfeited. Cited by the sheriff's office was Allen Christenson, city, careless driving, personal injury accident involved, $35 fine.

City police cases included Emery Lee, rt. 3, speeding, $19 fine; Dwight Sears, city, two counts petty larceny, previously pleaded guilty, 15 days in jail on each charge; Rodger Lysfjord, Minneapolis, using auto without owner's permission, in custody with bond set at $2500; and one drunk.

Lysfjord was apprehended by Thief River Falls police while coming into the city from the south on highway 59. Police had received a radio message that a party driving a red 1960 Chevrolet convertible had received gas at a Brooks filling station without paying for it. In checking out the car Lysfjord was driving, police found it to have been stolen in Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Gustafson of Grand Forks visited Saturday evening at the Inga Geving home, and also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Don Adolphson.

Matt Wick and Mrs. Kathryn Wick motored to Minneapolis on Friday evening, returning home on Sunday accompanied by Mrs. Wick and Marlys who had visited at the Elmer Wick home there since Thursday.

Fish and Fishing

The Skomedal-Rupprecht-Jorde lake-trout fishing party returned on Saturday night from their one-week stay on Flin Flon's lake Athapapuskow, and they reported a fine time. The fishing, though, could have been a bit better, as it was only on one day that they could rate the fishing as good. On this one day the party brought in 19 trout, and the best luck was had in still-fishing with frozen smelt.

The party headquartered at a camp near Cranberry Portage, and they were well-pleased with the accomodations. They could have caught all the walleyed pike and northerns that they desired, but they were up there mainly for lake trout. The largest trout, and it was caught by Helmer Skomedal, weighed just about nine pounds. He collected the big-fish pool.

Another fishing party, and which was perhaps more scenic and productive than the Skomedal trip to Cranberry Portage, was the canoe trip into the Superior National Forest taken by Carl Carlson the other week. Carl shoved off from Ely, and followed the well-marked canoe routes and portages into Snowbank lake, where he fished for lake trout. And the trout were hitting as the party caught nine lake trout. On the return trip Carl detoured to an abandoned iron mine, which had been stocked with rainbows, and, using fly-fishing methods, he made a catch of rainbow trout.

Lake of the Woods fishing has been very spotty the past week, with very few limit catches being reported. And the reason being given for this lack of activity on the part of the walleyes is the brisk winds that have swept across the vast reaches of Big Traverse. The resulting wave-action has stirred up the water, and the walleyes, apparently, have moved out into deeper water. The saugers can manage to exist in the clouded waters, and they have been accomodating the few anglers who have managed to get out on the lake. It's been a wind-filled fishing season so far. . . .

Father's Day Golf

The local golf club will be host to a shortstop golf tournament on Sunday, June 21, and it will be a proper manner for the golfing fathers in the area to spend the Sunday. The championship flight competition will be on a 27-hole medal play basis. Nine-hole match play will be in vogue in the flight competition.

The entry fee for the championship flight will be $5, while for the lesser flights the entry fee will be $4. The championship flight will move off the first tee at 9 a. m.

Needless to add, the course is in excellent condition, with the fairways lush and green. And there is some casual water that makes for some interesting shots.

Dennis the Menace

Manager Erv Melvie's Newfolden team, an entrant in the Pen-Ro-Shall league, has won three games. In these three games, over Gatzke, Plummer, and Greenbush, righthander Dennis Bakke has been spectacular.

Bakke, a former all-round athlete with the Newfolden Nordics, had 21 strikeouts in the opening game against Gatzke, winning by a 12 to 4 score. In the second game of the season, against Plummer, Bakke struck out 18 batsmen, as Newfolden won, 13 to 4. And last week, against Greenbush, Bakke had 12 strikeouts as Newfolden won, 9 to 4. Dennis had to have some relief from Ike Ellingson in the ninth inning against Greenbush, and Ellingson, facing four batsmen, walked one and struck out three.

In the three games that he has hurled for Melvie's Newfolden club, Bakke has collected 51 strikeouts. And manager Melvie adds, Bakke is currently leading the club in batting, having an average of .600.

The Season's Best

The city softball league will provide the fans with one of the most exciting games of the season on Thursday evening when, on the East Side diamond, the Bridgeman's play the league-champion Vets. The two old rivals always put on a stellar game whenever they meet, and Thursday evening's encounter should be no exception. Leaning room along the fence-lines will be at a premium.

It will be veteran John Drury of the Bridgeman's facing off against Wally Grovum of the Vets. Both teams have an ample supply of man-power for Thursday's game. It should attract the season's largest crowd.

Golf Program for Boys and Girls Continues Monday

Ted Hellie Serves as Director of Program; 24 In Attendance Last Week

Second session of the junior golf program offered to interested students in the Thief River Falls schools will be held at the local golf club Friday, at 9 a. m. Twenty-four boys and girls were in attendance at the first group lessons on Monday of this week.

Free lessons will continue twice weekly, Mondays and Fridays, through most of the summer. Students may start and attend at any time, although regular attendance is definitely preferred. These lessons are open to non-members of the Thief River Golf Club as well as members. Non-members are eligible for a free round of golf after the lessons on Mondays and Fridays.

A boys' league will probably start shortly, if there is sufficient participation by boys who were in the program last year and are ready for league play.

Instruction is given on the rules, courtesies and techniques of playing golf properly, with stress given on at least one phase of playing the game at each session. The program is under the co-sponsorship of the local school system and golf club and is authorized by the Professional Golfers' Association of America. Some instruction in caddying will be given later.

Ted Hellie, director of the program, indicated that any students interested in golf are welcome to the lessons at any time. More girls are especially encouraged to come.

Highway Department Cites Boating Rules For Highway Travel

"No expansion of the recreational facilities in Minnesota has equalled the growth in the use of boats, boat trailers and motors," Garnet E. Hall, safety director of the Minnesota Highway department, declared today.

Hall cited the following important regulations designed to lessen the possibility of accident and increase safety:

Trailers must have two rear lamps lighted one-half hour after sunset until one-half hour before sunrise and at any other time when visibility is poor. Also, required are a light to illuminate the rear license plate, at least two reflectors visible for 300 feet to overtaking cars with normal lights and directional turn signals if those of the towing vehicle are not completely visible from the rear.

On the extreme rear end of the train of vehicles there should be a lighted lamp at night and a red flag at least 16 inches square during daylight hours if the boat and motor extend four or more feet beyond the bed of body of the trailer.

Safety chains are a must with all trailer hitches to guard against a possible separation from the hitch. If the total overall length of the combination of trailer, load and towing vehicle is 30 feet or more, side marker lights are required to indicate such over-length combination. This means two lights near the front and two near the back on both sides of the trailing vehicle or boat.

If the width of the vehicle, trailer or boat, including the load, is over 80 inches, four clearance lamps are required in addition to other required lamps. Two must be on opposite sides showing a red light to the rear, and two on opposite sides showing white or amber lights to the front. The front clearance lamps should be not less than 24 inches above the head lamps.

When the total weight of trailer, boat and load is 1,500 pounds or more, the trailer must be equipped with brakes that can be applied by the driver of the towing vehicle.

Outside of business or residential sections, automobiles towing boat or any trailer shall not follow within 500 feet of other vehicles unless they are over-taking to pass. In such cases, towing drivers should take more than ordinary passing distance and consider their heavier loads for braking purposes. In making turns, they should make a wider radius and accelerate at lower speeds.

Beef steaks and roasts will keep well in the freezer at 0 degrees F. up to 9 months, according to tests in the University of Minnesota food processing laboratory.

State Road Toll Up 15 Per Cent From 1963 Period

18,428 Accidents Noted; Deaths Totaled 157 for January, February, March

Deaths on all Minnesota roads and streets for the first three months of 1964 were 15 per cent higher than for the same period last year. The number of reported accidents was less, however, with 18,428 this year compared with 22,417 during the first three months of 1963.

This difference in accidents reported may be accounted for in part by a change in the reporting requirements, the Minnesota Highway department reports. In the past all accidents with damages of $50 had to be reported; this has now been increased to $100.

Of the total accidents for January, February and March this year, 8,339 occurred on trunk highways (including interstate) and 10,089 occurred on county roads, township roads and city streets. Of the 157 deaths recorded, 90 died on state trunk routes, and 67 on all other roads and streets.

In comparing rural to urban, the highest number of accidents occurred in urban areas, 14,954; whereas the rural roads accounted for the highest death toll, 96.

During March, 55 persons were killed and 3,736 injured in a total of 6,464 accidents. According to reports to the Minnesota Highway department, the highest contributing factor to all reported accidents was failure to yield right of way; to fatal accidents, illegal or unsafe speed; and to personal injury accidents, speed and following too closely. Thirteen of the 48 fatal accidents reported involved drinking drivers.

KEEP COOL urges pretty Audrey Meyer, Minnesota's Princess Kay of the Milky Way as she pours her favorite beverage for Minnesota Gov. Karl Rolvaag who signs the state's official 1964 June Dairy Month proclamation. Princess Kay put aside her crown, on this occasion, in favor of a becoming down-on-the-farm costume to stress this year's June Dairy Month "Keep Cool with Dairy Foods" campaign theme. The governor says he agrees that cold milk and warm weather "go together like lawn chairs and fireflies." In his proclamation, Governor Rolvaag also cites milk and dairy foods as prime sources of nutrition for citizens of all ages the year-around and commends the dairy industry for its continuing contribution to the economic well-being of Minnesota.

Flag Restoration Is Undertaken by State

First historic battle flag in the state's flag restoration and preservation program has been completed and was presented to Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag last week by Civil War uniformed national guardsmen who's lineage encompasses the Civil War regiments of Minnesota. The restored flag is that carried into battle by the Minnesota Tenth regiment during its participation in the Civil War.

The flag presented to Governor Rolvaag by General Moeglein today is one of 93 displayed in the rotunda of the state capitol that are scheduled for restoration and preservation processing.

State law requires that these flags "shall be preserved in the Capitol under the special care of the adjutant general" and shall be suitably encased and marked, and, so far as the adjutant general may deem it consistent with their safety, shall be publicly displayed."

Work on the historic battle flags got under way when a New York textile conservator and consultant was called in to discuss and demonstrate techniques of preservation with members of the program's advisory committee.

Process of restoring and preserving involves unrolling the brittle and powdered flags and, where required, rearranging bits and pieces, facing both sides of the flag with an almost invisible silk mesh, and finally cleaning to near the flag's original lustre.

The completed flag of the Minnesota Tenth regiment, 100 years ago to the day, June 11, was flying before the regimental headquarters set up near Columbus, Ky., where the regiment was rigorously preparing for its first engagement.

One month later the regiment was engaged in the Battle of Tupelo (Mississippi), where they were, on three occasions, called upon to conduct holding actions against the enemy and where they, three times, drove the enemy back.

The regiment, during the balance of 1864, participated in the expedition against Confederate General Price and the Battle of Nashville. The Tenth regiment then took part in the expedition to Mobile bay and Montgomery and was mustered out in August, 1865.

Grading and gravel surfacing of five miles in Pennington county between the south county line and the Red Lake river, eight miles southeast of River Valley, is to begin July 1 and be completed by Oct. 30. A Chance to Learn

Tuesday noon at the Rex Cafe the Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an information meeting concerning the city planning commission. Authorized by the city council about two years ago the commission has a professional planner to assist court-appointed local commission members in their work.

The duties of this commission, what it is doing and what it hopes to accomplish will be explained on Tuesday by Tom Hodne, the professional planner. There will be opportunity to ask questions. We encourage all Chamber of Commerce members and other interested citizens to attend the dinner meeting.

Uncle Sam Complains

We noted with interest an Associated Press story last week which stated that the director of the Veterans Administration domiciliary at Thomasville, Ga., was unhappy with his water bill from the city. It seems that a new rate plan had boosted water costs at the building by 84 per cent.

The director said that he would be compelled to readjust his budget to the extent of firing at least one employee if the rates were not adjusted. We commend the director for being conscientious about his budget, but his comment raises an interesting question.

If the first thing to do in reducing costs is to dismiss an employee, then perhaps the number of employees is more than necessary to the operation. It should not take a high waer bill to bring that to public attention. At any rate, it is interesting to have Uncle Sam complaining about rising costs. A lot of common people have budgets, too.

Equal Opportunity

W. Willard Wirtz, U. S. Secretary of Labor, recently had some interesting comment in speaking before the conference of the President's committee on equal employment opportunity. Reference was made to civil rights in regard to employment.

"So far as equal employment opportunity is concerned civil rights will become real only as there is developed a three-point program of civil responsibilities" the labor secretary said. "First there must be more total opportunity created—more jobs. Fair employment is no good; the goal is fair employment as part of full employment.

"Second, equal employment opportunity will be meaningless except as there is real equality of educational and training oportunity. Third, local equal opportunity programs must be developed within every disadvantaged community; they must be by the members of that community; and they must include the rebuilding of the whole structure of life and attitudes in that community" Wirtz told the conference.

He added that a temporary policy of giving hiring preference to a less qualified person over one who is better qualified would seriously retard the achievement of true equality of employment opportunity.

These are interesting statements from an administration appointee. Wirtz apparently does not see the civil rights bill as a bed of roses for the negro but rather as a patch of thorns for the nation's entire laboring population. The bill could well create a complexity of problems in the field of labor.

Be Prepared

Nobody likes to think about the possibilities of a devastating storm but strong winds have caused damage in this area in the past and we are well aware of the potential dangers. The following information has been adapted from the American Red Cross Disaster service in regard to tornadoes:

1. Listen to your radio for official tornado warnings and take them seriously. You usually will first hear a forecast that tornadoes may occur. The alert is broadcast when a twister actually appears.

2. Stay indoors. Wind-driven objects are your greatest danger outdoors.

3. Go to a storm cellar or basement if you can. The southwest corner usually is the safest. Take your battery radio for official information.

4. If you must remain above ground in a building stay away from windows. Open the windows about an inch on the side of the building away from the approaching storm. Take shelter under a heavy table.

5. If you are in a car drive away from the path of the tornado. Go to low dry ground for shelter from wind-driven objects. Stay away from power and telephone lines.

6. If you are caught outdoors lie down flat on the ground. A dry roadside ditch or plowed furrow gives you some protection.

7. Be prepared to give first aid. Remember that it is dangerous to move injured persons unless you are trained in aid work.

An Eager Beaver

In making his bid for election to the U. S. Senate, Wheelock Whitney of Wayzata is showing the "eager beaver" attitude which is too often lacking in political campaigns. He is bringing his message directly to the people, in person, from one corner of the state to the other. He is talking issues and getting opinions on a first-hand basis — and he wants to win.

Speaking at the state Republican convention, where his candidacy was endorsed unanimously by a standing ovation, Whitney said the following:

". . .I did not enter this race to get experience. I did not enter this race to get my name known. I did not enter it as a stepping stone to a future race, and I will not accept your endorsement on those premises. But I do . accept your endorsement for the United States Senate with but one thought in mind—to win.

"This is only the beginning, just a start," he told the convention. "For this campaign is going to set some records in hard work, energy, enthusiasm, records in miles covered, communities visited, people met, ideas advanced, issues discussed, programs proposed, positions taken and, yes, promises kept.

The Senate aspirant discussed his plan to represent Minnesota's agricultural area, to demand sensible federal spending, to develop a firmer and more realistic foreign policy and to help create a state ". . . on the move, realizing its potential, making the most of its opportunities. It is the kind of Minnesota that is built by workers not by talkers; by fighters not philosophers; by action not by excuses" he said.

Well, campaign talk is cheap. It is easy to find faults and propose remedies but quite something else to correct faults by putting the remedies to work. In the case of Whitney, however, we are inclined to think that talk is not cheap. He has demonstrated his abilities in previous projects and he has a sincerity which leads a person to believe he can do what he says he can do.

The Senate race this fall may prove to be a race after all.

An Ill Wind

Blowing out of Washington Monday was an ill wind to rural areas of the United States. A supreme court decision that the seats in both houses of state legislatures "must be apportioned on a population basis" is bad news to rural areas like our own. It would mean that the urban metropolitan sections could control both the House of Representatives and the Senate, leaving the non-urban areas to pick up the scraps falling from the table.

Court tests involving the representation balance of one or both houses of the legislature are underway in a number of states. The basic ruling, read by Chief Justice Earl Warren, is expected to have incalculable effects on the nation's politics.

"We mean that the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment to the Constitution requires that a state make an honest and good faith effort to construct districts in both houses of its legislature, as nearly of equal population as is practicable," Justice Warren said. The "little federal" system, whereby Senators are elected on an area basis rather than by population, was struck down by the court.

In this state the protection of rural areas afforded by the representative Senate has been vital to the state's well being. Political bargaining power has been equalized and the rural areas have not been exploited by the metropolitan areas. Should the federal court ruling have its full effect, we can expect to have a sharp decline in political influence.

Rural area representation has been a stabilizing factor in our state government. Candidates are known on a more personal basis in our more thinly populated areas, and this is good. It is much easier for a political machine with undercover methods and liberal financing from private interests, to win an election in a metropolitan area. This happens in the House of Representatives now. We don't like the idea of the same methods and results spreading to the Senate.

It is doubtful that such a change in representation would take place quickly. Foot-dragging is common practice in the political world when the positions of the politicians themselves are at stake. If the change must come, however, (and the Supreme Court has decreed it is the law of the land) then we foresee a darker future for rural Minnesota.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

A New York Times Service report telling of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's visit to Washington reached me through the Winnipeg Tribune. Our own press seemed to be a little uncertain as to how they should handle the story of this visit by the top-ranking West German official.

In recent weeks there has been a surge of anti-American sentiment throughout West Germany which the German leader has tried to subdue, and the background of this problem probably was discussed privately in the meetings with President Johnson and therefore received little publicity. Which no doubt was as it should be.

As background information, I will pass along a few clippings from a story written from Bonn by New York Times reporter Arthus J. Olsen, and published in the April 30 issue of the Times. It had to do with the German reaction to a public statement made by President Johnson, telling the West Germans to be a little friendlier to the Russians. Here are portions of the Olsen report:

"Chancellor Ludwig Erhard has told leaders of his Christian Democratic party to stop criticizing the United States.

"Even as the Chancellor lectured his party colleagues on keeping faith with West Germany's key ally, criticism grew in unofficial quarters against President Johnson's advice that West Germany seek better relations with the Soviet Union. The President made his recommendation in an interview, made public yesterday, with the Munich weekly Quick.

"At a meeting of the Christian Democratic Parliamentary Executive yesterday, Chancellor Erhard demanded that criticisms of his policies in official party organs cease. Those present said he named no names. However, it was understood that he referred to two recently published commentaries.

"The Chancellor is understood to have been dismayed by the sharp reaction in Washington to these expressions of uneasiness about the current Western drive to improve relations with the Soviet bloc.

"He may have been more chagrinned this morning in reading press attacks on President Johnson's advice to West Germany.

"The Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, an independent newspaper that usually follows a strong pro-American policy, tartly commented that "the Federal Republic dislikes being mistaken for South Vietnam.

"We doubt that the method used by the United States President for giving in public foreign-policy advice to the chief of government of an allied country is appropriate or fortunate," the newspaper said in a commentary written by its chief editor, Jurgen Tern. It added:

"Futhermore, to give the Soviet Government an additional hint of his own readiness for negotiations, the United States President has other possibilities than that of acting at the expense of the Bonn chief of government, of all people."

Did our talkative President goof again? It seems that he did. There may have been considerable merit in the suggestions that he made, but obviously the approach should have been through diplomatic circles rather than by a press release.

It is reasonable to assume that the real purpose of Chancellor Erhard's visit to Washington was to discuss frankly with President Johnson the strained relations that suddenly have developed between the people of Germany and our government. The views that were expressed by statesman Erhard and politician Johnson probably will not be covered completely in any press release in the near future.

I am sure that the people of Germany think well of the people of our country, and they have had enough experience with blundering leadership in their own country to adjust themselves to a sensible understanding of the blunders of the leadership of a nation that they know is friendly.

In a pre-view of the two-day visit to Washington by Chancellor Erhard in the Christian Science Monitor no mention was made of the reaction of the German people to President Johnson's press release. The story written from Washington by Robert R. Brunn states that:

"Earlier reports about an imminent Erhard trip to Moscow now are denied by all hands.

"White House planners do expect that Dr. Erhard will indeed meet with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev before the September, 1965, elections. But during the two-day discussions here the question will be soft-pedaled by both sides.

In other words, while this matter probably was one of the most important matters to be considered at these meetings, the one that probably prompted the Erhard visit, it probably was considered at a top-level session and will receive little publicity.

President Johnson has properly urged labor and industry to hold the line against wage and price increases. Talking out of the other side of his mouth he urged an across-the-board pay increase for all federal employees, including an increase of $7,500 a year for members of Congress, which definitely is inflationary. Our Odin Langen not only voted against it but also spoke against it.

The evil in this unwise measure is not limited to the added cost to the taxpayers that it imposes directly. A far greater evil will be its influence in encouraging wage and salary increases in all government units at state and local levels, including education. The measure that was approved by the House will go down into the record as the most inflationary and the most irresponsible act approved by this Congress.

I am satisfied that a runaway inflation can now be looked forward to as almost inevitable. There still is time to save our country from an economic bust but it would require drastic and unpopular action. Unfortunately, too many of our good people are afraid to express an opinion on our problems of government lest they offend a customer. And so we drift.

Have you ever seen 7,000 grown men cry? You'd think success would make them happy, but ever since Mustang came out, seven thousand Ford Dealers all over the country have been weeping and wringing their hands. They can't get as many Mustangs as they would like. All this would upset us, too, except it's happened to us before. You see, this was the hottest sales year in Ford Division history even before Mustang came out. At the beginning of the model-year, dealers couldn't get enough of our big, hot Super Torque Ford Hardtops (sales up 54%)...or luxurious Thunderbirds (sales up 68%). Falcon sales are almost as big as Chevy II and Valiant combined. Fairlane continues to be a leader in its field. So, even though some people would like us to put all our plants to work on Mustang, we can't let down our hundreds of thousands of Ford, Thunderbird, Falcon and Fairlane lovers. Why don't you come see what all the shouting's about? Ask your Ford Dealer for a test drive. (You might even get him to smile.)

MAIN STREET, U.S.A.

BY BERT MILLS

Washington Editor of "National Publisher"

It is probably true that most Americans outside of the deep south deplore about 75 per cent of the things Gov. George Wallace of Alabama stands for, but it is probably equally true that most Americans are secretly grateful to him for his primary contests in three northern states.

The segregationist candidate lost all three contests, as even Wallace assumed he would. But he got about 34 per cent of the Democratic vote in Wisconsin, 30 per cent in Indiana and 43 per cent in Maryland. If defeat is ever profitable, Wallace earned a plus mark.

Whatever his motives, Wallace has proved a point of key significance to the entire nation. It is that there is a very sizable minority of northern Democrats who feel that the civil rights pendulum has swung too far to the left and that the Senate should look throught amber glasses at the pending bill.

Actually, caution has been the watchword of the three-month debate in the Senate, even before George Wallace flashed the light. The real reason why the explosive civil rights issue has not been completely resolved by now is that there are perhaps a dozen Senators who are still engaged in soul-searching, pulse-taking and weather forecasting.

When this approximate dozen, including both Democrats and Republicans, makes up its collective mind, the legislative tug-of-war will be over. Either a strong bill will be passed or numerous safeguarding amendments will be added and a milder version adopted.

Which way it will be depends in part on how the key dozen assess the Wallace phenomenon. It is the guess of this observer that the decision will be to heed the amber light flashed by Governor Wallace, and that the result will be a toned-down bill. And the suspicion is that most Americans will approve the Senate's final result.

Backlash a Fact

Politicians have been worrying for a long time about "backlash," the term applied to those in the north who feel the negro rights movement must be slowed. Governor Wallace has demonstrated that "backlash" is a fact and not just a theory. There are many Americans, who have never taken part in the civil rights debate who are anxious to register a protest vote.

Nobody will ever know because pollsters have not yet become mind readers but it is probably a safe assumption that at least half of those who voted for Wallace in his northern primaries do not really approve of his segregationist views. These voters wanted to register a protest and the only way to do it was to cast a ballot for Wallace.

If this theory is correct, a lot lot of office-holders believed to be "safe" are in jeopardy of being ousted. For example, all eight of Maryland's Congressmen voted for the civil rights bill passed by the House last year, except for one was absent and did not vote. But Governor Wallace won a majority in 17 of Maryland's 23 counties, running against a popular Senator who had never lost an election.

All forecasts of the 1964 election outcome have to be adjusted to allow for "backlash." There is a counter-rebellion going on, and all politicians know the population study; 89 per cent white, 11 per cent negro, on a national basis.

As of now, the civil rights position of the Democratic and Republican parties are practically the same. Both are strongly committed by official platform to civil rights reform. Chances are neither party will make any significant change in policy this year. Certainly the Democrats are irrevocably committed to their present course.

Where Will Protest Vote Go?

The intriguing question about the 1964 elections is where will the demonstrated protest vote go. Governor Wallace has proved there is a sizable minority within the Democratic party which is willing to go so far as to support him in a primary. Assuredly there are Republicans who feel the same way.

Chances are nobody will have an opportunity to vote for George Wallace for President next November. The choice will be between Lyndon B. Johnson and one of a half dozen Republican possibilities. The only G.O.P. prospect who might attract protest votes even from Democrats appears to be Senator Barry Goldwater, or conceivably Richard M. Nixon.

But it is hard to imagine very many Democrats voting for either Goldwater or Nixon. Will the protest vote abstain in the Presidentail race and manifest itself only in Senate and House contests? Several thousand key people in Washington wish they knew the answer to that question.

Joey Kearney, eight-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Kearney of St. Paul, is getting his copy of "10 Little Swimmers" autographed by Wally Richardson, University of Minnesota swimming star who holds the Big Ten, NCAA and American records in the 100 yard butterfly. Providing the pen for the purpose is Dr. A. B. Rosenfield, Director of the Special Services Division for the Minnesota Department of Health. Swimming safety is the theme of this newly-created cartoon-and-rhyme folder which is being distributed during the week to all Minnesota public and private school children in the third, fourth and fifth grades. Pilot studies, which indicated that the vast majority of children at the fourth grade level were unable to swim, prompted this "drown-proofing" project and pointed up the need for more swimming instruction for youngsters in the land of 10,000 lakes. The folders for this program are being provided by the Minnesota Department of Health in cooperation with the Minnesota Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Health and Safety Committees of the St. Paul and Minneapolis Jaycees are furnishing the bulk of the manpower required to effect the statewide distribution.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

There are men who carry the weight of the world on their shoulders — but this isn't one of them.

There is no burden so joyous as the responsibility of being DAD.

But — hold on there! Don't forget it is a burden. Someone's future is on your strong back.

And that someone's future involves soul as well as body.

If you want your boy to become a good ballplayer . . . well, you go out and catch with him.

And if you have hopes for his character, his courage, his commitment to things Right and True . . . yes, a boy loves to walk into HIS CHURCH with HIS DAD.

TWISTER demolished this barn owned by Oscar and Norman Stenvik of rural Goodridge late Thursday afternoon. One piece of the roof smashed the box of a truck parked nearby; another piece was carried 200 feet and narrowly missed Norman's house. A hay rack only a few yards away was untouched. Cattle were grazing nearby, but none were killed.

Tornado Razes Barn Near Goodridge Thur.

Stenvik Farm Is Hit by Twister; Local Damage Done

Disaster struck without warning Thursday afternoon at the farm owned by Oscar Stenvik and his son Norman, located south of highway 1 six miles east of Goodridge. At 4:50 p. m., a tornado swept through the farmyard, reducing two buildings to rubble, and snapping tree tunks, one of which was an oak with a diameter of about 10 inches. The storm lasted about two or three minutes, according to Norman Stenvik.

Pieces of the barn roof, completely removed from the building, were blown about with devastating effect. A large section of the roof struck the back of a truck parked near the building, reducing the box to splinters but leaving the cab intact. Another large roof section was blown about 20 feet to the northwest, miraculously missing Norman Stenvik's house by a few feet and landing in a patch of woods west of the house.

Large Shed Leveled

Almost completely leveled was a large shed used to store gasoline, located about 200 feet west of the barn. An interesting sidelight of the situation, however, is the fact that a hay rack located between the two buildings was unaffected by the twister.

Two dwellings are located near the demolished buildings, but neither were damaged except for lost shingles and broken windows. No personal injuries were suffered by the Stenviks, nor was any livestock lost. Stenvik was unable to give an estimate of his financial loss.

This tornado was the first to strike in the immediate area in 18 years, Stenvik said. The last one touched down about a mile north of his farm.

Other Damage

Other damage was caused by strong winds in the Thief River Falls area. A metal awning was blown down at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Liden at 712 S. St. Paul and a large tree limb was broken at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Algot Eriksson at 916 N. Main. Part of the roof of a loafing shed was blown down at the farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. Iver Asseby located next to the 59-Hi drive-in theater.

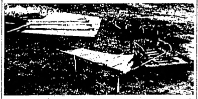
Weather Summary

Temporary relief from overcast skies and rain was felt by the Thief River Falls area Sunday, but again possible showers and thunderstorms are in the forecast as moving northeastward from the Kansas-Nebraska-Iowa area.

Cool temperatures and heavy rainfall have remained the rule in the local area the past week. High and low temperature and precipitation readings recorded by the North Central Airlines weather station at the municipal airport are as follows: 72-48 and .32 inch on Wednesday; 76, 60 and .95 inch on Thursday; 73, 55 and .72 inch on Friday; 60, 50 and .08 inch on Saturday; 74 and 43 on Sunday and an overnight low Monday morning of 52.

MYERS SELLS BULL

Bernard L. Myers, Thief River Falls, recently sold an Aberdeen-Angus bull to Basil Stevens, Grygla.



A LOAFING shed on the Iver Asseby farm, located beside the 59-Hi Drive-in theater South of Thief River Falls, lost part of its roof to a gust of wind between 3 and 5 p.m. Thursday. Damage was estimated at $150 to $200.

Airline Service Is Supported by State Committee

$10,840 Allotment Made To Assist Communities In Retaining Airlines

Minnesota's legislative advisory committee has approved an allotment of $10,840 to finance state activities aimed at retaining airline service for Thief River Falls and similar communities in this state.

Sen. Donald Wright of Minneapolis at first opposed the grant, which he described as a new activity requiring legislative authorization, but finally withdrew his opposition.

"If this is designed to keep up subsidies it is one thing," Wright said, "but if it is for the purpose of clubbing airlines into performing services at a losing rate, the state should not be involved."

Lawrence McCabe, state aeronautics commissioner, said some 30 states are now joining in a campaign to have Congress take a new look at the feeder airline picture. McCabe said comunities themselves also are moving in and that he expects the state can soon withdraw from the case.

Sen. Val Imm, Mankato, supported the proposal, explaining that his community is among those involved.

Plan Remodeling Of Ben Franklin Store in City

Eugene Gaer, proprietor of the Ben Franklin store, states that he has completed negotiations for a renewal of the lease and with that problem settled he will proceed at once with a complete rejuvination of the entire interior of the store, including new fixtures throughout.

There also will be exterior improvements and a rebuilding of the entrances. He hopes to have the job completed by the middle of August. In the meantime there will be no interruption of business except for about a week of store closing prior to the grand opening.

Gaer became proprietor of the store in October of 1957. The store was operated originally in a 25-foot building fronting on LaBree avenue and 18 years ago was expanded to the present 75-foot front, consolidating three smaller stores into one.

Red Lake Indians Open Recreation Area on Sunday

Sandy Beach Section of Reservation To Be Open For Swimming and Picnics

Opening of the Sandy Beach Recreation area at Red Lake will take place on Sunday, June 28, according to Dan Needham, treasurer of the tribal council of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians. A number of improvements have been made to appeal to swimmers, campers and people having a picnic outing.

The Sandy Beach area is located four miles southeast of the Red Lake outlet dam. There is only one main entrance and persons planning to visit the area are advised to follow directional signs. Car permits for the area will be sold at the entrance for a nominal fee, Needham said.

Money received from camping permits and car stickers will be used to maintain and improve the grounds and to install playground equipment at a later date. The site will have about 60 picnic tables, adequate restroom facilities and a well house for drinking water. A day watchman to help watch cars of swimmers and a night policeman to prevent vandalism have been employed by the tribal council.

Sandy Beach is located along the route of the Great River Road which is being widely publicized as following the Mississippi river from its source at Itasca State park to its mouth at New Orleans, La. It is ideally suited for swimming with a sand bottom, clear water and gradual slope.

Creamery Merger With Karlstad To Be Voted Tuesday

Board Urges Stockholders To Attend Meeting at T.R.F. City Auditorium

Stockholders of Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery association will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium to take action on a special board proposal. Directors of the cooperative have proposed a merger of the Karlstad Cooperative Creamery association into the Thief River Falls creamery.

Under the merger plan, each Karlstad stockholder would be issued shares of stock in the Thief River Falls creamery equal to holdings in the Karlstad cooperative. The board of directors would also be expanded to include representation from the Karlstad area.

If the merger is approved by Karlstad stockholders at a meeting tonight and Thief River Falls stockholders tomorrow night, the merger would become effective on July 1. On that date the Karlstad plant would cease operations and become a buying station for the Thief River Falls creamery. The Thief River Falls Cooperative would assume all debts and obligations of the Karlstad cooperative as well as become owner of the Karlstad assets.

Directors of the Thief River Falls creamery urge a large turnout of stockholders for the important meeting so that the proposal can be explained, questions answered and a representative vote taken.

Teachers at LHS To Attend Meet

Miss Carol Ellingson and Mrs. Jan Breiland, home economics teachers in Lincoln high school, are making plans to attend a district conference for high school home economics teachers August 27 and 28 in Grand Rapids.

The meeting is one of seven district conferences to be held throughout Minnesota in August for high school home economics teachers. Initiated last year, the district events will replace the statewide conference held in other years.

This year's meeting will be principally for study and discussion of the statewide home economics curriculum project begun in the fall of 1963. At the conference, teachers will be given materials in clothing and textiles to work with during the 1965-65 school year. Demonstration lessons will be given, followed by evaluation. New developments in vocational education will also be discussed.

THIS STOUT oak tree apparently caught the full force of the twister which severely damaged the Stenvik farm east of Goodridge. Also shown here is the truck which was struck by a section of the barn roof.

B. N. Hendrickson To Discuss Area Reorganization

B. N. Hendrickson, consultant in school district reorganization for the Minnesota Department of Education, will be guest speaker Thursday at a meeting to be held at 8 p.m. in the Gatzke school gymnasium. At the request of the Gatzke school board, Dr. Hendrickson will appear to discuss the proposed Grygla-Gatzke-Skime reorganization proposal.

"Due to the controversy and conflicting information regarding the plan, it is hoped that this meeting will be well attended by residents of the area affected," stated Delmar Hagen, chairman of the Gatzke school board, in announcing the meeting.

While in the area, Hendrickson will meet Wednesday evening at Viking with school board members from the Viking, Holt and Newfolden districts. The boards have been accumulating information in regard to a possible consolidation of the three districts and have requested the meeting to obtain further information and conduct an informal discussion.

To Contest Action

In announcing the meeting to be held at Gatzke on Thursday, Hagen also noted that the Gatzke board has hired an attorney to contest the action of Marshall county commissioners in setting off certain lands in the Gatzke district and annexing them to the Middle River district. Lands in question lie west of highway 89 and are adjacent to the Middle River district. County board action was taken at a hearing June 2.

Robert Swanson of Alexandria has been retained by the Gatzke school board to test the legality of the move. In a letter to Hagen dated June 4, Erling O. Johnson, Minnesota commissioner of education, quoted Minnesota law which apparently shows that the county commissioners acted beyond their limits. He quoted Section 122.23, Subdivision 5 of Minnesota Statutes, which reads as follows:

"Upon receipt of a plat and the supporting statement, each auditor shall immediately notify his respective county board. After such notification, and during the pendency of proceedings under the plat and supporting statement or for a period of six months, whichever is shorter, no action may be taken by the county board under any other law to modify the boun-

Hearing Held On Sewer and Street Projects in City

Southwest Area Given Consideration Thursday; Action Tabled to June 30

Property owners involved in a street improvement project under consideration by the city council were given an opportunity to ask questions and present arguments for and against the project to the council at a hearing Tuesday evening in the city auditorium basement.

The project in question involves Knight, Duluth, Arnold and State avenues south of the Great Northern tracks and west of highway 32. East-west streets involved are Zeh, Backe, Porter and a small portion of Emil. Improvements to be made include paving, addition of curb and gutter and installation of storm sewers.

Those favoring the project mentioned dust and mud on the streets and ditches filled with water. Those opposed were chiefly concerned about the cost, estimated at about $600 per 10 foot lot, and the possibility of increased truck traffic on Arnold and Duluth.

After the hearing, the council held a special meeting at which it was decided that members of the council study the project and be prepared to vote at a council meeting to be held June 30.

The council voted on a similar project for Birch Lane drive and Markley avenue. Due to overwhelming support of the project among property owners involved, the council unanimously voted to approve it.

AMA SEAL OF ACCEPTANCE ABANDONED IN 1955

Q. A house-to-house saleslady recently stated that her company's cosmetics were "approved by the American Medical Association." Does the AMA grant such approval?

A. No. In 1955 the American Medical Association announced that the evaluation of individual drugs, foods, devices and cosmetics, and bestowing the seal of acceptance on such products had been abandoned in favor of judging evidence of the general value of groups or classes of products. For example, a short time ago the AMA expressed an opinion regarding face creams containing hormones, but made no mention of specific brands of hormone creams.

Editorials . . .

"My philosphy makes life—the system of feelings and desires—supreme; and leaves knowledge merely the post of observer. This system of feelings is a fact in our minds about which there can be no dispute, a fact of which we have intuitive knowledge, a knowledge not inferred by arguments, nor generated by reasonings which can be received or neglected as we choose. Only such face-to-face knowledge has reality. It alone can get life in motion, since it springs from life."

That New Swim Suit

Fashion designers, who have turned a lot of ridiculous ideas into profitable enterprises throughout history, are surprised themselves over the reception of their latest revolutionary creation. Much discussion has been given recently to the topless bathing suits for women which are being introduced in the nation's fashion centers.

For the benefit of the uninformed, the suit consists of a high-waisted brief with crossed shoulder straps attached to the front and back. It has been described by some as "a new low in high fashion." Most designers say they are for use in sunbathing on sun decks or at private pools. No one doubts, however, that a few brave souls will show up in the new creation on public beaches.

We don't expect any to be worn at Tindolph park this summer. Since women will decide whether or not the suit is acceptable, no one can predict what they will decide. The suits have been condemned by members of the clergy in terms ranging from "not very nice" to "almost perversion".

Most retailers who stock the suits don't plan on promoting them—at the present time. If demand for the topless swimsuit develops into a booming business, it may well be the closest a boom and a bust have ever been related.

It's a Long, Long Time

To paraphrase a one-time popular song, "It's a long, long time from June to November." A lot can happen before the general election. It is also a long time before the national Republican convention on July 13—and in spite of Sen. Barry Goldwater's apparent vote total in commitments, a lot can happen before and during the convention.

According to compilations made by the Associated Press, Goldwater has more than enough delegates committed to gain the nomination on the first ballot. With Gov. William Scranton entering the race in the 11th hour, the convention could yet be an interesting one. There is a history in presidential campaigns of early front-runners the line.

No matter who the Republicans choose for a candidate, we don't envy him the campaign which will follow. In President Lyndon Johnson, his apparent opponent, he will face a man with much in his favor from a political standpoint. President Johnson hasn't been in office long enough to make too many blunders, the Bobby Baker investigation has been successfully kicked under the table, an anti-poverty campaign will not have time to be shown unsuccessful and there is still a good deal of latent sentiment from the Kennedy assassination.

It must take an extremely optimistic Republican to predict victory in the 1964 Presidential campaign. There are a few of those on the political scene. President Johnson looks like a shoo-in for the next term—unless his car hits a Texas-size jackrabbit on one of those beyond-the-speed-limit rides and leaves the Democrats without a President to reelect.

Happy Anniversary

Today marks the 20th anniversary of the official signing into law of the G. I. Bill of Rights—a piece of legislation which passed the 78th Congress without a dissenting vote. The law has influenced the lives of millions of American veterans.

The G. I. bill provided six separate benefits for veterans. Three of them (education and training, guaranteed loans and unemployment pay) were major benefits. The other three were job-finding assistance, military review of dishonorable discharges and top priority for the Veterans administration to build hospitals.

The G. I. loan program is the only one of the "major" three benefits of the G. I. bill still in force today. More than 5,268,000 loans have been made to World War II veterans, including 4,996,494 home loans, 231,522 business loans and 70,097 farm loans. Total amount of these loans is $43,672,42,000 of the which $22.7 billion has been guaranteed or insured by the Veterans administration.

One out of every five single-family home built in the United States since the end of World War II has been financed by the G. I. loan program for either World War II or Korean conflict veterans.

More than 7,800,000 World War II veterans, nearly half of the 16,500,000 U. S. participants, took some form of training under the G. I. boill. Of this total 2,200,000 attended colleges and universities, 3,500,000 went to schools below college level, 1,400,000 underwent on-the-job training and 700,000 were involved in on-the-farm training.

Through the training offered the nation has gained thousands of trained engineers, doctors, dentists, nurses, teacheds, scientists, lawyers, accountants, clergymen, writers and journalists, mechanics, construction workers, metal workers, electricians, policemen, firemen, printers, typesetters and business executives.

Total cost of the program was $14.5 billion with 80 per cent going directly to veterans in the form of subsistence allowances. Nearly all the rest was spent on tuition and other training costs. The influx of older, more mature persons into the classroom changed the pattern of education throughout the United States, the Veterans administration said.

The VA goes so far as to say the G. I. bill education and training program may turn out to be an unexpected bargain. The better-educated and higher earning veterans are returning higher taxes to the U. S. coffers at a rate expected to pay back the entire amount twice and possibly thrice over the course of a lifetime.

To the G. I. bill—happy anniversary.

Information Meet At Gatzke School Slated Thursday

dary of any district if any part of the district is included in an area proposed for consolidation."

Commissioner's Opinion

After discussion of several other items in question, Education Commissioner Johnson stated, "It would appear that from this point on if the school board or people of the Gatzke district are dissatisfied with the action of the county board, their next step would be to employ an attorney to act in accordance with the appeal provisions of the statutes. After an appeal is filed from the action of the county board, the territory will revert to 'status quo' until the courts have acted upon the appeal."

Among the petitions originally submitted to the county board for set-off from the Gatzke district was land surrounding the school building of the Gatzke district. T. C. Engum, chief of the section of elementary and secondary education for the department of education, stated in a letter to John O. Pearson, Marshall county superintendent of schools, that "this is the first time that such a situation has come to our attention in 35 years working with district reorganization problems."

Engum noted in the letter, dated May 7, that "there is no provision for transfer of title of any real estate or other property of the district. For the lack of specific authority in the statutes for county boards to order the transfer of any school district property, the school building and site and all other district property would still remain in the possession of the Gatzke district."

Must Share Debt

In a letter to Hagen dated May 6 (about a month before county board action) Engum stated, "The farms transferred from Gatzke to Middle River district will have to assume a proportionate share of the present debt of Middle River which at the present time is $90,000. In case these land owners who may have transferred their farms to Middle River want to have their lands set back into the Gatzke district, they would be stuck for the tax rate to retire the Middle River bonded debt. When the land has once assumed a share of a bonded debt, it can never be removed until bonds are fully paid."

With the Gatzke district having retained an attorney to conduct the appeal, it appears that court action will be forthcoming. The court must decide whether lands in question will remain within the Gatzke district or will be annexed to the Middle River district as authorized by the county board.

Roseau Wildlife Management Area Improved

Improvements to the state's 52,000-acre Roseau river wildlife management area through use of of funds provided by the Omnibus Outdoor Recreation and Resources Act of 1963, have been announced by the Minnesota conservation department's division of game and fish.

During the past eight months, portions of the 25 miles of dike in the refuge, located adjacent to the Canadian border in northwestern Minnesota, have been raised and graveled; large entrance signs have been erected, and wildlife food plots established.

Three hundred acres of new food plots have been cleared and seeded to barley and oats, primarily for the benefit of waterfowl. These developments help prevent waterfowl depredation in private fields by providing food source on state land.

Crookston Men Injured Ner City This Morning; 2 Cars Damaged in City

Two accidents have occurred in the Thief River Falls area during the past week. Reported by the police department was an accident involving two cars which collided at the intersection of First street and Miriam avenue. A car driven by Roy Langevin of Thief River Falls, going east on First street, was stuck at the intersection by a car driven by Maynard Troland, also of this city, which was going south on Miriam. Damage to each car was over $50 and the accident is under investigation.

The other accident, reported by the sheriff's office, occurred four miles northeast of Thief River Falls and one-fourth mile south of the junction of state aid road 18 and county aid road 65.

Supreme Court Upholds Legality of Potato Act

Clay County Grower Is Required To Pay Full Assessments Authorized

Constitutionality of the Minnesota statutes authorizing the one cent per hundredweight assessment in the Red River Valley was sustained by a recent decision of the Minnesota supreme court.

The Minnesota potato control board brought the civil action against a Clay county grower for non-payment of the standard assessment authorized by law for commercial sale of potatoes. The facts were stipulated to and the grower defended the law suit only on whether the said Minnesota law was constitutional. The district court, Hon. E. J. Ruegemer of St. Cloud, ruled that the act was valid.

An appeal was then taken to the supreme court by the grower and the supreme court recently dismissed the appeal, which dismissal has the affect of making the judgment of the district court final. Thus, the grower is now required to pay the assessments authorized by law.

The Minnesota Attorney General, Walter Mondale, joined with the board's lawyer, Garrity, Cahill & Gunhus of Moorhead in upholding the validity of the act.

1960 LHS Grad Receives Degree

Robert Pearson, 1960 graduate of Lincoln high school and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Pearson, formerly of Thief River Falls, received a bachelor of arts degree recently from the University of Nebraska with a major in economics. He has also been accepted by the Nebraska Law school to begin study next fall.

According to word received here, Robert has also been accepted for the Peace Corps training program and is taking advanced study in the department of modern languages at Denver University. Arnold Pearson is now a court reporter at Wahoo, Neb.

Receive Bids On Indian Service Road July 6th

Bids will be received July 6 by George D Allen, Clearwater county auditor, for clearing and grubbing of 10.1 miles of the Indian Service road on the reservation of the Red Lake band of Chippewa Indians.

The stretch to be cleared is located between the bridge over the Clearwater river, nine miles north of Clearbrook, and the junction of highways 1 and 89, totaling 132 acres of clearing and grubbing. Bids will be received at the county court house in Batley.

Area Entrants in Sheep Days Events Win in Judging

Jack Anderson of Marion, N. D. topped the field and came up as 1964 champion shearer at the Greenbush sheep shearing contest held in connection with Greenbush sheep days activities recently.

Other winners in the contest were Charles Larson of Thief River Falls who placed third in the 4-H and FFA judging contest; Carol Olson and Donna Rantanen, both of Middle River, who were high scoring girls in the contest; Miss Olson placed second in the fine wool division of the wool fleece show.

Junior champion shearer is Rapheal Gonshorowski of Greenbush. The second place winner was Kenneth Heppner of Warroad. Both boys will receive a trip to the Indiana state fair this fall and an opportunity to participate in the 1964 national junior sheep shearing contest.

Another Electric
from Otter Tail

On July 1, another in a series of voluntary electric rate reductions and revisions from Otter Tail will go into effect, providing annual savings of $118,000 to Otter Tail customers.

This time, customers living in communities of less than 2,400 population and in rural areas will receive the savings. Otter Tail's costs of serving these customers has been higher than those of serving customers in the more populated areas. Through new technological advances, however, this cost differential is becoming smaller. Otter Tail's latest electric rate reduction is in recognition of this changing cost of service.

Nearly Half a Million Dollars in Voluntary Rate Reductions by Otter Tail in the Last Two Years

Since July of 1963, Otter Tail has voluntarily reduced and modified its electric rates to produce savings for Otter Tail customers totaling nearly $500,000 annually. As the table shows, nearly all classes of our customers have received at least one reduction in rates.

For the Future . . .

Your increased use of electricity, and Otter Tail's improved equipment and work methods have made this latest electric rate reduction possible. And Otter Tail is confident that your growing use of electricity in homes, farms, offices and factories, plus even more efficiency of operation on the part of the company are likely to make possible further electric rate reductions in the future.

Otter Tail Power To Reduce Rates

Small Communities and Rural Areas To Benefit

Otter Tail Power company announced Friday that it was reducing its residential and combination light and power electric rates to its customers living in communities of less than 2,400 population and in rural areas. The rates, which will become effective as of July 1, will produce annual savings of $118,000 for Otter Tail customers in comunities of this size and in rural areas throughout the company's tri-state service area.

The company's costs of serving customers in communities of lower population and in rural areas have been higher than those of serving customers in communities with larger populations. However, through introduction of new technologies, this differential is becoming smaller. The rate reductions are inrecognition of this changing cost of service.

When the new rate reduction goes into effect, the total net annual savings of various Otter Tail customers from rate revisions and reductions since January, 1962, will be nearly a half million dollars based on 1964 electric consumption.

The Year's Top Performance

When the year-end recapitulation is made of the performances of the state's athletic squad, on the high school, college and professional levels, there should be no quibbling about the number one performance.

That must be awarded to coach Dick Siebert and his Minnesota Gopher baseball squad, winners of the 1964 NCA baseball title. The Gophers, given scant attention early in the season, came on to win the Big Ten title, and then continued on to win the national college title. The Gophers, behind the four-hit pitching of junior Joe Pollock, defeated Missouri, 5 to 1, at Omaha on Thursday night in the finals of the NCAA baseball tournament.

Minnesota won the national college baseball title in 1956 and 1960, but I'm sure that coach Siebert received more of a thrill out of this season's championship than in the previous seasons. And for the reason that this was a young team, and the evidence of Siebert's coaching was more apparent.

The 1956 and 1960 Gopher winners were more mature squads, and there was some griping by some of the opposing teams in those years that Siebert had done some able recruiting of the nation's army and air force teams, and had persuaded a number of the service players, with college eligibility remaining, to attend Minnesota. But that charge cannot be levied against the 1964 Gophers, for they were a home-talent squad.

Quite an Honor

It is becoming evident that the Minnesota Twins will be hard-pressed to finish in third place when the American League's final standings are posted. But in spite of the Twins' erratic play three of their players were named to the All-Star team that will face the National League All-Stars on July 7. Named to the starting lineup were Harmon Killebrew, left field, Tony Oliva, right field, and Bob Allison, first base. Gaining three players on the starting roster is quite an honor for the Twins. And it's a certainty that the Twins will have another player on the squad in pitcher Camilo Pascual. And the Twins' center fielder, Jimmie Hall, was runner-up to New York's Mickey Mantle, so he, too, will be on the squad.

The surprise of the managers' selections was the naming of Allison to the first base position. Allison, after being a right fielder for a number of years was, this season, shifted to first base so that the Twins' rookie, Oliva, could play right field. Allison has apparently made the transition in satisfactory fashion, or else the American League is shy of talented first basemen, for the managers named the hard-hitting Twin to the starting lineup. Kansas City's Norm Siebern was the runner-up.

The National League's All-Star lineup will be named this week, and it's probable that the senior circuit will have trouble in picking a starting squad as the league is studded with first-rate players. They have a first base problem—having to choose from Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants, Bill White of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Joe Torre of the Milwaukee Braves. And from there the problems become worse. For instance, who will be at third base? Richie Allen of the Phils? Ken Boyer of the Cards? Ron Santo of the Cubs?

Miscellany

The V. F. W. softball team, bolstered by the addition of Bob Carlson, John Drury, Dennis Bakke and Wiley Bogie to their roster, participated in annual Riverside Invitational tourney at Grand Forks on Sunday. The Vets won their first-round game, defeating the Harvey, N. D., club 3 to 1. In their second game, the Vets dropped a 2 to 1 decision to the Lariat Bar of West Fargo. . .The V. F. W. softball team, and the Grain Belt softball team, the latter made up of players from the Bridgeman's team, will play in the ninth annual Crookston Jaycees softball tourney at Crookston on Sunday. Sixteen teams will participate in the Crookston affair. . Shorty Perkins returned to town on Sunday from a quick trip east. He viewed the New York World's Fair; witnessed the Minnesota Twins in a doubleheader against the Washington Senators in Washington; and followed the opening round of play in the National Open golf tourney. Shorty watched the nation's top golfers during their practice rounds on Tuesday and Wednesday, and then saw Arnold Palmer shoot a 68 to be the first-round leader. . .It's a pleasure to report that the Times' trapshooting squad has taken over first place in the league standings. And that the squad has a pair of shooters in Lewie Helfner and Jim Wills who will be candidates for "rookie of the year" honors. . Jerry Fossand of Bemidji, one of Region Eight's finest baseball players, will be a member of the Wadena team in the four-team college-sponsored baseball circuit. The league, which will be called the Midwest Collegiate League, has teams at Wadena, Little Falls, Wahpeton, Breckenridge, and the Minneapolis Travelers.

Radeke, playing in the lower bracket of the eight-man championship flight, defeated Roseau's Jim Helgeson in a first-round match, and then defeated the local club's Jon Larson in a semi-finals encounter, 1-up.

In the championship flight consolation play, Reid Stromberg, former club member but now playing out of Park River, N. D., defeated Crookston's Gene Sipe, 2 and 1. In first-round play in the consolation bracket, Sipe defeated Solsten, and Stromberg defeated Helgeson.

Beas' Holds Lead In City Softball League Standings

Maintains Undefeated Mark With Two Wins In Games Played Last Week

City Softball League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Ben's Food Market	6	0	1.000
Bridgeman's	3	1	.750
V.F.W.	3	1	.750
Hartz Stores	2	3	.400
Hamm's Beer	1	2	.333

Results of last week's games:

Hartz Stores, 14, vs. Rasmussen Ins., 1.
Ben's Food Market, 8, vs. Rasmussen Ins., 2.
Ben's Food Market 13, vs Thorp Loan, 0.

This week's schedule:

June 22, Rasmussen Ins. vs. Hamm's Beer.
June 23, Bridgeman's vs. Hartz Stores
June 24, V.F.W. vs. Ben's Food Mkt.
June 25, Thorp Loan vs. Rasmussen Ins.

Last week's incessant rains, which made a quagmire of the East Side softball diamond, forced the postponement of several of the scheduled games, including the important tilt between the Bridgemans and the Vets, which was to have been played on Thursday evening. These games will probably be re-scheduled as doubleheaders during the second half of the season.

In the games played last week, the Ben's Food Market, playing and winning a pair of games, continued to set the pace in the league standings, boasting an undefeated mark of six wins and no losses. This week, on Wednesday evening, that unbeaten record will be put "on the line" as the league leaders meet the V. F. W. In a first-round meeting between the two teams, the Ben's scored a 9 to 0 win over the Vets, but the Vets have bolstered their lineup considerably since that season-opening loss.

"Bride and Groom Go Shopping"

and

Thief River Falls Retailers

YOU ARE INVITED to go on a shopping tour with Sandra Joppru and Robert Nelson who will be married Saturday, June 27, at 3 p.m. in Our Savior's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. They have been selected by the Times as principal subjects for this special "Bride and Groom" section.

Sandra, the daughter of Mrs. Olaf Joppru of Thief River Falls, is a 1963 graduate of Lincoln high school and an April graduate in cosmetology at the Thief River Falls area vocational school. She is employed as a cosmetologist at Dolly's Beauty Shop in this city.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nelson of Kenmare, N. D., and a graduate of Kenmare high school. He completed a two-year course in refrigeration and air conditioning at Wahpeton School of Science in 1962. For the past two years he has been employed as a sales and service representative in the refrigeration department of Bridgeman Creameries in this city.

Bob and Sandra will make their home in Thief River Falls. The Times camera followed them on a shopping tour of local stores. Why don't you join us?

Many gas appliances caught Sandra's fancy at Sjoberg's Appliance where Morris Roadfeldt explained the features of the oven unit on a new gas range and described its operation. Sandra and Bob agreed that gas was wonderful and there is the possibility other gas appliances, a water heater, clothes dryer, etc., will be used by them in their home in the years ahead. Why not stop in and let Morris Roadfelt give you the complete story on these gas ranges? Sjoberg's have a gas range to fit everyone's home and budget.

Some men get a kick out of shopping with the little woman — especially if it's for those good-tasting things that tempt the taste on the breakfast, dinner or supper table. Bob enjoyed shopping at Piggly Wiggly just as much as Sandra did — and in front of the self-service meat department they chatted with Ken Liden, who showed the couple the fine meats Piggly Wiggly has to offer. They also visited the vegetable and canned goods departments. You'll enjoy shopping at Piggly Wiggly too, where top quality and low prices go hand-in-hand!.

Welfare Dept. Adoption Meeting Planned in City

Ronald Mooers, Pennington county welfare director, announced today a plan which should interest any family interested in adopting a child. The department of public welfare has scheduled a number of group meetings to be held July 7-8 in Thief River Falls.

At these group meetings will be representatives of Catholic Social service, Children's Home society, Lutheran Social service, Lutheran Children's Friend society and the Department of Public Welfare. These agency representatives will participate in the group meeting and will be available to answer any individual questions.

This joint meeting is a "first" in Minnesota, Mooers said. This is the first time that agencies have together planned a group meeting, which will be accepted by all of the participating agencies as their own group meeting.

Until this time it has been necessary for prospective adoptive families to make a trip to the agency of their choice in the Twin Cities to attend a group meeting. This trip will not now be necessary.

At the present time in Minnesota there are more children available for adoption than there are families requesting children. This situation is, at least in part, attributable to better medical knowledge about infertility and its treatment. The children available are of all ages. There are, however, more nearly enough homes for the infants, and the greatest shortages are in homes for children four years old and over, and those that are handicappet by being born of a minority race.

Mooers emphasized that any of these children would be a satisfying addition to any family which wants a child or another child.

Kjos Appointed Red Lake Judge

Herman Kjos, Pennington county judge of probate court, has been appointed acting judge of probate and juvenile court in Red Lake county during the illness of Glen N. Fellman, Red Lake county judge of probate.

Announcement of the selections was made at the department convention completed Saturday in St. Cloud. DeBriyn, who was commander of the month in March, received an all-state commander's cap and pin.

A narrative report of Schroeder's activities for the past year will be forwarded to national headquarters for judging in All-American Post commanders contest.

Clifford Salisbury of Austin was elected commander of the state organization and Mrs. A. A. Dittrich of Minneapolis was named president of the VFW auxiliary. Mrs. Quentin Werpy of Ada was elected junior vice president of the department VFW auxiliary, the only Ninth District resident to be elected to a state office.

Attending the convention from Thief River Falls were Lester DeBriyn, Selmer Dimmen, L. H. Thorstenson, Mrs. R. W. Nelson, Mrs. Mrs. Harold Anderson. DeBriyn served on the Americanism committee and Dimmen served on the legislative committee.

Among business transacted was the adoption of a resolution calling for support of the investigation of communism and subversion at the University of Minnesota and elsewhere in the state. The organization also called for complete control of the Guantanamo Bay naval base at all costs.

Award Contract On Extension of Airport Runway

Council Approves Bid of $209,378 for Project; Discusses Natural Gas

Contracts were awarded to three low-bidding companies at the special meeting of the city council Tuesday evening. A $209,378.84 contract, lowest of six bids, was awarded to the Komatz Construction company of St. Peter for extension of the municipal airport runway from 3,700 to 5,300 feet and other improvements. Purpose of the project is to enable the airport to accommodate larger aircraft, according to Gordon Reierson, city clerk.

A contract of $14,349.07 was awarded to Edling Electric of Moorhead for electricial work on the project, including runway lights. The city also awarded a contract of $41,172.20 to Sornsin Construction company of Fargo for installation of storm sewers on LaBree ave. S. and a covered culvert in Chief's coulee, a drainage ditch near Eighth street.

Following other business, the council heard discussion by three representatives of the Peoples Natural Gas company. Speaking were Dick Bernard of Omaha, Neb., Joe Robbins of Detroit Lakes and Arlen Restad, local district representative. They presented technical information about their company for council information prior to issuance of a franchise by the city to bring natural gas service to Thief River Falls.

Men from other gas companies will be heard in the near future, Reierson said. Bids from gas companies will be opened Tuesday by the council.

Hodne Gives Jr. College Site Plans

Northeast Area Is Selected by City on Planning Study Map

Thomas A. Hodne, professional planner for the Thief River Falls planning commission, summarized the work done by the commission at a meeting held Tuesday noon in the Rex cafe. The meeting was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce as a general information session.

Hodne outlined the optimum development pattern map which has been prepared for the city and noted that the northeast area of the city has been recommended as a proposed site for location of a community college.

Michael Morgan, planning intern, was introduced by Hodne and is spending several days in the city to determine building space used for retail and service area in proportion to storage area. The planner announced that Zane Scheftel, economist, will be in the city within several weeks to interview individual businessmen with regard to market potential for retail and service goods.

Hodne noted that the city had been divided into four basic quadrants. The northwest and southeast are considered best suited for the two major residential neighborhoods. The southwest quadrant is best suited for industrial expansion.

Reasons listed for the northeast section being selected for a junior college site included the following: Closest proximity of open land to the "core" of Thief River Falls; amount of land is sufficient for immediate needs and future growth; offers the greatest opportunity for bordering and possibly spanning the river and natural drainageways; and the industrial quadrant is away from the campus although not too far distant.

Miss Black Heads District Nurses

Officers for the coming two-year period were elected at the regular meeting of the first district of the Minnesota Nurses' association held June 11. For president, the group elected Miss Helen Black, director of nursing services at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. Sister Petronilla of St. Francis hospital in Crookston was elected treasurer.

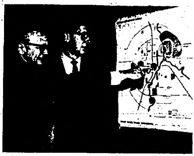
OPTIMUM development pattern map for Thief River Falls, as developed by Thomas A. Hodne, architect retained by the city planning commission, was shown to a Chamber of Commerce sponsored meeting Tuesday noon in the Rex Cafe. The map was used to illustrate the community college site which the planners have recommended be located in the northeast section of the city. Such location would place the proposed college area within one and one-half miles of the community's downtown "core," Hodne told persons attending the meeting, and is the only site being recommended by the planning commission.

Karlstad Creamery To Merge With TRF Plant



STUDYING the optimum development pattern map of Thief River Falls which was used to explain part of the function of the city planning commission on Tuesday are Thomas A. Hodne, left professional planner for the commission, and Michael Morgan, planning intern. Morgan is spending several days in the city to survey business building space used for retail selling in proportion to space used for storage. Within the next several weeks, Zane Scheftel, an economist, will interview individual businessmen on market potential for retail and service goods as part of the commission preparatory work.

Merger Approved By Stockholders At Two Meetings

Sotckholders of Thief River Falls and Karlstad cooperative creamery associations, at meetings held Tuesday and Monday evenings, gave approval to a plan for merger of the two operations effective July 1. The merger of Karlstad into Thief River Falls' operation will add approximately 160,000 pounds of butterfat to the 1,200,000 pound volume of the local creamery.

At Monday night's meeting in Karlstad, stockholders voted 40 to 18 in favor of the merger. Last vote was 39 to 10 in favor of the merger with one blank ballot being cast. Carl Mattson of Land O'Lakes explained the merger proposal at both meetings.

K. E. Gigstad, manager of the Thief River Falls creamery, stated that the Karlstad creamery had current assets of about $18,000 and current liabilities of about $16,000. Total assets of the Karlstad plant, including land, buildings, equipment and inventories, is about $58,000. The difference between the total assets of $58,000 and current liabilities of $16,000 is about equal to outstanding patron's equities, Gigstad said. The local cooperative will assume both assets and liabilities of the Karlstad cooperative.

Add Board Members

Also included in the resolution adopted by the stockholders Tuesday evening was a change in the by-laws of the local cooperative to enlarge the board of directors to seven members. Karlstad stockholders elected John Boen and Leonard Syverson as directors from the Karlstad area to serve on the board. Their terms will expire in 1965 and 1966 with election of successors to be for three-year terms.

When the merger becomes effective July 1, a receiving station will be operated at the present Karlstad creamery with Elwood Jacobson, present creamery manager in Karlstad, serving as manager of the receiving station. The local creamery will serve producers owning bulk tanks with on-the-farm pickup from their bulk tanks.

In addition to the 1,200,000 lbs. of butterfat processed for local patrons last year, the Thief River Falls creamery handled about 500,000 pounds of butterfat from other area creameries on a full-time or part-time basis. This year's production has increased substantially, and the creamery should have the largest volume year in its history.

School Meeting At Gatzke Set Thursday Night

Session Will Review Reorganization Plans at Grygla-Gatzke-Skime

At 8 p.m. Thursday in the Gatzke school gymnasium, B. N. Hendrickson of the Minnesota department of education will discuss school reorganization problems in eastern Marshall county. A Times headline on Monday erroneously listed the meeting for Wednesday, although the story contained the correct day. The Thursday session has been arranged by the Gatzke school board to help clarify answers to questions concerning the Grygla-Gatzke-Skime proposal and the set-off of lands to the Middle River district.

Tonight a meeting will be held in Viking for school board members in the Viking, Holt and Newfolden districts. Hendrickson will discuss proposed reorganization of these districts at the informal meeting.

The Gatzke school board has secured the services of an attorney to contest the annexation of lands in its district to the Middle River district, according to Delmar Hagen, president of the Gatzke school board. It is expected the court action will be required to determine legality of the anexation authorized by the Marshall county board of commissioners.

It is hoped by the Gatzke board that there will be a large turnout for the meeting at Gatzke Thursday evening.

Ask Volunteers On Saturday for Painting Effort

Revival of the community spirit from the Pennington county fair graveling bee of 1963 will be sought this Saturday, June 27. Jon Metusalem, county fair secretary, stated that the fair board is asking for help from everyone who owns a paint brush and can come to the fairgrounds on Saturday.

"We hope to get all fo the fair buildings painted in one day," Metusalem staed. "If we can get the co-operation we had last year we can get the job done".

Organizations committed to provide workers so far and chairmen heading the committees are: Thief River Falls Curling club, Curtis Swanson; VFW, Les DeBriyn; St. John church, Mrs. Kenneth Onken and Miss Anna Zinter; 4-H adult leaders; 4-H junior leaders; and all members of the Pennington County Fair association. The Lions club with Bill Thompson and the Rotary club and American Legion have been most helpful in assisting with various county fair activities in the past and are called upon again to send workers to the painting bee, Metusalem said.

Leonard Furuseth is heading up committees which will repair the buildings and gravel and pack the roads at the fair grounds.

Coffee will be served and a light lunch will be provided at noon. Mrs. Adam Lendobeja and crew will serve the volunteer workers.

Ray Oen, fair assocation president, urges everyone to come and help. Volunteers are urged to bring an empty paint can, brush, scraper and a ladder if available. The fair board will supply the paint and the coffee, Oen stated. It is hoped that more than 100 people will join the "painting bee" on Saturday.

Evonne Jensen Wed To Larry Peterson June 6

Evonne Emily Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed C. Jensen of Thief River Falls, became the bride of Larry Emil Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Peterson of Middle River at 8:30 p. m. June 6. The ceremony was held at First Lutheran church of Middle River, and vows were exchanged in a doublering service, with Rev. Duane Nelson officiating. Miss Mercedes Melby, Middle River, played the organ, while Miss Sharon Nelson, Newfolden, a cousin of the bride, sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

Ushering duties were shared by Vernon Peterson, cousin of the bride and groom, and Neil Jensen, Stephen, cousin of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of her own creation. It featured white dotted Swiss over affeta, designed with scalloped neckline and tapered fingertip sleeves, and a full pleated skirt. Her bouquet was of white carnations with a green fern background. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of scalloped design, highlighted with sequins. She wore a single strand of pearls, her gift from the bridegroom, and something old, new, borrowed, and blue, in the bridal tradition.

Attending as maid of honor was Miss Nancy Stensgaard of Thief River Falls, whose street-length gown of pink chiffon over taffeta featured a sleeveless bodice with front boat neckline, and a full skirt. Her jewelry, a strand of pearls, with matching earrings, was a gift from the bride, and her headpiece was of pink net and matched her dress. Her bouquet, styled like that of the bride, was composed of pink and white carnations.

The groom was attended by Billy Halme of Middle River. The men wore dark suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a black and white jersey, long-sleeved sheath-styled dress, with a black reverse coat of linen, and accessorized with black. The groom's mother wore a beige crepe dress embroidered with pink flowers. Her accessories were of beige and pink. Both mothers, and the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Emma Nelson of Monroe, Nebr., wore corsages of pink and white carnations on a background of ferns.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors with Mrs. Billy Halme of Middle River as hostess and Miss Cheri Peterson of Middle River, the groom's sister, registering the guests. Cutting and serving a four-tiered bridal cake topped with a miniature bridal pair, were Mrs. Alvin Nelson, Newfolden, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Ernest Nelson, Middle River, aunt of the bride and groom. At the coffee service were Mrs. Ervin Peterson, Middle River, aunt of the bride, and cousin of the groom, and Mrs. Vernon Neuschwander, Grygla, sister of the groom. Misses Susan Nelson of Middle River and Sharon Moen of Newfolden, and both cousins of the bride served punch. Waitresses at the bridal table were Miss Shirley Nelson and Miss Cathie Moen, both of Newfolden, and both cousins of the bride. The gift table was attended by Mrs. Alex Cwikla of Middle River, sister of the groom, and Miss Carol Peterson, Middle River, cousin of the couple. Assisting in the kitchen were Mmes. Wallace Nelson, Harold Peterson, Frank Anderson, Andy Anderson, Harry Nelson, Morris Moen, and Mrs. Buddy Peterson, of Mandan, N. D.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

The cause of State Rights suffered a serious set back last week when the United States Supreme Court ruled that a state can no longer provide for legislative apportionment as our national Congress is apportioned, one house on the basis of population and the other on the basis of area. This ruling will shift more power to the large cities and the out-state areas in many states will be a minority group in both houses of the legislature and will have to take what the big cities decide they should have. They will have no trading stock by which they could to some extent protect out-state interests.

Recognizing the fact that there have been some abuses of power by minority groups, which brought the matter before the Supreme Court in 1962, the Wall Street Journal reaction to this ruling is that it goes much too far in telling the states what they must do. Says the Journal:

"Whether the Court had a legal right to intervene or not, a good case could be made for prodding the states into proper use of their powers.

"But this week's decision is another matter. Leaving aside the question of legality, the ruling seems to rest on weak grounds of equity.

"As a primary support for its decision, the Court said that it is "established" that the fundamental principle of representative government in this country is one of equal representation for equal numbers of people." As Justice Stewart said in a dissent, however, it's hard to see that this principle is so well established.

"For one thing, the states use of geography in drawing legislative districts is nothing new; most of them have pursued this practice from the first. Moreover the U. S. Senate, in accord with the Constitution, is specifically set up on the basis of geography—two Senators for each state, big or small.

"Furthermore, the system resulted from a realization that population is not the only valid criterion for representation. As Justice Harlan said in his dissent to this week's decision:

" 'People are not ciphers and . . legislators can represent their electors only by speaking for their interests — economic, social, political — many of which do reflect the place where the electors live.' "

This decision will strengthen the Democrats whose party has generally been strong in the large cities, and it may be assumed that this fact was one of the considerations that induced the Court to make a decision so obviously unfair to the out-state areas of many states.

It is to be hoped that this majority opinion will be modified. I am satisfied that we, here in Minnesota, are capable of deciding for ourselves what kind of a system of checks and balances will best serve the interests of all of our people fairly, in all of our agencies of government. I believe that we are capable of governing ourselves and will do a better job of it under a system of self-government, from the grass roots up rather than from the top down, getting our instructions from Washington.

If we are to continue to be a self-governing people, then we, the people, will have to do much more of our own thinking.

Sen. Barry Goldwater announced in advance his intention not to vote for the Civil Rights bill in its present form. I like him for expressing himself frankly on a highly controversial subject.

And I like him too because I am inclined to agree with him. I am satisfied that in its present form the Civil Rights bill will serve no good purpose, mainly because it will not accomplish its purpose. I am inclined to believe that the passing of a civil rights bill as a solution for the race problem will do more harm than good. It might retard rather than advance an adjustment that time alone will take care of. And the well-meaning effort may increase, rather than decrease, the violence and the bloodshed.

I am liking Goldwater more and more as he speaks as a conservative whose main objective is to conserve what we have and to apply the brakes on reckless spending that will mean, inevitably, hardship for those who follow us.

Over in Clearwater County there is a County Forestry Committee, a non-profit organization that exists solely to assist in the promotion of forestry in the county. The aim is to put land not fit for farming, back into forestry.

In Clearwater county forest products are an important source of income, bringing in about $2 million annually.

We could use a few more of that kind of organizations here in northwestern Minnesota. An acre of land, not at this time suitable for farming, probably would bring a much bigger return to our area as forest land over a period of time, than it would as a breeding and feeding ground for ducks and geese. There are thousands of square miles of lakes and marshes in Minnesota that now produce nothing, but could be developed as excellent areas for the also needed crop of ducks and geese. Agriculture, of course, should, and must, come first.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes
Clip and Save

When in doubt, consult your list! Young adults generally speaking, have wide and varied interests. Their reading material must cover the same vast territory. Librarians responsible for the purchasing of the books to be circulated must be keenly aware of these interests and stock the shelves with preferred materials.

Lists of available volumes, arranged according to subject matter, make it easy for the borrower to obtain information slanted toward his subject-interest.

Here are presented lists with suggested reading matter pertaining to the subject-heading. Only limited coverage is offered because of limited space....categories and their related books are available at your library.

Let's begin with novels....which in reality are not here because of the subject matter, but rather because of their excellence in the fiction field. How many have you read?

Hilton's "Good-by, Mr. Chips"; Maugham's "Of Human Bondage;" Goudge's "The White Witch"; Elliot's Silas Marner"; Hilton's Random Harvest"; Hardy's "Return of the Natives"; and Thackeray's "Vanity Fair", and there are more, many more, you should read ....check the library list.

Are you interested in "Outdoor Life". Check this: "Crazy-White-Man", by Morenus, "My Life in the Maine Woods" by Annette Jackson, "Listening Point" by Olson and "Journey into Summer" by Teale.

"Personal Development" is another subject heading! There are any number of books in this category! (Let's face it....every book you read could be listed here!)

But specifically, there have been volumes and volumes written on the "development of you" from every standpoint. Your library is well-stocked, so why not begin a list of your own?

Many of us living today are vitally interested in our forefathers—especially those who settled our country and began to make it what it is today—the greatest! Some books every modern reader should devour are "A Distant Trumpet" by Horgan; "Marcus and Narcis- "Lanes "Let the Hurricane Roar", and Walkers's "Winter Wheat", Then Cather's "My Antonia" and Rolvaag's "Giants in the Earth" are "musts" in the fiction field.

Forbes "Johnny Tremain", Roberts' "Arundel" and Thane's "Dawn's Early Light" are on the "American Revolutionary Days" list.

"Romance" is a subject of interest to young adults and old adults and those who will be one or the other! Stone's "Love Is Eternal", Austen's "Pride and Prejudice", Blackmore's "Lorna Doone", Costain's "The Black Rose", Holt's 'Mistress of Mellyn" and Shakespeare's "As You Like It" are in this category.

'Scandinavia and Scandinavians" are much of interest to almost everybody in these parts. Have you gotten 'round to "Northern Summer", "Happy Boy", "The Ring of the Lowenskolds", "Beyond Sing the Woods" and "Kingdom Come".?

And there are books and more books: books about "Science" and "Scientific Challenge" and books about "Dogs" and books about "Rabbits". There are books on "how to sew" and "how to build" (and some on "how to tear down")

Lists are available at your library. You are welcome to come in and read them, make your choice and borrow the books. Or, make your own list at home and come to your library. If you've chosen a volume not on the shelves, perhaps an "inter-library Loan" can be arranged for you. Or, perhaps the book is available from the Library Division, State Department of Education.

Summer (wet or dry) is good reading time—so we'll see you at the library.

Wichterman Tells FU Of Trade and Prices

The American farmer has a big stake in world trade, Ben Wichterman, DFL-endorsed candidate for Congress in the Seventh district, told members of the Roseau County Farmers Union at the annual picnic Sunday in Malung.

Citing the near $6 billion in farm products shipped abroad last year, as compared to $1 billion that entered the country, Wichtegman stressed the importance of conducting friendly economic relations with other countries to guard against the rise of unreasonable trade tariffs and quotas.

"When prices of some domestic agricultural product lowers," he said, it may be partially because of heavy imports of the same product. In this case, serious consideration should be given to make reasonable limitations of quotas."

"But we must not set up high and rigid restrictions that could hurt trade relations with other countries, and make it difficult for us to sell our own products abroad.

"One trade barrier begets another, so instead of arbitrarily imposing harsh quotas and restrictions on imports, we need to study each situation carefully in the light of the entire trade system, and then, if necessary, put reasonable limits on imports that could harm our own prices," Wichterman said.

"Incumbent Congressman Odin Langen's demand that beef imports be stopped completely by the use of legislation is a shortsighted appeal to cattlemen for an easy but not total answer to their crucial problem", he added.

"Reducing imports definitely is part of the solution, but Langen's impassioned demands for a flat end of imports fails to understand the whole problem and allows some of the same factors that caused the price drop to continue to exist. I don't think the cattlemen in our area will be fooled."

Origin of the "M" Club

The Gopher "M" club Gazette, published by the University of Minnesota "M" club, carries an item in its May 25th issue on the true origin of the "M" club movement.

For years, states the article, it has been assumed by many interested parties that the Certificate of Incorporation papers filed with the Secretary of State on September 4, 1925, signified the actual beginning of an organization to unite all Minnesota lettermen. Now, several months of extensive and thorough research has revealed indisputable evidence establishing May 8, 1914, as the official birthdate of the "M" club concept.

The incentive to investigate the true beginning of "M" club origin arose in January when Max P. Rapacz (track 1914-16, cross-country 1913-14) sent a letter of inquiry to President O. Meredith Wilson seeking knowledge on the actual date of the "M" club formation. In his letter of inquiry, Mr. Rapacz asserted that he aided in the development of the "M" club. He added: "I am quite certain that the "M" Club was started in 1913 or 1914. I recall assembling, in 1916, a catalogue of all "M" men prior to these dates, confirming our membership to active "M" men on the campus."

Athletic Director Marsh Ryman took active charge of the research into the true beginning of the "M" club, and the first breakthrough occurred after a search of the back issues of the Minnesota Daily in 1914. The April 29, 1914, issue carried an account of a desire to form an organization of all "M" men. And it finally began to appear that Rapacz's assertion was correct, as the May 9, 1914, Minnesota Daily disclosed that the "long desired 'M' club had become a reality." Fifteen "M" men had gathered at the Phi Delta Theta house and appointed a committee to draw up a constitution.

And, concludes the Gazette article, "Without the inquiry by Rapacz, the current and conclusive study of the origin of the "M" club might never have been consumated. It appears that the "M" club is richer in tradition than had been generally realized.

What adds interest to the article is that the Max Rapacz mentioned was, in the 1922-23 school years, principal of Lincoln high school here.

And to continue on Minnesota athletics, Marsh Ryman, the newly-appointed Director of Athletics for the University, was a visitor in town last week. The nature of the visit was a "good will" gesture, and his welcome visit indicates that the Gopher athletic department will endeavor to encourage the out-state interest in the University, and its activities.

Just Marking Time

Coach Ralph Skay's local junior baseball team will try to get back into action this evening, Wednesday, when they meet the moorhead Legion juniors at Moorhead. If conditions — weather and playing field — are such that the game can be played. It will mark the first game that the locals have played since last Tuesday, when they dropped a 9 to 8 decision to Roseau. Since that time the locals have had six games rained out.

Following Wednesday evening's game at Moorhead, the locals are slated to play the Middle River juniors in a Northwest American Legion Junior baseball league game on the fairgrounds diamond here, with game time slated for 8 p. m. And next Monday, June 29, the Moorhead juniors will play a return game here at 8 p. m. And prior to the Moorhead game, at 6 p. m., the Newfolden juniors will play the locals in a league game.

The games at the fairgrounds diamond are "free gate" affairs, and local baseball fans should take advantage of enjoying an hour or two of wholesome entertainment. And some pretty good baseball, too.

Filling the Stringers

While the week's weather, with its rain and blustery winds, hasn't been of conducive nature for the vactioners or fishermen, there have been a few intrepid anglers who have ventured out after the pike and the walleyes. And, surprisingly, the reports have been favorable.

Harlan Huseth, Squire Overum, Arn Wysoski and Mouse Efteland, and with such fishermen as Jimmy Huseth and Wayne Jarshaw along, returned from a northern pike expedition to the Pointe du Bois area on the Winnipeg river. The party caught plenty of northerns, but none were of "Master Angler" size. The largest, according to the honest estimate of one of the anglers, weighed about eight pounds. And they reported action from the walleyed pike, with the walleyes striking at the spoons that were being cast for the northern pike. The weather up there during the weekend was good.

And Elwood and Shirley Ehrenstrom returned from a "fly-in" trip to a small lake in the Whiteshell region of Manitoba. And the walleyed pike fishing was excellent, with only the fish weighing three pounds or better considered as "keepers". There are numerous lakes in the Whiteshell area that are accessible by plane only, and the fishing in these lakes is fabulous.

Ole and Hal Ekeren, last Thursday, fished out of Morson, Ontario, and they, too, reported a remarkable catch of walleyes. They fished the Lake of the Woods in the vicinity of Stairway Point. Ole, who has fished many of the lakes in this area, and in the seldom-fished waters of the Red Lake Indian reservation, stated that Thursday's fishing was the best that he had experienced.

Weather or no weather, it appears that if you are where the fish are, you will have luck.

Civil Service School Claims Exaggerated

U. S. Civil Service Commission warns that so-called "civil service schools" have been active in this area.

According to the commission, these schools often use exaggerated advertising claims to sell $100 to $200 correspondence courses. The schools and the courses are not government approved nor recommended. They cannot guarantee a government job.

The commission points out that no government agency or employe gives or sells coaching courses to prepare for civil service exams. Also, it is not necessary to secure the services of a school to compete in exams or of a private employment agency in order to get a Federal job. There is no fee charged for getting government employment.

Information about civil service job opportunities is available without cost at the larger first-class post offices, from the St. Louis regional office, 1520 Market st., St. Louis, Mo., or the Civil Service commission, Washington, D. C. The commission urges the public to contact its offices for information. Also, it advises the public to make a thorough inquiry concerning claims of so-called "civil service schools" before enrolling for courses or signing contracts.

EXTRA HELP in a student's weak areas is one of the functions of the summer school program now being conducted at Washington school. Shown here is a group of students in a remedial reading class being taught by Mrs. Alice Vran.

Local Youngsters Attend Summer School Sessions

Enrollment Grows Three Times from Total in 1963

by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

Summer school for Thief River Falls elementary students is in full swing at Washington elementary school. The program began last week with a combined strength of five teachers and 150 students. Classes conducted are enriched modern mathematics, remedial mathematics, enriched science and three levels of reading—enriched, developmental and remedial.

Only one-third of the students are in remedial classes; the remaining two-thirds are in developmental or enriched sections. Director of the summer school is George Stockman, director of elementary education.

"Purpose of the summer school program," Stockman said, "is to provide a range of opportunities for all students. Both remedial and enriched courses are offered to meet the needs of a wide range of the student population."

Concept Changes

"The concept of summer school has changed from remedial training only to providing an extension of the school year and expanded opportunities for learning," he said. "Summer school is an excellent means of providing experiences for learners that would not be possible during the school year."

The summer school program employs such modern equipment as the controlled reader, which is a projector with a moving film strip of reading material projecting one or two words at a time on a screen. Speed of the film can be controlled by the operator. Purpose of the method is to develop good reading habits and to improve concentration.

Films Are Used

Films are also used extensively in science classes. Thursday morning the enriched science class taught by Kenneth Swenson saw a film in preparation for a field trip to be taken as soon as weather becomes favorable.

Another teaching aid used extensively in reading classes is the SRA reading laboratory. For about one hour each day, students in reading classes are given timed exercises in reading and comprehension. Mistakes are checked by the students themselves. Students taking the exercises are grouped according to ability into color-keyed categories.

Summer school began Monday and will continue through July 31. Daily sessions are two hours in length. Unlike the regular school term, grouping in the summer session is by achievement rather than by grade. About 18 per cent of the city's eligible youngsters are enrolled in the program.

According to Stockman, this year's summer school program has tripled its enrollment and doubled its curriculum offering since the first such program last year. The high school program for summer months will be reviewed in next Monday's edition of the Times.

Langen Asks Larger Domestic Sugar Share

"I am appalled at the lack of concern shown by our State department for the American sugar industry," said Congressman Odin Langen of Minnesota's 7th District in a statement before the House of Representatives in support of pending new sugar legislation.

Langen, who met this week with representatives of the State department, said: "It is unconscionable that these people, paid by the taxpayers of this nation, blatantly defend foreign sugar interests at the expense of private enterprise."

In defending his own bill to increase domestic quotas for sugar, particularly beets, Rep. Langen charged that the State department fails to grasp the importance of an adequate supply of sugar to our national economy and defense.

"My proposed legislation does not exclude the importation of sugar from the quota countries. It merely increases the amount of sugar to be produced by established and new growers in the United States, making it unnecessary to rely so heavily on the uncertain world market. An inadequate supply of sugar on the world market results in shortages in the United States and a resulting rise in prices to the consumer," he added.

Langen had praise for present and potential growers of sugar beets in such areas as his own Red River valley in Minnesota "These growers deserve to have a bigger share of the United States sugar needs. And for every acre of sugar beets, an acre of a surplus crop is taken out of production. We have a great opportunity to perform a needed service for the farmers of America, for the taxpayers of this country and for the consumers of our nation. Now is the time to enact sugar legislation that guarantees U. S. agriculture a fair share of our needs."

28 YEARS...

June is a most fitting month in which to raise a salute to the Dairy Industry, as has been the annual custom these past 28 years.

June is when summer comes, when the cool goodness of milk, the wonderful convenience of Dairy Products, provide more dramatically than at any other time during the year just what the housewife needs to furnish her family with easily prepared, appetite stimulating meals and vitalizing refreshment.

There is yet more reason for Saluting the Dairy Industry. Dairying comprises one fifth of all of our agricultural activity. Progressive attitudes of Dairymen in search of better farming methods and improvement of the quality of their products also have made the Dairy Industry an important part of our economy.

The partnership that has grown up between Dairymen and our business community, which provides them with the modern machinery, the power, the services and supplies, and the needs of their families, all essential to their progress, has contributed jobs and prosperity to our area.

Lend A Hand

In preparation for the Pennington county fair in July, the Pennington County Fair association is asking for volunteers to assist with painting the buildings on the fair grounds. The painting bee will be held all day Saturday with volunteer workers asked to bring ladders, scrapers and brushes.

Officers and members of the association were heartened a year ago when a graveling bee gave excellent results for improvement of the grounds. There is much to be gained by a community by public-spirited efforts of this nature, and it would be good for the area if a large turnout of workers could be present on Saturday.

One Vote Against

When the House of Representatives in Washington votes on a bill to increase salaries of Congressmen by $7,500 per year, there will be at least one vote against it. That will be cast by Congressman Odin Langen of Minnesota's Seventh District.

"It's simply poor business to raise anybody's salary when you don't have the money to pay for it," Rep Langen stated in a recent news release. "The advocates of salary hikes have been busy counting noses each day, waiting for the moment when they're sure of success. Such a bill, calling for the expenditure of borrowed money, should be brought up for action with plenty of notice so that adequate debate can take place."

We have no argument with paying men what they are worth, regardless of their position in our economy. Paying less than true worth is exploitation, but paying more than true worth is poor business. How would it be if John Q. Public and his Washington representative made a deal? When Congress shows it has the ability to balance the budget, let pay increases be the next order of business.

A Real Push

Supporters of the taconite amendment in Minnesota are making a real push to insure passage of the constitutional amendment in the November election. This is indicated in a notice circulated by the "Citizen's Committee for the Taconite Amendment No. 1".

It seems the Hibbing Finnish-Historical Society asked for a speaker to discuss the amendment, but preferred one who could speak the Finnish language. The speaker's bureau promptly obliged by scheduling E. A. Jyring, Hibbing architect, who is of Finish descent.

The speaker's bureau offers speakers at no charge to all Minnesota farm groups, local associations, PTA groups, clubs and conventions. Fred Manthey, chairman of the bureau, states, "We may run out of linguists, but we have plenty of speakers who can, in plain English, tell you why the taconite amendment is the most important issue on which Minnesota has voted in many years."

The taconite amendment supporters are concerned about the outcome of the election, since persons who do not vote will in effect be casting votes against the amendment. The proposal must receive more than half of the total votes cast in the election. From here it appears that the measure has a good chance for passage, since it has been endorsed by both political parties.

A Need for Reform

In commenting on tax reform in an article in "Minnesota News Features", Orlin Folwick cites recent reports by Stafford King, state auditor, and Frank T. Starkey, director of employment security. King's report shows 97,000 Minnesotans without work —about 10 per cent of the state's work fence.

Folwick made the following observations:

"If these 97,000 could be at work, their earnings over a year's period according to the average weekly wage of employed production workers reported by the Starkey office — $106.08 — would run over half a billion dollars. These would be added earnings and would, obviously, eliminate the huge outlay from taxes to keep them alive. These people would become taxpayers and pick up at least ten per cent of the tab now borne by the employed. It would obviate the need for further increases in the tax load.

"Would tax reform do this? A replacement sales tax enacted by a legislature looking toward serving the people without regard to petty political considerations would release some $75 to $100 million in job-producing business expansion each year. It would not be long until the available jobs in Minnesota would be seeking people to fill them instead of people looking for non-existent jobs.

"Instead of depending upon government or charity handouts for a queasy living, it would give to thousands of proud Minnesota workers a chance to earn their own way and the kind of living to which they are entitled.

"Their only way of reaching the goal is through employment in private enterprise fairly taxed—not standing in line for pittances handed out by politicians waxing fat themselves at the public trough, under a tax system that is killing the golden egg laying goose."

Are You Average

If you are an average Minnesota fisherman, you will catch about 17 pounds of fish each year, go fishing 10 times each year and bring home some fish 70 per cent of the time. Walleyes will make up 80 per cent of the average catch. This is the information included in a report by the department of entomology, fisheries and wildlife at the University of Minnesota.

Of course, Thief River Falls area residents should not be classified as "average" fishermen, nor should their catches be considered "average". Most enthusiasts from this territory ply the waters of Lake of the Woods where walleyes are virtually the entire catch. A couple of moderately successful trips should supply the average figure of 17 pounds of fish, and most fishermen would be quite disappointed if they brought home fish only 70 per cent of the time.

If Lake of the Woods fishing is better than average, as it would appear, then local angling enthusiasts know they can consider themselves lucky they do not have to fish in less productive areas.

The University of Minnesota reports that the total amount of money spent for fishing in Minnesota is $100 million, with about $70 million coming from residents and the remainder from non-residents. Needless to say, fishing offers a considerable value to the state's economy. About 3,000 of the states legendary 10,000 lakes are classed as good fishing lakes.

It is interesting to get the university's opinion on averages for Minnesota fishermen, but it must be frustrating to be an average fisherman.

A Worthy Cause

Radio Free Europe Fund, a division of the Crusade for Freedom, Inc., is again making an appeal for funds to continue its operation of broadcasting messages of freedom behind the Iron Curtain. The cause is a worthy one and deserving of public support.

While the Voice of America is government-supported and the official voice of the United States to Eastern Europe, Radio Free Europe is a private network supported by the American people. RFE concentrates a full broadcast up to 18 hours per day to the countries of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

The effectiveness of the RFE program is attested by official Communist protests, Soviet jamming attempts, Kremlin diplomatic moves designed to eliminate RFE and statements and letters from behind the Iron Curtain praising the broadcasts. Each year the Communists spend more money in futile jamming attempts than RFE spends on its entire operation. Soviet jamming is ineffective because RFE uses powerful transmitters and multiple frequencies for broadcasting each program.

Radio Free Europe provides East Europeans with the free press denied them by their Communist rulers and keeps alive the spirit of freedom in the hearts and minds of the people. Program content includes exposure of Communist lies and hypocrisies about the free world, news and analysis, religion, folk music, national heritage and other Communist-suppressed subjects.

Contributions may be sent to Radio Free Europe Fund, 345 East 46th Street, New York 17, New York.

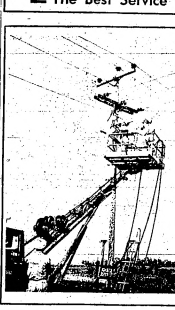
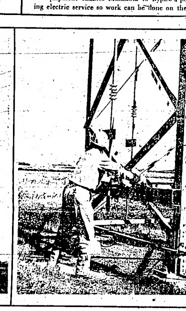
"SERVICE" ON WHEELS

It takes more than manpower to assure dependable electric service. It takes good equipment. The picture above shows the Mobile Substation which has just been connected to a 69,000 volt transmission line that still has electricity flowing through it. This piece of equipment enables Minnkota to bypass a permanent substation without interrupting electric service so work can be done on the station.





Another valuable piece of equipment is a "high reach". This elevates the men to a position near the work and permits them to work faster and easier. They are shown connecting wires from the mobile substation to the 7200 volt distribution line that carries power to the individual farms.

Equipment alone will not do the job. Minnkota Power has a crew of efficient men able to put the equipment to use. After the Mobile Substation is connected to the transmission line and distribution line, a switch is closed and power flows through the Mobile Sub which reduces the voltage from 69,000 volts to 7200 volts. The picture left shows a Minnkota lineman opening the switch to the permanent substation. This will shut the electricity off in this station and permit work to be done. Switches are opened and closed only when the dispatcher in Minnkota's main headquarters gives the permission. The word is received by short wave radio.

Safety practices are always followed by Minnkota personnel. The picture shows an employee "grounding out" the substation. Even though the switch is open there still may be static electricity left in the substation wires that could be dangerous. The men use insulated sticks and wear rubber gloves to install clamps on the wires that remove any static electricity. The transformers in the background are scheduled to be installed to replace ones which are too small to take care of the increased electrical load in this substation.

Now that the mobile sub is stepping the voltage down to take care of the electrical needs of the farmers in the area of the substation, the men are ready to disconnect the smaller transformer and other equipment and install larger capacity equipment. This assures proper voltage and good service to the electrical users in the area.

Allow Substitution On Wheat, Feed Grain Programs Next Year

To permit greater flexibility in farm operations, substitution between wheat and feed grains will be authorized under the 1965 programs, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. The program determination is announced early to permit summer fallow operations for next year's crop.

Agricultural legislation provides for such a substitution in the 1964 and 1965 wheat and feed grain programs, but it could not be put into effect for 1964 because of the lack of time.

The chairman explained that the substitution will apply on individual farms only if the farm has a feed grain base or oat-rye base, and a wheat allotment. The substitution provisions may be used by producers who meet at least the minimum diversion for both wheat and feed grains.

As under this year's wheat program, marketing certificates will be issued in 1965 to program cooperators; however, the number of certificates allocated to a farm will not be increased because of the substitution of wheat for feed grains. Certificates will be provided for the smaller of (1) the normal production of the wheat acreage allotment, multiplied by the domestic and export allocation percentages—which will be announced later; or (2) the wheat acreage planted for harvest multiplied by the normal yield.

The total wheat production of producers who carry out wheat program provisions will be eligible for price-support loans even though the wheat acreage is in excess of the wheat allotment because of the substitution provisions.

When feed grains are grown in place of wheat, the feed grain production of program cooperators will be eligible for price-support loans. If price-support payments are authorized as a part of the 1965 feed grain program, substitution of feed grains for wheat will not increase the payments available; the price-support payments will be limited to the normal production of the feed grain base less the diverted acreage (at least the feed grain program).

If a producer requests it, an oat-rye base will be established on the basis of the farm's 1959-60 average oat-rye acreage is adjusted. Wheat may be substituted for such crops. However, corn, grain sorghum or barley may not be planted as a substitute for the oat-rye base acreage. If an oat-rye base is established, the producer will need to meet the minimum diversion for it also.

Playhouse Opens At Bemidji Tues.

Live Theater To Offer Eight Plays This Summer

Live theater came to Bemidji again on Tuesday as a community enterprise when the Paul Bunyan Playhouse opened its doors for the 13th season.

With a playbill embracing comedy, drama, mystery, and satire, with even melodrama not neglected, a professional summer stock company performs from the stage of the playhouse, located four miles north of Bemidji.

Opening the 1964 season on Tuesday evening was "The Loud Red Patrick" and the last of the productions will be "Tell Me No Lies" on August 18. "The Loud Red Patrick," a rollicking comedy, will hold the boards through Sunday with the curtain at 8:30 each evening.

"Misalliance," a George Bernard Shaw play, will be at the playhouse June 30 through July 5. "Gigi," a sentimental comedy, is scheduled for July 7-12; "Death of a Salesman," prizewinning dramatic classic, July 14-19; "A Thousand Clowns," a new Broadway comedy success, July 21-26; "Our Town," Thornton Wilder's popular drama, July 28-August 2; "Let's Get a Divorce," an hilarious French farce of the 19th century, August 4-9; and "Sherlock Holmes," just old-fashioned melodrama, August 11-16.

Clippings from the Press of Neighboring Communities

(Stephen Messenger)

Excessive rains, after three weeks of drought, have created flood conditions in both villages and over farm property. Stephen experienced seven inches of rain in six days, from Sturday, June 6, to Friday, June 12.

At this writing the rampaging Tamarac River is threatening south Stephen, with work crews having been engaged there much of the day with bulldozers and sandbags to prevent the river from coming over the roadway and into the homes. The Tamarac rose eight inches Saturday night. Another climb of five inches was reported Monday.

Farm land west and north of Stephen by Monday of this week had many acres under water. Kennedy officially reported eight and a half inches of rainfall for the week. If the waters can be drained off quickly, much crop is expected to be salvaged; and many farmers are ditching their acreages in an attempt to hasten the run-off. Southeast of Stephen the river and coulees have put hundred acre fields under water. In many instances all low spots are flooded with water showing between the rows of grain in other locales.

Too Much Rain
(Baudette Region)

Additional rain in the past week has dimmed the crop outlook, but as one of the government services here points out, if rain holds off now the crop can still be fair.

Some fields have had water on them for too long and if crops come through they are expected to be spotty.

The Saturday downpour was not as heavy west of Baudette and crop conditions look better in that end of the county.

But on the whole the farming situation today leaves a great deal to be desired.

(Kennedy Star)

Low spots were full of water, ditches were bank full, and the coulee was flowing along at a fast pace. Rain has been excessive since last Thursday afternoon when a downpour caused the ditches and coulee to leave their banks. The coulee crossed the road in front of the Allan Berg residence and covered a portion of the former L. Deere, Sr. lot.

Altogether about 6 inches of rain has fallen and water damage is showing up in low spots in some fields.

As a result of last Thursday's rain many fields were flooded in the area of Humboldt, in northern Kittson County. Some farmers reported that as much as 75 per cent of their fields were under water.

Too Much Rain
(Warren Sheaf)

Because of the frequent and heavy rains this past week, the Boy Scout paper drive had to be postponed from Saturday. It was hoped to have the drive this Saturday but wet grounds surrounding the Andy M. Anderson barn have not dried toa degree necessary to get trucks close to the barn.

Hangar Being Built at Roseau
(Roseau Times Region)

Construction of the hangar and administration building at the Roseau Municipal Airport was started last week. The site for the structure was cleared and prepared for pouring footings.

At this writing many of the holes for footing have been dug and forms are being put in place in preparation for puring of concrete. The floor of the hangar will be concrete while the building itself is to be steel.

Bids Invited For Federal Building
(Baudette Region)

Bids on the federal building to be built in Baudette were invited yesterday, June 16, and will be opened July 16, according to a wire from Minnesota Senators Humphrey and McCarthy.

General services administration of the federal government has allotted an approximate $160,000 for construction of the post office and federal building.

Site of the structure is to be the portion of the village block north of Rowell Laboratories and the present post office.

Tentative construction beginning is some time in 1964.

T. R. Falls Family In Car Accident
(Badger Enterprise)

The highway patrol reports an accident which happened around 9:15 a.m. last Sunday when John Penas of rural Badger, driving a pickup, collided with a boat trailer on Highway 11 near Oline's Drive Inn. Nobody was injured in the accident, however damage to the boat, trailer and motor was in the neighborhood of $1,000.

The boat and trailer was being pulled by Arthur Stanley Olson of Thief River Falls. He was accompanied by his wife, four children and a neighbor boy. They were on their way to Lake of the Woods for an outing. Olson had just bought the boat this spring.

Penas had stopped at the stop sign and reportedly had looked to the left and to the right and did not see anything coming. However, when he entered the highway he clipped the rear end of the boat trailer, knocking it loose from the car hitch so that the trailer went into the ditch. The boat came loose from the trailer and landed upside down about 50 feet from the trailer.

New Apartment House in Warren
(Warren Sheaf)

Construction work on an 8 family apartment house located on S. 6th Street just east of the First Lutheran Church, was started last week.

The building 54 x 68 feet in size will be a story and a half, 2-level structure of frame construction, said Mr. Bergeson, owner of the apartment building. Each apartment will have 2 bedrooms in addition to kitchen, bath and living room-dining area. Modern conveniences will be installed in each kitchen. A central utility room with laundry facilities will also be included in the structure.

Car Accident South of Ross Fatal
(Roseau Times Rgion)

A trip to Winnipeg to get dentures and visit a son proved a fatal venture for Louis Bozynski, Ft. Francis. He was instantly killed about 9:00 p. m. Monday when the small foreign car his son Joseph was driving overturned ¼ mile S. of Ross, throwing him out and breaking his neck. Bozynski was the first highway fatality in Roseau county this year.

3 Break-ins Reported at Stephen Monday
(Stephen Messenger)

Three break-ins occurred at Stephen some time Monday night, with Nyland's, Coast-to-Coast and Kroke's reporting losses.

Police Cheif Robert Stengrim discovered the Coast-to-Coast break-in about 6:00 a.m. Tuesday when he was delivering the train mail to the Stephen Post Office. Marshall County Sheriff's Office at Warren was alerted, and Deputy Sheriff Sorenson came up immediately to investigate.

At Nyland's, entry had been gained through the rear window. A storm window had been removed to permit the opening of the store window. Only loss noted by Ruben and Clifford Nyland was several dollars in cash taken from the till.

At Coast-to-Coast Harry Mehring reports loss of guns, shells and cash. He estimates the loss at $230-250.

Part of the Scenery

What a shot! Photographers love to find a scene like this. Flowing water . . . a background of trees . . . a church spire in the distance . . . these always make an outstanding picture.

Wherever we travel we see Christian churches in harmonious settings, and there's a tendency to think of them as "part of the scenery."

But what an important part they are! Every one is a House of God, dedicated to His service. Every one is a community focal point, helping in a thousand ways to broaden and beautify the lives of its members. And every one is a vital link in the shining chain of Christian belief that stretches around the world.

Not far from where you live, there's a church that could give your life a new dimension. Whatever doubts and fears you may have, bring them to God in His House. You can rely on His promise that He will not leave you comfortless.

Mustang Hardtop

Some people just didn't realize how much Fords have changed. Then, they came in to see Mustang—and took their first good look around a Ford showroom. They saw the hottest line of cars in America . . . the "Car of the Year" Award winners . . . the best-built Fords ever. They saw cars so smartly styled, so easy to handle, so good to drive, that they made this the best sales year in Ford Division history even before the Mustang came out. They saw America's leading performance car—the Super Torque Ford (hardtop sales up 54%). They saw America's most famous personal luxury car—Thunderbird—with sales up 68% over last year's record. They found out why Falcon almost outsells Chevy II and Valiant combined. And why Fairlane is a pace-setter in its own field. One look can make you fall in love with any one of Ford's 46 models. A test drive can make you a Ford man forever.

Red Lake County Completes Overall Development Plan

Self-analysis on a county-wide scale has become a central part of the pattern for social and economic therapy in some two dozen counties around Minnesota.

The Overall Social and Economic Development Plan (OSEDP) has been completed by about 20 of the state's 87 counties. Latest to complete such a report is Red Lake county.

The OSEDP arose through Red Lake's efforts in Rural Areas Development, acording to the agricultural extension service of the University of Minnesota.

Elmo Skare, agricultural extension agent in Red Lake county, coordinated efforts of scores of local people in writing the report. The OSEDP starts with the assumption that recognizing the problem is a first step in redevelopment.

The report includes information on county activity such as agriwelfare; industry and marketing; recreation and tourism; finance and banking; transportation; and forestry.

Red Lake county has its base in agriculture and the report sees a trend tward larger family units. This means a decline in population which will have a severe social and economic impact on the rural political, education and business centers, the extension service reports.

Extensive farming, with high land use and low labor requirements, is predominant. If the loss of population is to be stemmed, the report says, it will hinge on establishment of a market for intensive crops such as sugar beets, field peas and sweet corn which require a high labor and low land use balance.

The median family income in the county is $4,045, about $1,400 dollars below the median for the state. Even more discouraging is the 33 per cent of the families which are below the $3,000 level, set by President Lyndon Johnson's report as the cutoff for those considered poverty stricken, the extension service notes. This, plus the 22 per cent whose family income is below $2,000 per year, indicates the job of economic revival will be a long uphill battle.

Despite these statistics the people of the county are determined that there will be an improvement.

The report calls for lower credit restrictions to young farmers who meet qualifications. This will, the committee hopes, offset the loss of a young and aggressive labor force which is now migrating to the urban areas.

Among the many other recommendations offered in this lengthy volume are: build water control structures which could assist industry, strengthen county extension programs in adult education and

Kjeldahl Opposes B. Wichterman for DFL Primary Vote

Announces Candidacy by Filing for Congress in Minnesota 7th District

William (Bill) Kjeldahl of Fergus Falls has announced that he has filed in the D.F.L. primary for Congress in Minnesota's 7th congressional district. Kjeldahl has a farm background, is in business in Fergus Falls, was previously a radio announcer, administrative assistant to a member of Congress, served in the armed forces and has a BA from the University of Minnesota.

Kjeldahl has traveled throughout the district following the 7th district convention. Many people asked him to run in the primary so the voters can have a choice on Sept. 8. After consulting with members of his campaign staff and members of his various volunteer committees, Kjeldahl said, he was decided to run.

"The district's voters", Kjeldahl declared, "have indicated that they want an alternative to the candidate who got endorsement through patronage." Kjeldahl went on to state that it was his conviction that political decisions should be based primarily on principle rather than patronage. He added that he will campaign to return principle to decision-making in 7th district politics.

A 17-year-old girl from Warroad was elected Thursday to head an organization of some 55,000 Minnesota 4-H club members. She is Joyce Thompson, elected president of the state 4-H federation during the 44th state junior leadership conference held on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus.

AN EFFECTIVE means of cleaning sewers has been developed by the Municipal Cleaning company. The equipment pictured above has been rented by the city of Thief River Falls for two months. Here the machinery is being demonstrated on Miriam av. S. by Elmer "Bud" Winters, (top photo) company representative from Sauk Centre. The bucket is dragged by cable from two winches about 420 feet apart and scoops up the coal-black muck, consisting largely of sand, which it dumps into the pickup truck. At this picture taking, the truck is over half full. At the opposing winch is (bottom photo) Leland "Bud" Enge, city employee.

Directors Review Work Accomplished In River Cleaning

Thief River Watershed Development Association Board Meets on Thursday

Directors of the Thief River Watershed Development association met Thursday evening at the Rex Cafe to discuss the progress that had been made in the clearing of the channel with the $10,000 that had been appropriated by the Legislature for the first year of a two-year period. Another $10,000 will be available for the year starting July 1.

General satisfaction was expressed with what has been accomplished. Directors agreed that the removal of trees and brush from the channel had increased the stream capacity substantially and in the present wet season this added capacity has reduced flood damage in some areas.

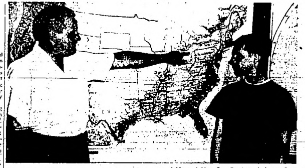
The next $10,000 will be used to complete the channel clearing in Marshall county and in Pennington county. The work in Marshall county has been directed by H. I. Knutson, Marshall county highway engineer, and the fund has been administered by the Marshall county auditor. It was the opinion of the group that the remainder of the work should be handled if possible by the Marshall county officials.

On motion by Art Moe, seconded by Bill Falman, the board agreed to request that the county boards of Pennington and Mrsshall counties give consideration to a suggestion that the Marshall county officials be authorized to administer the remaining work in both counties and administer all of the funds.

County Commissioner Oscar Rokke of Newfolden was present at the meeting as were Claude Alexander, recently appointed manager of the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge and Ralph Town, assistant manager. Chairman Julian Rodahl presided.

HIGHLANDING CELEBRATION

Highlanding is planning its annual July 4 celebration again this year. Ronnie Thomas and the Nighthawks will play for the evening dance at the town hall.



HISTORY instructor Frank Kne points out Cleveland, Ohio, on the classroom map of the United States while Dick Stenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stenberg, looks on. Stenberg is one of 133 junior and senior high students enrolled in the city's first high school summer program.

133 Enrolled in First LHS Summer Session

by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

One hundred and thirty-three students ranging in grade seven through twelve are participating in the summer school program now in progress at Lincoln high school. The student body includes several students from other schools as well as those who attend Lincoln school during the regular year.

Out-of-town students enrolled include four from Goodridge, six from Warren, one from Roseau, one from Plummer, one from Viking and two from St. Hilaire.

This summer session is the first such program to be held at Lincoln high school. The academic program is divided into three basic types of courses—remedial, make-up and enrichment. Unlike the program in the elementary school, however, the classes in the high school are often mixed.

Courses offered for credit are senior high English, American history, senior social studies, advanced algebra, English composition, junior high English, typing, and machine metals. All are four-hour courses except typing, which is a two-hour course taken for one-half credit. English composition is an advanced course not offered in the regular school term, and senior high English is divided into a class for sophomores and a combined section for juniors and seniors.

Classes are small in the summer session, and work is concentrated into one area. Therefore, work produced by the students has been very good, according to Robert Reeve, guidance director at the school.

Students can receive more attention and help in the summer than in the regular year, Reeve said. Also, the school library, under the direction of Virgil Burger, is remaining in operation. In summing up his comments on the program, Reeve said it provides a "good atmosphere for learning, particularly for those who have difficulty."

The summer school began June 15 and will continue through July 31. Daily sessions run from 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

The faculty at the school this summer has 10 members. Included are Franklin Skogen, typing; Elsie Clark, sophomore English; Everett Marshall, junior and senior English; Frank Kne, American history; Joe Forberg, advanced algebra; Mrs. Jack Edmiston, English composition; Richard Kotschevar, machine metals; Gladys Johnson and Mrs. Leona Broeker, junior high English; and Virgil Burger, librarian.

NORTH CENTRAL

IT'S BON VOYAGE for Cheryl Hoium, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hoium of Thief River Falls, as she leaves via North Central Airlines for New York on the first leg of her journey to Vienna, Austria. She will travel on the steamship "MV Seven Seas" to Rotterdam, Netherlands, and then by train to Vienna, where she will spend the summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Helmeder, daughter Susanna and son Gerhard. At the airport to bid farewell Friday were parents and about 15 of her girl friends.

Miss Hoium, who will be a senior at Lincoln high school next fall, was chosen to visit a foreign country this summer under the Americans Abroad program sponsored by the American Field service, represented here by a group of local civic and fraternal organizations. Her special interests are music and language, and she feels this is an excellent opportunity to increase her knowledge of German. She will return home September 10.

Four other Lincoln high school students have been American Field service students. They are Judy Wold, Sweden; Connie Ekeren and Kathy Hartje, Greece; and Becki Ferber, Turkey.

On Tuesday, the golfers were again hampered by the adverse weather which prevailed. The bridge prize was won by Margaret Weigelt and Elva Jude.

Selmer Wolds Of Gully Celebrate 50th Anniversary

On Sunday, June 14, about 300 people gathered at Zion Lutheran church at Gully for the golden wedding anniversary celebration of the Selmer Wolds.

A rather unusual highlight of the event is the fact that the mother of Mrs. Wold, Mrs. Christine Jacobson, 93, a resident of the Good Samaritan rest home of Clearbrook, was in attendance.

Serving as hostess was Mrs. Donald Bolme, and guest registration was handled by Mrs. Hugo Sundbom. Zion ALCW served refreshments following an appropriate program. KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. ED HEIEREN

"One thing and coffee" seems to be generally accepted as standard fare at meetings large and small. When our featured homemaker, Mrs. Heieren, is hostess for a group in her home she serves "one thing and coffee", but then seems to quit counting! Accustomed to setting bountiful tables on the farm, and being hospitable and generous by nature she does what comes naturally and passes plate after plate of extras. But with a mouthful of her fragile krumkake, chewy bars, or nut laden sweetmeats...who's complaining? The recipe she shares with us is a 3 in 1 dandy.

LEMON SQUARES

Mix:

1 cup flour
¼ cup powdered sugar, and

Pat the mixture evenly into a 9 by 13 pan and bake for 15 minutes at 350 degrees. This is the crust and should be a delicate brown. Next make the lemon filling which should be spread over the crust.

Beat: 2 eggs till foamy

Add:

3 tablespoons lemon juice and grated rind of one lemon.
1 cup sugar sifted with 3 tablespoons flour and one teaspoon baking powder.

Mix well and pour over the baked crust. Return to the oven and bake for 20 minutes at the same temperature. Cool after removing from oven.

Frost with 1 cup powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons milk, and ½ teaspoon vanilla, all creamed together thoroughly.

Nine years ago the Heierens retired from farming in Silverton and moved to Thief River Falls where they began building a home on Red Lake Boulevard, overlooking the river. Mrs. Heieren lives there now with her daughter Janet, but plainly has not retired to her easy chair. She is an active member of Trinity Lutheran church and its women's organizations, also holding office as stewardship secretary of her circle. Friends know that if they want garden flowers for a special occasion, Mrs. Heieren almost always has something pretty in blossom. She is historian of the local Sow and Hoe club and has entered her flowers in shows and at the county fair. Two of her sons, Orville and Emil and another daughter Mrs. Harry (Kathryn) Peterson live here. It is possible that some of her sewing, knitting, and crocheting is done with her 8 grandchildren in mind because she is a devoted grandma.

Bridal Shower Given For Sandra Joppru

Mrs. Harry Donarski was hostess at a bridal shower for Miss Sandra Joppru at her home Tuesday evening with Sandy Halvorson as co-hostess and conducting the games which constituted the entertainment for the affair. Decorative scheme of lavender and yellow was carried out, and was the scheme of the floral corsage with which the guest of honor was presented. After the games and the opening of gifts, the hostesses served a buffet lunch.

Those in attendance were Miss Joppru and her mother, Mrs. Olaf Joppru; Mrs. Ashley Hall, Mrs. Duane Brown, Mrs. Bill Holmos, Sandy Halvorson, and Mrs. Donarski. Many invited guests sent gifts but were unable to attend the shower.

Miss Joppru's wedding to Bob Nelson occurred on Saturday afternoon.

Merry Sunshine Girls Plan Family Picnic

Despite rainy weather, there was a good turnout for the meeting of the Merry Sunshine Girls Club on Thursday evening, June 18 at the Charles Kiesow home. Only five members were absent.

The business meeting was presided over by president, Mrs. Lawrence Neuschwander. Each member gave a household hint as her name was called during roll call. Next month a favorite recipe will be submitted by each member for roll call.

Fiction readers ask for:

Soon to be on the most-often-requested list are:

"The Life and Death of Lenin" by Payne; "Before the Colors Fade," by Ayer, Jr...(Geo. Patton, Jr.): "Moorings Old and New," Knaplund (Memoirs of Norway and persons and places); "The Savage Place," Slaughter; "Accident," Janeway; "The Night of the Generals; "Barry Goldwater," by McDowell; Mr. Kennedy and the Negroes," Golden. "The Silent World" Cousteau and Dumas, reveals secrets of the deep seas; "Spawn of Evil" by Wellman, tells about outlaws of years back; "Magnificent Masquerade," Keats, unveils the McKesson & Robbins debacle; Cruising Fun for the Family" by Owens, is a complete guide to boating fun.

There are many, many books available for your summer reading pleasure. Summer-time is energy-saving time for many people. The warm sunlight tends to make our energy evaporate and mental effort is about the only kind we're capable of putting forth.

Reading habits, like most habits (good and bad), are begun in the formative years. Parents should set good reading examples for their offspring, just as parents set other examples. If parents read, children will. If parents do not, they should, neverthe-less, encourage their children to do so. Help your children choose subjects they are most interested in...and point out the rewards of studying those subjects, of learning as much about them as they can. Help them choose books and reading materials which will aid them in their search for knowledge.

Parents should ask them questions which enable them to tell about their intellectual findings. Parents should engage them in conversations and ask them questions which encourage them to want to know more...to find out "what makes the world go 'round".

Your library has a biographical collection, written by Augusta Stevenson, published by Bobbs-Merrill, which will help parents help their children! Each book contains the life story of an important person in American history. The back of the books contain a question section, a research section, a projects section and a glossary. The volumes are educational, inspirational and recreational.

Summer time is a wonderful time...the flowers love it, the birds sing about it and people read about it! Find out more about the flowers, the birds and people...visit your library and borrow a book about all three!

See you at the library, any time from noon until 7 p.m., every day but Saturday.

FLUORIDE VITAMIN DROPS

Q. Is it safe to give vitamin drops with added fluoride to babies?

A. Yes, under certain circumstances. Such products should be used only in areas where the fluoride content of drinking water is known. Dosage of the fluoride-containing drops can then be regulated so that the baby does not receive too much fluoride. Excessive amounts of fluoride may cause mottling of tooth enamel and, in great excess, may cause bone changes. It is therefore important to know how much fluoride the baby is receiving from all sources.

NAIL GROWTH

Q. Do the fingernails grow faster in summer than in winter months?

A. We know of only one long-term study of nail growth: that of a physician who measured and recorded growth of his left thumbnail at monthly intervals for 20 years. There were no seasonal changes in rate of growth. However, a sharp decline in nail growth rate began at age 49, and seemed to continue with advancing age.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

The diplomatic recognition of Communist China by France should not be disturbing to us. Prior to this action 48 other nations had already extended such recognition to the Asian Colossus. And among these 48 are some of our best friends.

They include England, the Netherlands, all three of the Scandinavian countries, Finland and Switzerland. Our northern neighbors, the Canadians, have not gone all the way in diplomatic recognition, but they are moving in that direction, and recognize the Chinese to the extent that for several years they have been doing business with their government. And it seems to have been a profitable business.

Our unwillingness to recognize Red China formally may be due to commitments made to the nationalist Chinese who were driven out of China by the Reds and established themselves on the Island of Formosa. That certainly is not a realistic solution and it should not be considered as permanent. In the meantime we can see no good reason why we and the Red Chinese cannot talk to each other across the fence and exchange visits.

For years there was strong opposition in our country to the recognition of Communist Russia. That recognition started on a very limited scale and gradually was extended. Now we are getting along fairly well with the Russians and their satelite nations in East Europe, several of which we have now recognized diplomatically. Recognizing Communist Russia was not a mistake and I am satisfied it would not be a mistake to recognize Red China, gradually.

The Wall Street Journal tells us that seat belts are being tested in the rear seats of 25 Chicago Yellow cabs. If riders use them, and suffer fewer injuries as a result, cab companies will ask liability insurers for lower rates.

That will be an experiment in which all motorists should be interested. If the Chicago experiment proves that the use of seat belts in the back seat will result in fewer injuries, then the use of seat belts in private, as well as public cars, will be encouraged, and that should result in cuts in insurance costs for the owners of private cars as well as the cab companies.

Members of the Senate are concerned about the public reactions to the Bobby Baker scandal, as reported by the United Press International. The report states:

"The suspicion of moral laxity weighs on the members in the wake of disclosures in the Bobby Baker case in which the resigned senate Democratic secretary amassed a fortune at least on paper while drawing a comparatively modest salary.

"Shaken by evidence of crass commercialism in their midst, senators are debating ways of preventing future abuses and restoring public confidence in the morality of the legislative branch."

As a curb on dishonest practices by members, a Senate Committee proposes along with a code of ethics, a requirement that the members each year make a public accounting of their income. According to the (UPI) report:

"President Harry S. Truman in 1951, in the era of the Gen. Harry Vaughn gift-taking scandals, sent congress a message recommending that all top government officials, including members of congress, "file annually a statement of their total income..."

"A paragraph from that message might be applicable today. It reads:

'Public office is a privilege, not a right. And people who accept the privilege of holding office in the government must of necessity expect that their entire conduct should be open to inspection by the people they are serving."

All of which poses some interesting questions. If a person were inclined to be dishonest it wouldn't be difficult for him to so arrange his affairs that a disclosure-of-income report might be factual but still deceptive. Senator and Vice President Johnson has been quite frank about his financial fortunes during his years of public service. He built up a comfortable little ranch in Texas, which did not represent an unreasonable accumulation of wealth.

He has pointed with pride to the financial wizardry to his wife, who, during that period of time built up a $17,000 investment in a radio station into a radio-television empire worth millions of dollars. And it might be that this outstanding success was due entirely to her good management.

But it so happened that during this period of time Senator Lyndon Johnson was Bobby Baker's boss, and Bobby Baker was Senator Lyndon Johnson's errand boy. It also appears that during this period of time the radio and television empire of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson received several very favorable rulings by federal agencies that control radio and television charters.

Using theses coincidences as examples of what unscrupulous public officials might do to cover up the actual facts as to their income during their period of public service, strengthens the position of those who acknowledge that they have little confidence in the "disclosure-of-income" requirement as a guarantee of honesty. Speaking on this point, Senator Wayne Morse, a Democrat from the state of Oregon, made the following statement:

"The public is not fooled. They know that Bobby Baker is small potatoes and that if this inquiry ends with him, it will be because the senate was anxious to protect its members, even at the expense of one of its favorite hirelings."

The Bobby Baker scandal is worrying the Democrats, and that is good. They should be worried to the extent that they make no effort to whitewash the record but make a sincere effort to disclose all of the facts. The public has a right to know.

"Buried" Pioneer Cabin Featured in Heritage Center

Cabin Appeared in 1963 When House Built Around It Was Leveled by Owners

An 1878 homestead log cabin with a fascinating background is a featured attraction of the Red River Vallye Agricultural Heritage center housed in the Red River Valley Winter Shows building and premises in Crookston, on of the largest such centers in the Midwest.

Grand opening and dedication of the center will be held Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day.

In 1878, Ed Lommen and his father built this log cabin west of Crookston along the old River Road which became the first highway to Grand Forks. Indians still had their settlements in the woods along the river back of the cabin.

In 1896, Lommen received title from the railroads for the farm he settled. Some time in the period 1878-1896, Lommen decided the cabin was too small. Rather than tear it down, the family built its farm home around it. The cabin, a part of the farm house living room walls, disappeared for over 70 years.

In 1898, Chris Tvedten, pioneer Crookston area farmer, bought the farm. The Tvedtens, who still own the farm, were completely unaware of the cabin in their farm home walls. In the fall of 1963, the family decided to tear down the now vacant farm houe. The cabin appeared as the house walls came down. After being buried for nearly 70 years the sturdy, solid oak, pioneer log cabin once again saw the light of day.

The Red River Heritage foundation moved it into heritage center and it now stands there fully restored and fully furnished with authentic pioneer homestead furniture.

More on Ore-Ida at Lake Bronson

(Kittson County Enterprise)

Ore-Ida Food Products, Inc., of Burley, Idaho has stopped construction work at the site of its Lake Bronson plant which is located just at the south edge of that village, approximately a mile from the town's limits.

Here local people who have been associated with Ore-Ida and especially the legal firm of Brink & Sobolik who have represented the firm in obtaining lands and options, as well as the Northwestern State Bank of Hallock which firm has worked closely with the Ore-Ida people said they had no information of any kind whatsoever and knew nothing more than has been published in a number of metropolitan daily newspapers.

It is known that Ore-Ida has spent in the neighborhood of $225,000 acquiring land which was purchased outright and also obtaining options on other lands in this county, most of which is in the Lake Bronson area. The firm owns outright something like 11,000 acres more of land and options on an additional acreage of 11,000 more acres.

In addition to this the firm had employed the Adamson Construction Company of Grafton to build the plant, awarding that firm a $350,000 contract to build the factory which Ore-Ida people said would cost in the neighborhood of $2,500,000. This contractor had moved some of his equipment to the factory site, erected two tool houses there. Other contractors had started excavating huge areas for the construction of storage cellars.

New Factory to Hire Indians

(Mahnomen Pioneer)

Northern Products Corporation, Naytahwaush, got its "official" start at open house ceremonies held last Saturday. The new factory, which is expected to employ from 12 to 20 persons in manufacturing such items as hospital gowns, smocks, gift aprons, cloth covers for stuffed dolls, and other sewed items, is located in the former Naytahwaush Community Center building.

The idea behind the establishment of the firm is to "bring the work to the workers." Since the plant was set up last fall, workers have been going through a training program, during which time they have been paid on an hourly scale. Once a worker completes the training period, the pay scale changes to a piece work basis.

The establishment of the plant is the "first" in Minnesota, its being the first factory established on an Indian reservation through the investment of private capital in cooperation with government agencies. Machine operators at the plant are women, who are at least one-quarter Indian blood. This is a part of the agreement in establishing the factory.

Car Crashes Into Store at East Grand Forks

(East Grand Forks Herald)

An out of control car crashed into a fence and shop at the rear of Giese's Hardware early Sunday morning causing damage estimated at about $7,000.

Police said the driver of the car apparently was intoxicated. He was treated later at a Grand Forks hospital for a cut over his right eye. No charges had been filed by Tuesday.

Loss to Giese's Hardware included boats, trailers, lawn mowers, and boat motors plus the brick wall.

Heavy Rains in Roseau County

(Roseau County Times Region)

A total of 5.95 inches of rain in Roseau, more in some parts of the county, less in other, has halted building, damaged some crops, slowed haying to a later date and caused some farmers near Greenbush to petition for opening of soil bank land to cutting of hay, it is reported.

While many farms show some crop damage, an overall picture of total damage cannot be made at this writing. Sunshine and light winds have improved the picture and some fields have already begun to come out of the ricepaddy stage.

Crop Damage is Heavy at Stephen

(Stephen Messenger)

No estimate can be made of crop damage at this time. Some farm acreages are mud flats with no grain showing at all. Countless acres are under water, and countless more acres show the rows of grain standing in water.

If the rains stop soon, probably considerable crop will be salvaged even though water has been standing on it for a time. Last fall's severe drought, coupled with the three-week period from mid-May to June 6 without a drop of rain, left the land in condition to absorb an unusual amount of moisture.

Hotel Destroyed by Fire at Bemidji

(Bemidji Sentinel)

A fire of undetermined origin gutted the Lakeview Hotel, 403 Bemidji avenue, late Sunday afternoon, leaving upwards of 100 persons homeless.

Most escaped with little more than their lives as the flames mushroomed quickly through the three story structure. At the height of the blaze the flames were shooting 30 to 50 feet above the roof of the building and were visible for miles around.

Huge crowds watched the entire Bemidji fire department fight a winning battle to contain the blaze to the hotel structure itself. The Lakeview apartments, damaged by fire two years ago, were spared and received only minor smoke damage. Residents of the seven apartments returned to their homes Monday.

Damage was unofficially estimated by fire officials at $25,000 or over and personal property loss will total many thousands of dollars.

Tax Receipts up in Marshall County

(Warren Sheaf)

Tax collections in Marshall County reached an all-time high for the June settlement period with payments totaling $715,382.88 or $52,389.61 more than for the same period in 1963 when the total was $662,993.27, J. W. Sands, county treasurer, reported this week.

Youngster Killed in Farm Accident

(Fertile Journal)

Eight year old Grant Calmer Johnson, of Beltrami, was killed in a farm accident last Friday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calmer Johnson and died about 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Grant's father was unloading metal for a new quonset on their farm. Mr. Johnson was operating a hoist truck and didn't notice young Grant climb on the load and as the truck bed was being lifted the boy was caught between the load and a ceiling beam where it was being unloaded. Mr. Johnson said that he had last seen the boy going to the house.

They will leave July 7.

A number of "Holidays" will be conducted this summer on Lake Minnetonka, near Minneapolis, by the newspapers' circulation supervisors to reward qualified carriers throughout the Upper Midwest for extra sales effort.

Each boy will receive water safety instructions, including water skiing lessons, from qualified instructors. All carriers will be required to wear life jackets while in or near the water. A qualified lifeguard will supervise each swimming period.

Rain Succeeded By Hot Weather During Past Week

High temperatures and lack of rainfall have taken over the weather picture in northwestern Minnesota since Wednesday with temperatures for the period climbing into the 80's and 90's. No relief from the heat is in the immediate forecast, which calls for variable cloudiness, scattered thundershowers, and a high today of 88 to 98 degrees.

Daily high and low temperatures recorded by the North Central Airlines weather station at the municipal airport are as follows: 83 and 53 on Wdnesday, 89 and 56 on Thursday, 88 and 58 on Friday, 89 and 59 on Saturday, 90 and 68 on Sunday and a low Monday morning of 70. No precipitation has been recorded during this period.

NATIONAL GUARD weapons include the M-1 rifle and TRF guardsmen keep their rifles spotlessly clean. Falls guard unit armorer, Sgt. David Sheridan, checks the weapon of Pfc. Russell D. Wollin, a cook for the unit, who carries the M-1 into the field during maneuvers. Minnesota's 9,000-man division returned from its annual field training exercises Sunday. Academy Trains Future Officers for National Guard and Army Reserve

Douglas Remick

Douglas B. Remick, Thief River Falls, a member of Co. B., 2nd Bn., 136th Infantry, Minnesota National Guard, has been accepted as a cadet in the Minnesota Military academy and entered the first phase of training at Camp Ripley.

The Minnesota Military academy is operated by the national guard as a training center for future officers of the national guard and army reserve. Sixty-six Minnesota guardsmen and three reservists are enrolled in the junior class which began a 54-week study program with the opening of field training at Camp Ripley. The enlisted men will spend 15 days in this exercise and complete their studies as seniors at the 1965 summer camp.

Between the two field periods, the men will attend nine weekend sessions at the East Maryland Avenue armory in St. Paul.

The course consists of 341 hours of classroom and field training under the direction of Capt. Robert L. Blevins, Minneapolis, superintendent of the academy. The course is established by the Army Infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga. Four experienced officers serve as instructors.

Upon completion of the course, the men will be eligible for commissions as second lieutenants in the national guard when openings ocfur. The eight classes which completed the military school graduated 319 young men to be commissioned officers.

Asks Prevention Of Fireworks Use This July Fourth

Insurance Official Says No Such Thing As "Safe And Sane" Fireworks

Usual toll of blinded and maimed youngsters and adults can be expected this July 4 unless parents and officials take adequate steps to prevent use of dangerous fireworks, the accident prevention director of one of America's largest insurance companies said today.

"There is no such thing as 'safe and sane' fireworks'", stated the accident prevention director of the company. "As in past years, hundreds of children and adults will be blinded, burned and injured because of July 4 fireworks accidents".

"Fireworks accidents remain with us because both children and their parents are careless, and because many towns, counties and states have neglected to adopt or enforce proper ordinances or regulations," he charged.

Some parents illegally transport fireworks into their state where they are prohibited by purchasing them in a neighboring state where their sale is wide open.

Speaking for the Allstate Safety crusade, Edward R. Klamm said, "Fireworks accidents continue to take a toll which is tragic and senseless". In the states where fireworks laws have not been enacted, parents are urged by Klamm to pay special attention to what type of Fourth of July items their children are buying and to assume responsibility in controlling their use.

The traditional family celebration should be conducted by an adult who can control all displays. Small children should be kept at a safe distance from all fireworks, the safety expert cautioned. Even the harmless-looking sparklers are not fit toys for children. They burn at a temperature of 1,650 degrees, which is nearly hot enough to melt copper.

Miss Megon Opfer Attends Parish Education Forum

Trinity Youth Director Visits Northfield for National Institute

Miss Megon Opfer, youth director at Trinity Lutheran church, attended the National parish education institute conducted by the Department of Parish Education of the American Lutheran church at St. Olaf college, at Northfield June 19-22. Approximately 145 people from 22 states and three provinces of Canada were in attendance. These people were especially appointed representatives of the 19 districts of the American Lutheran church. Miss Opfer is a member of the team trained for the Northern Minnesota district.

Those attending the institute will in turn train approximately 240 teams of six members each from the conferences of the American Lutheran church this summer. These teams will train congregational leaders this fall and in this manner, leadership will be offered to approximately 104,000 teachers and administrators of the 5,300 congregations of the church.

In an effort to supply the needs expressed by the congregations of the American Lutheran church, the leadership education program in 1964 will offer six courses—three to be taught in congregations and three dealing with responsibilities to be taken in congregations. Under the former are "The Bible, Book of Faith," "Introduction to Church School Teaching," and "Decision Making: Steps in Problem Solving for Church Groups."

The latter three will be "The Laymen's Workshop on Confirmation," "The Senior High Curriculum" and "Adult Education Potentials." "The Bible, Book of Faith" is also the theme for Parish Education month (September) in the American Lutheran church.

T RECREATION F

by Jim Foley
Park and Recreation Director

This past week has been a busy week in our summer recreation program. Rain caused the cancellation of many games, causing both our Midget and Pee Wee teams to be far behind schedule. We hope to get caught up this week. Any boys playing in the Pee Wee or T-Ball leagues who are not sure what time they play should call the park and recreation office at 681-4816.

Any girls wishing to be included on a softball team should call Cathy Simon at 681-3572 or the recreation office. There are two Leagues set up for girls. One is for those age 12 and under, the other for girls age 15 and under.

We had fine weather at the baseball clinic held last Friday at the fairgrounds, and about 90 boys attended. Many of the basic fundamentals of the game were covered. Instructors for the clinic were Bob Gaarder, Joe Poole and Bill Herzog.

With the advent of summer, horseback riders are to be seen everywhere. However, we would like to remind the local horseback riders to keep the horses out of the parks and off the ball fields. In the past week there have been several instances of horses tearing up the grass in the parks and in the parkway on Third Street East. The infield of the lighted baseball field at the fairgrounds also was torn up quite badly. We are asking the cooperation of all horse owners to please keep their animals out of the parks and off athletic fields. Your cooperation will be appreciated.

Final Notices for the Week:

Boat Safety Class: The classes will be held at Tindolph beach beginning Friday at 9 a.m. This class is open to all boys and girls interested in learning the proper and safe manner of using a boat.

Diving Class: These classes will also be held at Tindolph beach; first session Saturday at 9 a.m. Boys and girls interested must first be able to pass the swimmer test. This will be the only restriction for registration.

Archery Shoot: Archery class meets Thursday at 7 p.m. at the archery range at the west end of the fairgrounds. Boys and girls interested in registering for this class simply call the recreation office.

Treasure Hunt: There will be a treasure hunt Friday at Riverside park at 2:30 p.m. The event is open to boys and girls aged seven and older. The treasure hunt will be confined to the limits of Riverside park. There is no charge and everyone is encouraged to attend.

Adult Swimming Class: Registration Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. Classes will meet every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p.m.

June 30, Bea's Food Market vs. Hartz Stores.
July 1, V.F.W. vs. Thorp Loan.
July 2, Rasmussen Ins. vs. Bridgeman's.

The league-leading Bea's Food Market squad took a "stranglehold" on the city softball league title last week by scoring a 5 to 1 win over the V. F. W. The win boosted the Bea's into a two-game lead in the league standings.

A minor surprise was recorded last week when the Hartz Stores, behind the one-hit pitching of Kermit Malberg, defeated the Bridgeman's, 11 to 1. And this week, on Tuesday evening, the Hartz Stores will meet the Bea's, and this game could develop into a first-rate pitcher's duel between Wiley Bogie of the Bea's and Malberg of the Hartz.

The Bridgeman's hold down second place in the league standings, having a one-half game lead over the Vets. The Vets and the Bridgeman's have a pair of face-to-face meetings remaining on the schedule, with one game being a re-scheduling of a postponed game and a regularly scheduled game for July 23. The league title hopes of either team could hinge on the outcome of these two games.

State To Receive $452,960 To Aid Wildlife Program

Minnesota will receive $452,960 in Pittman-Robertson and Dingell-Johnson federal aid funds for fish and wildlife restoration projects July 1, according to the Minnesota department of conservation.

The allotment is Minnesota's share of $14,200,000 in such funds to be apportioned to the states for use beginning July 1, with the balance of the apportionment for the year to be made this fall.

Preliminary distribution enables states with small reserve funds to finance their federal-aid operations during the intervening months.

Fish and wildlife restoration funds are derived from federal excise taxes collected from manufacturers, importers and producers of certain types of hunting and fishing equipment. Distribution of the funds is based on a formula involving the number of paid license holders in a state and on the state's area.

For the July distribution, Minnesota will receive $153,362 for fish restoration projects and $299,598 for wildlife projects. Under the program, the states spend their own funds on federally-approved projects and are then reimbursed for up to 75 per cent of the cost.

The big surge in last week's play was made by the Soo Line squad of Arnie Lee, Earle Anderson, Stan Cockrell and Ben Heyn, with the foursome posting a 138-stroke net. Red Lake County Development Plan Now Completed provide greater educational efforts in modern farm techniques.

School dropout is a problem in this county as elsewhere in this highly technological era. A special program is called for to assist those who leave school and to provide counseling and special courses for low achievers and those in need of remedial reading and speech therapy.

A note of moderation is felt throughout the report. These people are not asking for massive financial support by outside agencies and neither are they supporting a hasty search for "new businesses." They are calling for education and understanding of the problem.

Of course they want to obtain new industry for the area. And they do have advantages to offer for the mixed light industry they hope to interest. For example, they have a large labor force that is willing to work. They have lower wage levels, due to the lower cost of living, which could work an advantage for any new business ventures. And in some instances they have natural resources to offer which would facilitate certain new industry.

If the theme of the report were boiled down to a short sentence it might be: "We've fallen behind the times and it's up to us to help ourselves to catch up."

The Red Lake county OSEDP, its writers feel, is a first step in the right direction which should allow each resident of the county, now and in the future, to profit by its forthrightness.

Legion Juniors Win Two Games, Lose One

Coach Ralph Skay's local junior baseball squad, boasting a five wins and two losses record will put in a busy week on the Fairgrounds diamond, having six home games on the week's slate.

On Monday evening the juniors will play a doubleheader, meeting Newfolden in a Northwest American Legion junior league game at 6 p.m., and then playing the Moorhead juniors in the night-cap at 8 p.m. On Tuesday evening, with game time at 8 p.m., the Warren juniors will play here in a league game. On Wednesday evening another doubleheader is on the bill, with Grand Forks and Detroit Lakes playing here. The locals play coach Marv Skaar's Grand Forks juniors at 6 p.m., and the Laker juniors at 8 p.m. On Thursday, 8 p.m., the defending District-champion East Grand Forks team will meet coach Skay's squad in a league game.

It was a pair of wins and a loss for the local juniors in the games played last week. In a game played at Moorhead on Wednesday evening, the locals, turning in their finest performance of the season, defeated the Spuds, 12 to 4, behind the four-hit pitching of Rick Jensen. The locals clubbed a pair of Moorhead hurlers for 14 hits, with John Aune and Paul Klungness poling out triples.

On Thursday night, on the Fairgrounds diamond, coach Jerry Snyder's Middle River club, on a pair of doubles in the ninth inning, defeated the locals, 4 to 3, in a Northwest league game. Bert Gjovik opened the Middle River ninth inning by looping a two-base hit into center field. Pat Fisheer, who collected 11 strikeouts in the 4 and one third innings he hurled in relief, struck out Bob Engelstad and Bruce Lunsetter, but Ron Lorenson, lining a double to left center, drove in Gjovik with the game-winning tally.

Playing at Crookston on Friday evening, in a league game, righthander Tommy Cummings pitched the locals to a one-hit no-run, 6 to 0, win. The lone Crookston hit, by Norm Newell, came with two men out in the seventh inning, and was of the scratch variety. Newell hit a nubber down the first-base line, and Cummings and Mike Benke both made a play on the ball, with Benke making the pickup but losing the race to the first-base bag.

The local club banged out nine hits, driving starter Doug Sorenson off the mound in the fifth inning.

Paul Klungness, JohnAune and Benke. Klungness and Aune clouted triples and Benke and Aune connected for doubles.

Ready for the Engraving

The Bea's Food Market softball team has just about clinched the city league title, and the engravers can get ready to put the legend on the trophy - champions of 1964". The Bea's took a great stride in the trophy direction on Wednesday evening when they defeated the Vets, 5 to 1. That win, coupled with the Hartz Stores' 11 to 1 win over Bridgeman's, just about put manager Mark Selkness' squad beyond reach of the Bridgeman's Vets, Hartz and Hamm's.

It isn't all over though, for the Bea's have a game coming up on Tuesday night against Hartz Stores, and if Kermit Malberg has the stuff that he put on exhibition against the Bridgeman's, well, a loss for the Bea's isn't an improbability. Against Bridgeman's, Malberg tossed a one-hitter giving up a scratch hit.

And, of course, the Bea's have a game remaining with Bridgeman's, and which will be played on July 6. You can wager that Bob and John and the rest of the Bridgeman's will be primed for this game.

The local teams, the Vets and the Grain Belt Beer, turned in creditable performances in the Jaycees Invitational softball tournament at Crookston on Sunday. Both teams won their opening games in the championship bracket. The Vets, with Kermit Malberg pitching, defeated the Crookston Eagles, 14 to 4; and then, with Wiley Bogle pitching, side-lined the Rock's Jewelry of Crookston, 10 to 0. In a semi-finals game against the East Grand Forks Merchants, the Vets, with Bogle pitching, dropped a 4 to 3 decision to lefty Jack Herliby.

The Grain Belt Beer team, trailing by an 8 to 2 score after four innings of play against the Coke Bar of Grand Forks, rallied to tied the game at 9-all, and in the last half of the seventh inning, with Gary Glungness on base, Dick Williams poled a home run to center field to win the game, 11 to 9. Bob Carlson, who came on in relief of starter John Drury, was the winner.

In a game that was nip-and-tuck until the final out, the Grain Belt lost to the veteran Kershner Construction of Detroit Lakes, 3 to 2, and moved out of contention. Drury, pitching for the locals, should have been a winner, but he was given loose support, with several fly balls being dropped, and against the Kershners, errors prove costly.

But Drury and Carlson and crew will be in action this evening, Monday, at the East Side diamond when, as the Bridgeman's, they will meet the Hamm's Beer squad.

A Loss for Area Baseball

The decision of Supt. C. P. Mickelson of Crookston to resign his position as school head at Crookston and accept a similar position at Owatonna, must be recorded as a loss for area baseball. Mickelson was a baseball enthusiast, and he was instrumental in keeping the sport at a high level at Crookston, and his absence will surely be felt in District 31 baseball circles in general, and by Crookston Pirates' baseball in particular.

In the years that he has been at Crookston, the Pirates have been the toughest competition for the Prowlers, and in 1958, 1960, and 1961, the Pirates were the District 31 champions. And in 1960 the Pirates won the Region Eight title. In addition to having a love of baseball and being an ardent fan, Mickelson, these latter years, had a personal interest in Pirates baseball for two of his sons, Peter and Chuck, were members of the Crookston squad Peter is now attending Macalester college, his dad's alma mater, and he played some fine baseball for the Macs.

And so it is good luck to Mr. Mickelson as he takes over the school reins at Owatonna, but it will seem strange to witness a Prowlers vs. Pirates baseball game without having Mickelson in the stands.

Miscellany

Don Mathieu, one of the finest all-round Prowler athletes of recent years, a letter-winner in football, baseball and hockey, has decided to enlist in the Air Force. Don had been offered a scholar- but he did not think that he was ready for college. Perhaps when he gets his Air Force stint completed he will move into college. He is a fine prospect for some college hockey squad...And Elroy Froiland, who co-captained the 1963-64 Prowler hockey squad with Don Mathieu, is leaning towards the Duluth Branch of the University of Minnesota. Elroy, too, had been tendered a scholarship by an eastern school...Rick Jensen, another of the Prowlers' three-sport athletes of last season, is all set for Gustavus Adolphus. Rick is a tough enough competitor for college play, but whether or not he will be big enough is the question.

State Drownings Through Mid-June Below Last Year

Safety Council Reports One of Safest Years in History of the Council

Recreational drownings in Minnesota through mid-June numbered 25 compared to 35 for a like period last year—one of the "safest" in the 20-year history of the water safety section of the Minnesota Safety council, Carl W. Moen, chairman of the section, has announced.

Moen, director of the conservation department's bureau of information, pointed out that desite the tremendous increase in water-oriented recreational activities during the past decade, the state has actually shown a greatly improved safety record.

During the period 1944-53, Minnesota tabulated an average of 146.9 drownings annually. In the past 10 years (1954-1963), the drowning toll declined to 117.9 annually.

"The current and continued encouraging trend is a remarkable tribute to the many volunteer programs underway in Minnesota" Moen pointed out. "Tremendous emphasis has been placed on 'Learn to Swim' classes sponsored by various civic groups and agencies, including the American Red Cross, YMCA and Jaycees. Since the vast majority of water victims are non-swimmers, the contributions of this program toward saving lives are obvious."

Moen said that boating safety, also, has received great impetus from volunteer programs sponsored by the Coast Guard auxiliary, power squadrons, sheriff's patrols and their emphasis on proper equipment and proper handling of watercraft.

Roadside Count Shows Pheasants Down 27 Per Cent

Weather During Hatching And Brooding Season To Determine Fall Population

Regular May roadside count of pheasants was down about 27 per cent from the count last year, reports Ted Shields, Minnesota game and fish director. The counts were made by conservation department game wardens, game managers and biologists who covered 3,095 miles of roads in 62 counties.

Average count this year was 107 birds per 100 miles, compared to 146 last year and 116 in 1962. The highest count since the census was begun in 1960, was in 1961 when 226 birds were seen per 100 miles.

The spring count is an indication of the breeding stock and not necessarily what the fall population will be, Shields pointed out. Weather during the hatching and brooding season in June and July has the greatest influence on the fall populations.

Bulk of the hatch this year is expected to occur the last 10 days in June. Relatively dry weather since late May over most of the prime pheasant range has favored nesting. Unless unusually wet weather is experienced during late June and early July, good reproduction should occur.

Brood routes run in the summer are the best indicators of fall pheasant numbers, Shields said. Not until these are run will the pheasant hunter have a firm idea of what to look forward to during the hunting season.

Big Ben Strikes Again

Ben Wichterman, former state representative from Plummer, is prospecting again for political office, and his claim territory this time is the office of U. S. Congressman from Minnesota's Seventh district. He has opposition, not only from incumbent Congressman Odin Langen, but from William Kjeldahl of Fergus Falls, who has filed to oppose Ben on the primary ballot.

We do not anticipate that Kjeldahl will pose any threat to Wichterman in the primary. The one-time assistant to Congresswoman Coya Knutson of Oklee seems to want to be in politics much more than people in politics want him. His association as congressional assistant to Mrs. Knutson has done him more political harm than good and he has shown a definite preference for starting near the top of the political ladder.

We acknowledge the visit of Ben Wichterman to our office last week and the opportunity for an enjoyable discussion. We also appreciate Ben's announced intention to campaign strictly on issues, for that is what the public is entitled to hear. We look forward to an interesting campaign between Langen and Wichterman, two informed men with diverse opinions and supporting evidence for each.

Since political debates have come back into style, we asked Ben if he would consider a head-on debate with Langen. The congressional aspirant indicated he would be open to such a debate after Congress adjourns its present session in Washington. We would like to hear such a debate, and are sure many others would also be interested.

Where's the Power?

When the communist element in the United States, guided from the Kremlin through carefully - selected Americans and Soviet agents, carries out its plans for conquest of the United States, where should it concentrate its efforts to be the most successful? This is a matter about which all of us should be concerned, for our future and the future of our children.

When attacking an army spread along front lines, an opposing army will attempt to determine the most vulnerable spots. Since communism is waging an attack on America, it is logical that our most vulnerable spots will be hit the hardest. What are these most vulnerable points?

There is no question that our youth of today is a prime target for propaganda, particularly in the high school and college level. Education has become somewhat sacred in our society—so much so that questions of subversion can be stifled with comments on "academic freedom" and "the right of the inquiring mind".

There is also no question that the "inquiring mind" is quick to adapt ideologies as fact and prone to nurture cleverly-sown seeds of doubt. Socialists, communists and others can be paid publicly-supported salaries while under-mining the very society in which they are gaining their existence. It's pretty tough to beat a self-supported propaganda program. High school and college instructors are human, not deity; they can and do make mistakes; they do influence opinion to a large degree; many could disappear for refresher courses in propaganda each summer and never be missed.

Youth reaches its major period of rebellion in the late teens. The teenagers want to be non-conformists, but they want to be non-conformists as a group. They want to be free of discipline—feel old enough to make their own decisions, even if they are wrong. The communists know this, and anyone naive enough to think that they won't exploit it isn't using his power of reason. Another generation arrives very fast—and the communists are in no hurry.

It is also logical that communist infiltration of political and military positions is taking place. It follows that this avenue is also being traveled as the communists seek our nation's weak points.

Perhaps more sacred than our educational institutions in the minds of the people of our nation is our judiciary. The courts have long been considered as fair and their decisions have been the guiding authority in all levels of the nation.

Recent supreme court decisions — far from unanimous—have indicated the power which that body wields in our nation. It has the final authority in all cases regarding legal opinion, and almost anything anyone does involves the compliance with or breaking of some law or another.

Communists must have shown extreme satisfaction over several supreme court decisions during the past year. We can not say that there is or is not communist influence in that supreme body, but it is not above speculation or doubt. If the communists want positions of power, the supreme court offers the supreme opportunity. These court decisions are the power of the land.

A Realistic Study

Twelve sampling stations have been set up in Minnesota by the state department of health in cooperation with the departments of agriculture and conservation. The stations will be used to assess the levels and extent of pesticide pollution in waters of the state.

Sampling stations have been set up on the Rainy river near Baudette; Kawishiwi river outlet at Fall lake near Winton; Red river at Oslo; Mississippi river at Itasca state park, Minneapolis and Red Wing; Root river at Houston; Budd lake at Fairmont; Minnesota river at Bloomington and Mankato; Rice creek at Fridley; and Minnehaha creek near its mouth in Minneapolis.

Water samples are collected from each station once a month. Fish, bottom sediments and food chain organisms are to be collected twice a year during the spring and fall.

"It is known that hundreds of thousands of pounds of pesticides are used in Minnesota each year in agriculture, mosquito control and control of bud worm in coniferous forests," the department of health reports. "However, very little is known about the actual or potential effects of these applications on mankind or on wild and aquatic life."

In its bi-monthly report for June and July, the department notes the following information:

"Today more than 54,000 compounds employing 500 basic chemicals are on the market. Pesticide production in the United States has reached a total of one billion pounds per year.

"Without chemical control of pests it is estimated that the production in the United States of apples, citrus fruits, cotton and potatoes would be reduced by 50 per cent; of meat, milk and wool, by 25 per cent. In forests, insects, if unchecked, would take a heavy toll.

"Pesticides are credited also with bringing profound health benefits to mankind. It is estimated that 5 million lives have been saved and 100 million illnesses have been prevented through the use of DDT for controlling malaria, typhus, dysentery and many other diseases.

"However, unrestricted and careless use of pesticides can be dangerous. Not all pesticides are poisonous to humans but many are. Deaths attributed to improper use of pesticides are reported each year. Many of these deaths occur in children who accidentally get hold of a pesticide and drink it and among pesticide sprayers who fail to follow established safety rules. Similarly, pesticides may affect aquatic and wildlife if there is undue exposure."

"For a doctor to allow anything extraneous to his own conscience and skill, to dictate to him how to function as a doctor would be as immoral as for a writer to allow anything beyond his own conscientious beliefs to dictate to him what to put down as truth." —Frank Morriss in "The Register"

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"A couple of weeks ago I was completely mad for Charlie," confided a teenager to her friend, "and now I can't stand him at all. Isn't it funny how changeable men are?"
